OUTLAW CAMP — Sonoma State College students have turned a field across the street from the college into an improvised and illegal camp grounds. They report little luck in finding conventional housing and have no other place to park vans, busses and campers. College officials wanted to move the group onto campus, but found state law would not permit it because of the absence of flush toilets. Students expect Sonoma sheriff deputies will soon order them off the land.

2-China Policy Handed To U.N. By U.S. Delegate

Japan Strengthens Resolutions By Agreeing To Be Co-Sponsor

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)— The United States formally submitted Wednesday its companion resolutions designed to save a seat for Nationalist China in the U.N. General Assembly while admitting the Chinese Communists to membership.

The two resolutions went to the U.N. Secretariat for publication after Japan announced that it would join 12 other cosponsors of the move. The Japanese decision, announced in Tokyo, provided much needed impetus for the U.S. drive.

The texts were not immediately made public. They were to go before the Assembly for debate on Oct. 18, with the historic vote expected by the end of the month.

In one resolution, the U.S. agrees to the seating of the Communist Chinese in both the General Assembly and the Security Council. The other would require a hard-to-get two-third vote for the assembly to expel the Nationalist Chinese from the United Nations.

An Albanian resolution with 19 co-sponsors, published weeks ago, calls for the "restoration of the lawful rights" of the Peking government and the complete ousting of the Taiwan (Formosa) regime from all U.N. bodies.

U.S. Ambassador George Bush said he expected a "flexible" attitude from Peking on the dual representation issue.

Japan's decision to co-sponsor the U.S. resolutions was taken by Prime Minister Eisaku Sato despite opposition from within his own political party and from other Japanese leaders. They argued that President Nixon's projected visit to Peking showed that Washington was moving toward closer relations with Mainland China. Japan, they felt, would have to do likewise and should do nothing to offend the Peking government, such as joining the "Save -The -Nationalists" move.

Busch said Japan's decision destroyed the myth that washington's "Two-China" plan was an "unwinnable proposition."

Sonoma State Crisis: Student Housing

By BONNIE BARD

The annual mad scramble is on at Sonoma State College with students finding it harder than ever to find housing and jobs.

With a record setting 5,000 students on campus, college officials have called the housing and job situation critical. Students can only agree as they search for reasonably priced living quarters and jobs that will help them pay their way through college. Many consider the situation desperate.

More than 100 students a day pass through the office of student employment director Adele Davis. "What am I going to do with all these kids?," she asked rhetorically. "It's simply impossible this year."

Mrs. Davis said the job market opened up slightly in the beginning of September, but not in proportion to the number of students seeking work.

"We have students with all kinds of skills . . . There's hardly a job request that we can't fill," she said. "Many of our students are older and have some experience in some field. They're not choosy at all," Mrs. Davis said. Some have taken jobs as live-in domestics as a way of solving both housing and job problems.

"Keep checking, is the byword of the office as students stream through asking, "find anything for me yet?"

Most report they have little or no support from their families and when summer job savings are depleted, some will be forced to drop out.

Mrs. Davis feels the ailing economy of Sonoma County caused the job squeeze. "Unempoyment is running at about 7.5 per cent right now and could go well over 10 per cent this winter," she said. "Business is bad here and people simply aren't hiring."

She said that men moonlighting to augment their main source of income have taken jobs that would naturally have been filled by students a few years ago.

Mrs. Davis feals that some employers are afraid to hire Sonoma State students. "They think they're all hippie freaks," she said.

A bulletin board outside the office lists current job openings, but the cards are grabbed nearly as quick as they are posted.

A young coed read one where a working mother seeks a babysitter four days a week from 5 p.m. to midnight. "It only pays 75 cents an hour, but it's better than nothing. At least I can study after the children go to bed," she said carrying the card to a pay telephone to set up an interview.

The college itself is the biggest source of employment with nearly 400 students on the payroll through the work-study program and teaching assistant jobs.

For many, the first week of classes was a maze of registration lines, classroom mixups, job hunting and camping out in tents until permanent quarters can be found.

Like the employment office, the office of housing director

STUDENT HOUSING — The sound of hammering echoes across the Sonoma State College campus, but the complex of 400 units won't be completed until September of 1972. In the meantime students are camping out in tents or living out of their cars during the search for a place to stay.

Collapse Of Tax Talks Predicted

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SACRAMENTO — Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, offering his own $533 million "mini-tax reform program," predicted yesterday that negotiations on major tax reform will "blow up" by the end of this week.

Bagley and other key legislators have been closeted with Gov. Ronald Reagan this week in negotiations over tax packages involving up to $2 billion in tax shifts and relief for property taxpayers.

The Marin legislator, also a key negotiator in the overhaul of welfare and Medi-Cal, said tax reform was "much tougher than welfare." In welfare reform, he said, the primary but loosly organized parties affected by the negotiations were the taxpayers and the poor.

But in tax reform, he said, the "total spectrum" of economic and special interests was involved, since each tax hits at someone.

Bagley predicted a "total impasse" by the 15 negotiators over who should get relief and who should be taxed more heavily.

Adding to the difficulty of reaching agreement, he said, was the political friction between a Republican governor and a Legislature controlled by Democrats.

Bagley strongly questioned the wisdom of granting property tax relief in the face of the state Supreme Court ruling that California's financing of public schools was unconstitutional because it relied on the local property tax. The court said this discriminated against poor districts.

The assemblyman pointed to estimates that the state may have to raise almost $1.5 billion in new taxes for new aid to equalize school support, saying "it just doesn't make good sense to pour $1 billion into homeowner relief this year."

The school financing issue posed by the court, which probably will mean a statewide property tax for education, will not be tackled by the Legislature until the next session, Bagley said. It's too complicated a subject to solve this late in the current session, he said.

Predicting the 1972 Legislature also will put controls on school expenditures, subjecting increased costs to voter approval, Bagley said this was "as good a property tax relief you can find."

He doubted that the U.S. Supreme Court would consider an appeal by the state to overturn the state court's ruling. The prospect of the U.S. Supreme Court accepting jurisdiction was "virtually nil" until the legal challenge to school financing comes to a legal head in other states, Bagley said. State officials still have not yet decided whether to take the ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Another potential problem blocking tax reform this year, he said, was the proposed ballot initiative to limit property taxes to 2 per cent of market value. The proposal, being circulated to qualify for next year's ballot, would require the state to impose $2.5 billion in new taxes, Bagley said.

The revenue side of his package would increase the state sales tax by a half cent, increase the bank and corporation tax by one-half per cent, replace the oil depletion allowance of 27.5 per cent with an

Illness Puts Off Otis Appearance

I-J Special Report

REDWOOD CITY — The court appearance of Sheldon P. Otis, a member of Angela Y. Davis's defense team, on felony embezzlement charges has been postponed, according to Wilbur Johnson, chief deputy district attorney of San Mateo County.

Otis had been scheduled to surrender himself to San Mateo authorities today, but he is in the intensive care center of Herrick Memorial Hospital in Berkeley, where he was admitted Saturday night.

(In Berkeley, hospital officials, who earlier had denied the attorney was there, said Otis was in fair condition, but would not discuss the nature of his illness.

(Berkeley police, questioned about rumors that Otis was suffering from an overdose of a narcotic, said they had no report of any such incident.)

Johnson said he spoke by telephone yesterday with Richmond attorney David Rosenthal, who is representing Otis in the embezzlement case.

"I have no information" on Otis's illness, Johnson reported today, other than that Rosenthal told him yesterday his client was suffering from a respiratory ailment. Rosenthal could not be reached today.

Johnson said Otis has been tentatively rescheduled to surrender himself next week.

Otis faces prosecution on two counts of embezzlement, accusing him of taking, then returning, a total of $10,000 from the accounts of the San Mateo County Legal Aid Society. Otis worked for the society until January, when he became associated with the Davis case.

Quake Recorded Off S. Mexico

BERKELEY (UPI) —The University of California seismograph station today recorded an earthquake at about 7:20 a.m. PDT.

It was located off the coast of Southern Mexico, the scientists said and had a magnitude of five on the Richter scale.

It was unlikely the tremor caused any damage, according to the Berkeley scientists.

Draft Calls May Resume Next Week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Draft calls probably will resume early next week under the new military conscription bill given final Congressional approval Tuesday, the Pentagon said today.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird began a series of meetings today to determine how many men must be called the remainder of this year.

"I expect there will be a new draft call announcement early next week," said Brig. Gen. Daniel James, a Pentagon spokesman. "It's getting intensive attention."

Ban On Burning Partly Lifted

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —State Forester Lewis Moran has partially lifted the burning ban on state protected land.

Moran ordered the state Department of Forestry to begin issuing burning permits Tuesday for state land north of the American River and in the Coast Range mountains from the Oregon border to Ventura County.

Ginger's Wind, Rain Threaten Bermuda

MIAMI (UPI)—Meandering hurricane Ginger turned westward in the Atlantic today, threatening the resort island of Bermuda with 75 mile an hour winds.

In its first public advisory on Ginger in over a week, the National Hurricane Center said the storm was located by reconnaissance planes today 350 miles east-southeast of the island "and is now less than 24 hours from striking Bermuda."

Marin Medical Society Backs Health Care Program Creation

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Marin County Medical Society has embarked on a new program to eliminate post-operative pain caused by ever-soaring medical fees and charges.

Called a "foundation for medical care," the plan is to offer Marin residents an insurance program which will guarantee full payment of doctor bills.

The idea for such a foundation is not new to Marin County or the society, which has discussed its merits and shortcomings for years.

What is new is that a large majority of Marin's physicians agree to support it in light of expanding Kaiser-Permanente programs in California and greater public acceptance of a proposed national health insurance program by the federal government.

"People want to know their bills will be paid," Donald W. Sower, executive director of the society, told the Independent-Journal last week. "The problem with insurance has been that people in a hospital or doctor's office learn (too late) they are only covered to a certain extent."

The foundation, now in its formative stages, is basically an organization of doctors banded together to offer their services for a set fee.

It would establish what those fees should be and what services should be offered and set up a policing system under which doctors' fees and practices are subject to review by a panel of fellow doctors.

The foundation then would contract with an insurance company or group of companies to market the policy to residents — primarily under group policies.

According to Sower, the main advantage of such a nonprofit program is that it would be the

Settlement Is Reached On Chicken Ranch Beach Land

Marin County supervisors, on the eve of a court battle for possession of Chicken Ranch Beach on the west shore of Tomales Bay, decided yesterday to settle for two-thirds of the strip of beach. (Another supervisors story, page 32.)

The 4-to-1 vote, with Arnold M. Baptiste dissenting, came despite the opinion of the county counsel's office that there was good chance of winning the whole 1,100-foot stretch amounting to about five acres.

The supervisors also overrode pleas by the Marin Conservation League and a group of residents of the area that they reject the compromise offered by the beach owner, Larry Marks Jr. and wait on the outcome of the trial which was to start today in Marin Superior Court.

The supervisors, in settling for two-thirds of the beach, gave Marks the right to build 15 units on the 10 acres he retains.

The majority of the supervisors decided not to hold out for the entire beach because last May 18, they had voted 3-to-2 with Baptiste and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. dissenting, to accept the compromise finally achieved yesterday.

Yesterday Arrigoni wanted to accept the 1,100 feet of beach without agreeing to a density of 15 units, and Baptiste seconded the motion. The motion was defeated by the other three supervisors.

Supervisor Michael Wornum noted that the board had previously approved 15 units. He said, "I don't see how we can go back on it now."

Wornum also pointed out that when he first started negotiating with Marks for public dedication of Chicken Ranch Beach, the conservation groups were holding out for one-third of the beach.

"Now that you've got two-thirds of the beach, you want the three-thirds of the beach," Wornum told opponents of the compromise.

On the final motion by Wornum for a partial beach dedication and permission to build 15

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Barber In Trouble

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Steve E. Martini, the barber to four presidents, has pleaded guilty to charges of embezzlement and income tax violations.

Called an "influential" counselor by former President Lyndon B. Johnson and close enough to President Nixon to ride on the Air Force One to Florida in Spring, 1970, Martini entered the guilty pleas Friday at U.S. District Court in suburban Alexandria, Va., and at the District of Columbia Superior Court.

Martini, 59, pleaded guilty to appropriating for his own use $15,000 from an estate for which he was a trustee and to failing to report tax withholdings from employees to the Internal Revenue Service.

My Lai Crossfire?

FORT MEADE, Md. (UPI) — An investigator of the 1968 My Lai massacre has testified that Col. Oran K. Henderson told him civilians killed in the operation apparently were the victims of preliminary artillery fire and a crossfire between U.S. troops and enemy forces.

Col. William Wilson testified at Henderson's court-martial on My Lai coverup charges that Henderson told him in an interview in the summer of 1969 that about 20 civilians died as a result of the operations.

His account of Henderson's report was in sharp contrast to previous testimony that the death of unarmed civilians totaled more than 100.

Wilson was another in a long line of witnesses for the prosecution in the fifth week of government efforts to prove that Henderson did not adequately investigate the My Lai sweep on March 16, 1968.

Godfrey To Leave Radio Show

NEW YORK (UPI) — Arthur Godfrey will end his daily radio show in April after 27 years of continuous programming, CBS radio announced yesterday.

Godfrey

"Radio is a great medium," said Godfrey, 68. "But a seven-day-a-week radio program is just too confining."

CBS said Godfrey will make television specials for the Chrysler Corp. and work on other television projects.

In 1929 Godfrey began his career with WFBR in Baltimore and he has been with CBS radio since he joined WJSV in Washington, D.C., in 1934. He began "Arthur Godfrey Time" in 1945 and it has been a regular radio feature since.

To See Gromyko

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers will sound out Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko on the possibilities of arranging a conference to reduce NATO and Warsaw Pact forces in Europe, State Department officials said today.

The Soviet foreign minister will be Rogers's guest at a working dinner at the Waldorf Towers Friday. Both will be in New York to attend the U.N. General Assembly session.

A meeting will be held in Brussels beginning Oct. 5 at which the deputy foreign ministers of the NATO alliance are expected to discuss the subject of a conference on reducing troops in Europe.

Hirings Fo Attica

ATTICA, N.Y. (UPI) — A freeze on state government jobs will be lifted in order that more prison guards may be hired following the Attica state prison revolt, a spokesman for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said Tuesday.

The spokesman said 107 vacant positions in the Correctional Services Department will be filled, but he did not specify how many would be sent to Attica. Officials at the prison said it was understaffed by 36 men when the riot broke out there Sept. 9.

Refuses To Resign

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Prime Minister Hilmar Baunsgaard refused to resign today and advised King Frederik IX his three-party center-right government would await the outcome of an election recount.

After spending 22 minutes with the 71-year-old monarch at Amalienborg castle, Baunsgaard told newsmen he would advise the Monarch Friday when the result of the recount has been published.

Baunsgaard said the result of Tuesday's general election "was so close that a recount might completely change the picture. There is no need to rush headlong into a resignation."

Reason For Raids

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. command said today American planes carried out the heaviest raids in six months north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), partly because North Vietnam had increased its antiaircraft guns by 40 per cent in less than two months.

A U.S. command spokesman said the damage had not been assessed from Tuesday's raids against missile sites, supply areas and gun positions.

"The number of antiaircraft guns within 35 miles of the Demilitarized Zone had increased almost 40 per cent since Aug. 1, 1971," the communique said.

The command reported a "growning frequency of hostiles action against our aircraft" in the North Vietnamese panhandle.

Brezhnev On Tour

BELGRADE (UPI) — Leonid I. Brezhnev arrived today to start three months of diplomatic travels by the Kremlin leadership. The Communist party chief was met by President Tito with hugs and kisses.

Tito and Brezhnev exchanged handshakes, bear-hugs as the Soviet leader stepped down from his Ilyushin-62 jetliner in brilliant weather.

Terror Continues

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Sniping and bombing attacks last night and today wounded two British soldiers and two policemen and damaged several buildings, including the U.S. consulate, an army spokesman said.

The Northern Ireland government last night issued a statement reaffirming its policy of "containment of terror" in the province. It came on the eve of a two-day emergency debate on Northern Ireland in the British Parliament.

Today's recall of Parliament in London was the first since the June, 1968, Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia. It was requested by the opposition Labor party.

Thieu Asked To Call Off Vote

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese Senate said today President Nguyen Van Thieu's position as the only candidate in the Oct. 3 presidential elections was "against the will of the people." It asked him to call off the election so new balloting with more candidates could be organized.

The senate, in a special session, passed a declaration that said if Thieu ignores their request for a new election "it will bring a more critical situation...and the country will collapse."

The resolution was passed by a vote of 28 to 3, with 28 senators absent. A number of those voting for the resolution were considered pro-Thieu senators.

Thieu was taking no chances. In his first campaign trip today he flew to Pleiku in the Central Highlands where he shook hands with Boy Scouts, sipped rice wine from giant blue ceramic jugs and donned a red and black handwoven native shirt made by a group of Montagnard women.

He also told them to vote for him and ignored the senate action in Saigon.

It appeared unlikely that Thieu would heed the plea. He has said he would resign from office if he did not receive votes from at least 50 per cent of the estimated seven million eligible voters, but has turned down similar requests from opponents that he resign and reorganize new elections.

Thieu became the only candidate when his two major opponents, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh, dropped out, charging the president with rigging the elections.

His single candidacy has caused a wave of opposition and there have been a number of demonstrations, including one yesterday in which some 300 students burned Thieu in effigy.

The senate resolution, passed in an open session, said Thieu's position as the only candidate "is against the will of the people and has exceeded limits fixed by laws." It added that if he ignores the senate and continues with his one-man campaign "it will bring a more critical situation and constitutes a threat to the country; the executive will lose its leadership and the country will collapse."

The declaration was read to the senate by Speaker Nguyen Van Huyen, a political ally of Thieu after three hours of debate.

It said the senate was calling on Thieu and his vice presidential running mate, former Prime Minister Tran Van Huong, "to respond to the right demands of the Vietnamese people and to respect the law of the nation."

A number of the senators who voted for the declaration are considered pro-Thieu.

Aviation Fuel Blaze Burns Out

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—The last tank of aviation fuel set afire by Viet Cong mortars and commandos last Monday burned itself out Tuesday night.

Cambodian troops found the bodies of three guards killed in the Viet Cong attack, military sources said. It brought to eight the total of known dead in the Communist assault on tank farms on the capital's northern edge.

Several other guards kidnaped by the Commandos were still missing, the sources said.

Explosions and fires destroyed or heavily damaged 22 storage tanks belonging to the Esso and Shell Oil companies, the sources said. Government officials said that 40 per cent of the civilian gasoline, diesel and fuel oil supplies on hand at the two tank farms and closed to 40 per cent of storage facilities were destroyed.

In all, 1.75 million gallons of fuel burned, including 325,000 gallons of high octane aviation fuel used by the country's civil airlines. The airlines said there was no plan to cut back the vital intercity cargo and passenger flights despite the heavy losses of fuel.

Chicago Seven Defendant Will Teach Course

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Chicago Seven defendant Tom Hayden has been hired to teach a political science course on Vietnam and the protest movement at Immaculate Heart College, a Roman Catholic school for women.

"He is controversial and the subject matter is controversial but this in no way lessens its validity as an undertaking of higher education," said Dr. Mary Jean Pew, chairman of the college's History and Government Department.

Hayden will teach the course one night a week for the next 15 weeks. One of the books scheduled to be used is the Pentagon Papers, the school said.

Reed Trustees Wanting Detailed Program Report

Trustees of the Reed School District, after hearing a detailed report of sixth, seventh and eighth grade programs at Reedlands Woods and Del Mar schools, decided last night they wanted to know more about the programs.

According to Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello, the board set an adjourned meeting for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. to discuss the programs at greater length. The discussion was part of a regular review of district programs by the board.

Other items to be discussed at the Tuesday meeting will include six requests for transfers into the district and committee reports.

The Reed School District board also:

CERTIFICATED — Approved hiring of three teachers: Terry Spence, Bel Aire School, at an annual salary of $7,911; Ann Paras, part-time teacher for the educationally handicapped at Bel Aire at $3,574 a year, and Robert Cooney, Reedland Woods, at $9,543 a year.

GIFT — Accepted, with gratitude, a gift of two clarinets from Mrs. George Bitter of Tiburon.

AIDES — Voted to employ Millie McMillan and Virginia Hotz as teachers aides at Del Mar at salaries of $2.60 an hour.

ENROLLMENT — Learned from the superintendent that district enrollment, as of Sept. 20, was 1,887, seven less than projected.

HOUSING

John Simmons sees a constant stream of students. "We had 100 a day coming in by Aug. 15 and now it's more like 200 a day," he said.

Some students, aware of the housing shortage, came prepared with a full array of camping equipment to tide them over until a permanent home could be found. In the meantime, work progresses on construction of campus housing for 400 students, but it won't be ready for occupancy until next fall. Rates in the housing may be as low as $120 per month for room and meals in the common dining hall.

The "No Vacancy Sign" is posted throughout Rohnert Park and Cotati. Luxury apartments featuring swimming pools have been filled since spring despite rents of up to $275 or $300 per month. Even more primitive quarters ranging from semi-renovated chicken coops to garages are reportedly expensive and hard to come by.

Simmons agrees with students that most rental prices are way out of line. "We have students clamoring for places where rooms rent for $100 a month with shared bathrooms and no kitchen priviliges," he said.

"It's just a plain old-fashioned rip off," Simmons said. "I'm angry and frustrated."

Many students reported finding apartments within their price range of $100 to $150 per month, but could not meet the landlord's requirement of three-months rent in advance plus a cleaning deposit.

"Half of our students this year are from Los Angeles and Southern California and they simply have no place to stay," Simmons said. Many students from Marin and Sonoma have been forced to commute from home when they would have preferred to start life on their own.

Like Mrs. Davis, Simmons says the students he sees are not choosy about their living accommodations. "Their incomes are very low and they're willing to experiment with new lifestyles," he said, noting it's not unlike what some of their parents went through in the depression years of the 1930s.

Simmons has also found that many prospective landlords are afraid to rent to students. "We get unbelievable responses from some of them," he said. "Some won't even talk to us."

In the short time he's been on campus, Simmons has often played the role of mediator in student-landlord disputes. "Many of our students are living away from home for the first time and don't know what's expected of them," he said.

"I generally tell landlords to put it on the line and tell them what they expect of them," he said. "If they don't want drinking or noise or dope they should make it clear."

He said most students leave their housing in better condition than they found it. "People must learn you can't judge by appearances, but only behavior," he said.

There's a pressing need for low cost housing," Simmons said, adding he believed local officials and developers have been remiss in their duties. "What we need is someone to do some innovative building."

Rohnert Park and Cotati officials and developers strongly opposed construction of on-campus housing, saying it represented unfair competition to developers. Despite heavy lobbying in Sacramento, the state approved funding of the buildings through revenue bonds.

Eugene McAdams, temporary secretary of the newly formed Sonoma County Housing Authority, sees no relief in sight for the students.

"Our program will not materially effect the students, he said, explaining that funds will support only 400 low-income housing units to be spread throughout the county.

He said the authority has no plans for construction of a public housing project designed for students or members of other low-income groups.

In the meantime students are living out of their cars and some of the luckier ones have found friends who'll allow them to "crash" for a while.

"I'm not sure how long some of the students can continue to live on that kind of basis," he said, adding he's sure some students will have to leave college because of the lack of housing and jobs."

units, Arrigoni joined the majority.

Baptiste, the lone dissenter, argued that the amount of the beach to be dedicated for public use should be decided in the court trial.

Nine Inverness residents, calling themselves the Inverness Waterfront Committee, is suing Marks, claiming that the public has acquired rights of access and recreation on all of Chicken Ranch Beach because it has used the beach historically.

Robert M. Brown, attorney for the committee, told the supervisor he would have preferred they not make the compromise settlement, but his group would press the suit with or without county backing.

Richard V. Godino, assistant county counsel, said there is a "strong possibility" that the county and the waterfront committee could have won the suit and have acquired the entire Chicken Ranch Beach north of Golden Hinde Boatel.

With the county withdrawing from the suit and accepting a compromise, Godino said the suit by the waterfront committee would be weakened.

"You're not going to get the whole beach anyway," argued Marks' attorney, Wallace S. Myers. "We are giving you all the beach except 350 feet."

Both the Marin Conservation League and Inverness Improvement Association urged the supervisors to reject the compromise and wait for the trial outcome.

County Planning Commissioner John F. West, an Inverness property owner, got up to speak but was gaveled down by Chairman Louis H. Baar.

Trio To Give Recital At Dominican

Dominican College will present a public lecture-recital by a Beethoven string trio composed of Charles Meacham, violin; Jean Mitchell, cello; and Lucien Mitchell, viola, at 8 p.m. on Sept. 30 in Caleruega Hall on the San Rafael campus.

The trio will play Beethoven's string trio Opus 3 in E Flat Major, which will be analyzed in a lecture by Meacham. For comparative purposes the trio will play excerpts from Mozart's Divertimento in E flat, K. 563 and Wallingford Riegger's "Duett."

While traveling in Europe this summer Meacham did research in England for his Beethoven lecture.

The lecture-recital format is rare for the trio that has been playing together for about 18 years. All are members of the Marin Symphony Orchestra, and the Mitchells are musicians with the San Francisco Symphony.

Meacham resigned from the position of principal of the San Francisco Symphony's second violin section several years ago to become a member of the music faculty at the College of Marin.

Woman In Guilty Plea To Charges

Clara Ann Moran, 20, of Corte Madera, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to charges of Burglary and forgery.

She is to be sentenced Oct. 18.

Four additional charges of forgery were dismissed by Judge E. Warren McGuire at the request of the district attorney's office following her plea.

She was arrested along with a San Francisco man June 19 when Corte Madera police said they saw the pair carrying stereo equipment from the residence of Allen Smith of 30 Golden Hind Passage.

Charges against the San Francisco man were dropped when the district attorney's office said it had determined it had insufficient evidence to convict him.

The forgery charges against Mrs. Moran stemmed from a series of bad checks she allegedly passed at various Purity Markets earlier this year.

Schedule Of Youth Concerts Announced

The Marin Symphony Association announces that its 1971-72 season of youth programs will include concerts by the Marin Youth Orchestra, the 50-member workshop for strings and the newly formed orchestral chamber group, Orchestra Piccola — all sponsored by the association.

Now in its 17th year, the Marin Youth Orchestra, which began rehearsals Sept. 20, is made up of 80 of Marin's most talented young musicians from county high schools and elementary schools.

Under the direction of conductor Hugo Rinaldi, the orchestra will perform two full symphonic programs at the new Veterans Memorial Building at the Marin Civic Center on Jan. 23 and May 7.

The 35-member Orchestra Piccola, which will start rehearsals Saturday, is comprised of the most highly trained members of the youth orchestra and is also conducted by Rinaldi. Three major concerts are scheduled with one on Feb. 4 in the new Veterans Memorial Building for members of the Marin Symphony Association only.

There will be two programs, including a "sit-in concert," for the new children's series at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

The "sit-in concert" on June 3 will bring the young audience inside the orchestra, seating a child on each side of the musicians with the 45-minute program repeated as often as necessary to accommodate many groups of children.

The workshop for strings, an ensemble and training program which prepares young string players for admission into the Marin Youth Orchestra, also began rehearsals Monday at Davidson Middle School, in San Rafael.

This season for the first time the 50-member orchestra under the direction of Robert L. Jackson will present its own concert on May 23 at Davidson.

This year the "music for minors" programs will become a part of the youth in arts programs presented by four Marin County cultural organizations to elementary and junior high school at the Veterans Memorial Building.

Interest On Claims Bill Advances

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation requiring the state to pay interest on unpaid claims against it by local public agencies has passed the Senate, 28-0, and gone to the Assembly.

The bill, SB 1053 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, was asked by the Marin County Board of Supervisors. The county, and many other agencies, often wait months for the state to honor claims.

Interest, at the going rate, would be paid starting on the 61st day after a claim was filed. The bill also imposes the interest on unpaid claims by the state against local public agencies.

No More Breakage

MILWAUKIE, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon bartenders will no longer have to break all their empty bottles —about 4 million a year. The Oregon Liquor Control Commission has repealed a regulation requiring the bottles be broken, to prevent their re-use.

Tam Antiunification Proposal To Reagan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to avoid another election next year to unify elementary school districts in the Tamalpais High School District has gone to the governor's desk for signature into law.

Acrimonious unification elections were held in the Tamalpais district in both 1964 and 1965, losing badly both times. But under the state Education Code, a third election must be held to coincide with next year's June primary election.

Marin school officials, citing the disruption of the past two elections, had the legislation, AB 358, introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. Voters would continue to turn down unification, they argued, because it would require up to a 62.5-cent tax increase in some districts to raise teachers' salaries to the highest level in the unified district.

The governor already has signed into law a separate bill, SB 878 by Sen. Fred W. Marler Jr., R-Redding, that eliminates the code requirement for unification elections. Marler's bill, however, is operative only after next July, thus offered no relief to the Tamalpais district's problem in June.

BART To Have A 'Civilian Look'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A line of uniforms underscoring the "civilian look" for employes on the Bay Area Rapid Transit District was unveiled at a special fashion show Tuesday for BART directors.

Dave Soblin, BART's passenger relations officer, told the directors: "We have tried to achieve a civilian look. We're trying to get away from the idea of uniforms and hash marks. It goes along with the rest of BART's modern image."

The final version of the uniforms will be approved by the general board of directors before the 75-mile rapid transit system begins service sometime next year.

Lady station attendants will have a sailor look, in dark blue with bell bottom trousers and jackets with stripes on the sleeves.

Sewerage Agency Bill To Reagan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to create a regional sewerage agency in the Bay Area yesterday won final legislative approval in a 55-0 vote by the Assembly that sent it to the governor's desk for his signature into law.

The bill, AB 2867 by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, will create a Bay Area Sewage Services Agency in the nine-county region to plan and build regional sewerage facilities. The new system will be financed by revenue bonds backed by service charges.

The agency also will be empowered to finance its bonds with a property tax up to one-half cent on each county's property tax rate.

The agency would have veto power over all proposed wastewater facilities, but would leave intact the Regional Water Quality Control Board to set and police standards.

Berlin Escape

BERLIN (UPI)—Three men fled into West Berlin today across the Communist-built death strip on the city's northern outskirts, police reported.

Panel To Probe Oil Spill Halt

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Stiffer construction standards for tankers to help guard against oil spills will be considered at Senate hearings beginning today.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, said Adm. Chester Bender, the Coast Guard commandant, would lead off testimony in hearings scheduled for three days.

Magnuson said the hearings would deal chiefly with new construction standards that would take advantage of recent engineering and technological improvements.

Hearing Slated On Bike Path Network

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to establish a statewide network of bicycle and pedestrian paths, stalled since July in an Assembly committee, has been set for hearing by the committee next Wednesday.

The hearing by the ways and means committee begins at 8 a.m. in Room 4202 of the Capitol.

The author of the bill, SB 265, Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, said he now had endorsements of the measure by a majority of the committee's 21 members.

The bill earlier passed three other committees and the Senate without opposition before it reached the ways and means committee, chaired by Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco.

Hardliner Wins In Washington

BREMERTON, Wash. (UPI) —An 18-year-old youth who took a hard line on discipline beat the school board chairman in an election here Tuesday.

William H. Lynch, a 1971 graduate of West Bremerton High School got 23 per cent of the vote, while incumbent Eldon Matlock garnered only 21 per cent in the primary.

Lynch campaigned for undercover narcotics agents and more discipline in schools.

Under a new elections law, only Lynch's name will appear on the Nov. 3 ballot because only two candidates ran in the primary.

Suit Seeks Lifting Of Building Ban

The Ross Valley Sanitary District has filed action in San Francisco Superior Court seeking that the building ban in the Ross Valley be lifted.

Dist. Mgr. Ralph C. Noah said today the district has charged the Regional Water Quality Control Board with acting "unreasonably and in excess of its jurisdiction" in ordering the ban.

The ban was imposed in July and prohibits new sewer connections until the district's sewer system is brought up to standards by eliminating the discharge of sewage into the bay.

The Ross Valley district is the third Marin County district to seek court action since the watchdog agency began cracking down on polluters.

In its petition, Noah said, the district maintains that the quality of treatment at its Greenbrae plant is good — "better than that of most dischargers into the Bay . . ."

He said the district's bypassing of untreated waste into the bay during winter months is being corrected in a long-range program.

"Immediate steps to prevent storm water incursion into the sanitary sewer system have been put into operation," Noah said.

Further, the district has doubled its staff, which has been closing off rain gutters and manholes which allow water infiltration into sewer line. The infiltration of water overloads the treatment plant and forces bypassing.

Also, Noah said, the district maintains in its petition that there is no significant increase in water quality as a result of the building ban.

Instead, he said, "the district is deprived of connection fees and assessed valuation — sources of funds to carry out the expensive water improvement program already underway."

Jail Term In Theft Of Car

Robert Carl Maier, 18, of no known address, has been sentenced to 90 days in Marin County Jail for car theft.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court also placed him on probation for 90 days and gave him credit for six days he had already spent in jail.

Maier was arrested May 9 when San Rafael Police investigated a one-car accident and found the car — a 1971 Porsche — had been stolen from Sherman Ellison of 120 Miramar Avenue, San Rafael.

Maier was ordered by Judge Wilson to make restitution to Ellison in an amount to be determined by the Marin Probation Department.

BURGLAR-FIRE ALARM WHIZ-KID FOR HIRE

I am the most advanced burglar alarm system anyone has ever created. People call me an electronics wonder. I stand guard over your home, apartment, or small business 24 hours a day and my protection is foolproof. You program me like a computer. If I see an intruder, I frighten him away . . . awake you and or silently call the police and bring them on the run too. I also will warn you at fire and smoke. I'm most attractive and, since I just plug-in, you can move me around easily. Recently, I've starred on national television (ABC, NBC and CBS Network TV shows), and in many national magazines. My name is Preventor II. Best part — I cost just a fraction of those old-fashioned wired burglar alarm systems. I want to protect your loved ones, so please give me an interview. For a no-obligation demonstration.

Heated Debate On Decentralization

Tamalpais High School District trustees last night rejected a report on how to decentralize the district amid expressions of bewilderment about the lack of details in the report.

The four-hour debate also was marked by criticism of the board by disgruntled administrators, teachers and citizens who objected to the trustees' method of handling the topic of decentralization.

Board members repeatedly questioned Supt. Wilbur D. Hawkins on how his proposed guidelines would be implemented and finally asked him to prepare a completely different report which is to outline his own objectives for the district.

That report will be reviewed at a special meeting Oct. 11.

Trustees, referring to the 26-page proposal, quoted phrases they found to be vague and asked Hawkins for the "how's of decentralization, not the why's."

In April, the board approved decentralization of the district which began this month at Sir Francis Drake High School and is expected to be in effect at Redwood and Tamalpais high schools next fall.

During the meeting, Hawkins's report was called "a lot of platitudes" by trustee Robert W. Corlett. David D. Ring, another trustee, said the proposal "lacks spark ... dies with boredom ... needs inspiration."

President Frank L. Miller said the report "has a dreariness about it" and later commented, "We can't approve this document tonight because there's really no document to approve."

Trustee Jerrold M. Ladar said he feared the board would have to give up some of its prerogatives and policy decisions if the proposal were adopted.

As the board wrestled with the report, Hawkins's only comment in defense of its lack of details was this:

"If you buy the idea of decentralization, then you don't buy the idea of encumbering people with specific objectives at the district level."

Ring, with the agreement of other trustees, asked Hawkins to prepare a report of his own goals for the district with which the board could then agree, disagree or revise.

Hawkins apparently was having difficulty understanding exactly what the board wanted him to prepare because he repeated the instructions several times before finally suggesting he would draft a few trial suggestions for trustees' approval of the format.

Although the board did not mention the district staff's unfavorable reception of Hawkins's first plan for decentralization which was proposed and rejected last spring, one audience member, Vaughn Marker of Larkspur, recalled, "What you're asking him to do now he tried earlier this year and the timid arose in their might and smote him down."

The earlier proposal also was referred to by Dr. Thomas Larch, education director at Sir Francis Drake High School, who said, "Given the history of this district over the past year, I feel you are putting the superintendent in an awkward position."

Hawkins replied, "I think I have a responsibility and certainly the right to present my views — as long as the staff understands it is always up to review and is not chiseled in stone."

Responding to an earlier statement by the board that it would like to hear what the staff's recommendations are, Mary Donovan, president of the Tamalpais Federation of Teachers Union, asked, "How can you say you want us to work with you? We will work with the superintendent to write the goals, but we will not rewrite what he has written."

She and other teachers expressed discontent at the board's bypassing the teachers for ideas on district objectives and asked to present specific recommendations at the Oct. 11 session.

Trustees who admitted they were on unfamiliar ground in the decentralization work assured teachers they did not mean to bypass them.

Many of the two dozen members of the audience spoke following the board's discussion of the report and criticized trustees for not allowing comments from the audience earlier in the meeting. Several sought, unsuccessfully, to get a commitment from the board that general audience participation would be allowed at the Oct. 11 meeting.

Hawkins's rejected 26-page report, according to a digest prepared by his staff, is based on several broad generalizations: that educational change is inevitable, that change is badly needed and that change must be planned to be effective.

It continues from that point with the "whys" of change, to which trustees objected, and offers none of the "hows" called for in the next report.

The report maintains that a "decentralized form of organization (three districts within a district) is the most promising way to bring about educational reform in an established system."

The traditional way, with a central office making all decisions for the school system, ignores the creative potential among teachers, counselors and local administrators, according to Hawkins.

To achieve decentralization, teachers and administrators must have the confidence of others in assuming leadership roles with students and the community.

They must next identify "student needs" and develop a "plan of operation" at each school. This is needed since "students vary from school to school and within each school."

Thus, for example, "each student who enters a district school will be diagnosed in the communicative skills, his deficiencies noted, his program developed and the corrections made."

During and after decentralization, the district board will retain its legal right and duty to set policy for the district, the report states.

The report does not say, however, what decision making powers are retained by the board or, other than in general terms, what decision making is made at the individual school level.

The superintendent and his staff will provide individual schools with administrative support, coordinate the development of the so-called "local school plans" and assist in auditing the quality of education provided.

The principal at each school, called an educational leader, will "incorporate the thinking and recommendations of the broad community he serves into the school's operations."

How this is done, according to the report, must be worked out when developing the "educational plan" for each school.

The teachers are listed as major participants in designing and implementing the local school plan. They must therefore be proficient in "identifying student needs" and in developing ways of meeting those needs.

How this is accomplished is again assigned to the local school plan through some form of teacher training.

Urgent Call On Housing Needs

CLEVELAND (UPI) — William N. Brown, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, says the nation's housing needs must be met or socialized housing will be necessary.

Brown made the comments Tuesday in an address to Ohio realtors.

"The nation's housing goals must be met or we'll have socialized housing in the next five years, he said. "It doesn't make sense to tear down houses which can be rehabilitated when 26,000 houses are needed by the end of this decade."

Brown asked realtors, savings and loan companies, public officials and the news media to help obtain "safe, decent housing for all Americans in all income levels."

Podgorny Visit

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny will make a 24-hour stopover here Oct. 1 en route to a state visit in North Vietnam, the Foreign Ministry announced today.

Operation To Render Harmless Deadly Snakes

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Three researchers have developed an operation that renders harmless deadly snakes such as theking cobra and diamondback rattler.

The new technique has worked on 150 snakes and means zoo keepers can handle poisonous reptiles without fear of a fatal bite, said James L. Glenn, a herpetologist for the local Hogle Zoo.

"We can convert a reptile into a venemoid —a venomous snake that is no longer capable of injecting venom into its victim," Glenn said.

Glenn; Dr. Richard C. Straight, a researcher in venoms at the Salt Lake Veterans' Administration Hospital; and Dr. Clifford Snyder of the University of Utah College of Medicine, reported the new operation in a paper presented today to the annual conference of the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums.

Socialite Is Dead Of Overdose

ATHERTON (UPI) — Fuller E. (Clay) Callaway III, heir to a Georgia textile fortune and prominent Bay Area socialite, died Tuesday night, apparently from an overdose of sleeping pills.

The 39-year-old jet setter, who also was a record-setting yachtsman and ex-husband of television personality Pia Lindstrom, was found dead fully-clothed in the bedroom of his home.

Officials reported a number of sleeping pills scattered over the floor and San Mateo County Coroner Paul B. Jensen said death "was apparently from an overdose of Seconal."

A single-sheet note, written in large letters, was addressed to the victim's father, Fuller E. Callaway Jr., La Grange, Ga., manufacturer.

"To dad," the note said in part, "it looks like it's turned a full circle and turned back on you..."

A caretaker said Callaway seemed all right earlier in the day, but a half-empty bottle indicated he had been drinking shortly before his death.

The handsome socialite was divorced from his third wife, actress Annette Cash, in 1967. His second wife, Miss Lindstrom, daughter of actress Ingrid Bergman, divorced him in 1961 after 22 months of marriage. His first wife, Winda, is now Mrs. James Warren of Atherton.

Callaway skippered the yacht that broke the record in the trans-Pacific yacht race. He narrowly escaped death in 1963 when his sailing vessel, the Morning Star, struck a reef off the coast of Nicaragua and sank.

At the time, Callaway and his crew were heading for Newport, R.I., and a trans-Atlantic race to England.

Strike Threat By Professors

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The president of a union of state college professors will recommend a strike if Gov. Ronald Reagan fails to ask for a 15 per cent wage hike in his January budget message.

Art Bierman, a philosophy professor at San Francisco State college and president of the 3,000-member United Professors of California, told a Tuesday news conference:

"California professors have been treated more shabbily than other occupational groups in California the past two years. We have not received cost-of-living increases for two years running."

Bierman said the professors have been "patient and civil, hoping government would rectify the salary inequities visited on them."

Novato 'Trash Bash' Is Set For October

Novato will have two citywide cleanup days, known as a "Trash Bash," Oct. 2 and 9, the sponsoring Novato Environmental Quality Committee announced today.

The debris collection point will be Rowland and Redwood boulevards, and those who bring items that are unmanageable will be given a pass to the dump, reported Rodney Brown, city administration assistant.

Committee members reported Monday night that a feature of the cleanup campaign will be a competition between Novato and San Marin High School students along Novato Boulevard Oct. 9.

The winning team will receive a trophy and a five-gallon tree of its choice, donated by the Ignacio Nursery, Brown reported.

Committee members urged that residents whose homes or property bordered any creeks in the city include the adjacent creek area in their cleanup.

The Novato Environmental Quality Committee also

APPRECIATION — Sent a certificate of appreciation to developer Gerald Hoytt of Richmond for donating land and sharing costs of the new bridge across Novato Creek, between the Novato Downtown Center and Novato branch of the Marin County Library.

TREES — Suggested that the department of public works keep a watch on construction around trees at the Boise Cascade project at the former Oliva Ranch to assure that regulations are being observed.

12 Filipino Moslems Reported Slaughtered

MANILA (UPI)—Authorities in the Philippine province of Lanao del Norte said today gunmen killed 12 Filipino Moslems including five babies and slashed off the ears of some of the victims.

The area of the killings is 450 miles south of Manila and has been the scene of intermittent fighting between Moslem and Christian groups for months.

Zink Takes Firing Into Superior Court

A Sausalito police sergeant fired in May 1970 took his battle for reinstatement to Marin Superior Court yesterday.

Thomas H. Zink filed for a court order directing the Sausalito City Council to rescind its Sept. 7 action upholding the dismissal.

Zink, fired after 11 years on the Sausalito force, was charged at the time with arriving late for work, negligent handling of firearms, emotional instability and having the odor of alcohol on his breath.

An appeal of his firing was heard by a state hearing officer last November and December, and the officer recommended that Zink be reinstated to the police force, but demoted to patrolman.

But after three closed meetings, the council upheld the firing in a decision dated Sept. 7, but officially signed Sept. 10.

In papers filed in superior court, Zink said the council's decision is invalid because he did not get a fair trial.

He charged the city had committed a "prejudicial abuse of discretion" and that there was no evidence to support its decision.

The action was filed by San Francisco attorney James B. Leech.

Already pending in superior court is a $1,250,000 suit filed by Zink in March against Greenbrae psychiatrist Edward E. Shev.

Shev had been hired by Sausalito to conduct therapy sessions for the city's police department.

Zink claimed that Shev "negligently and carelessly examined and diagnosed" him in April 1970 and reported to Sausalito Police Chief James Wright that Zink was emotionally disturbed.

Another Creek Fuss?

Another "Tamalpais Creek incident" may be brewing in Ross where residents are refusing to let surveyors onto their properties to complete the concreting of Corte Madera Creek.

Like the residents along Tamalpais Creek in Kentfield, property owners in Ross are resisting the efforts by the Army Corps of Engineers to complete the Corte Madera Creek project from Ross Post Office to the San Anselmo line at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

"There are 38 parcels involved, all in the town of Ross," said Charles E. Murphy, county flood control engineer. "At least 12 of them are holding out, threatening to arrest any survey crews that enter their property."

At Murphy's request, the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday authorized County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to get a court order to allow the survey to continue.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. was the lone dissenter. "I am not convinced that this is the proper procedure," said Arrigoni.

It was in Kentfield, Arrigoni's district, that the Tamalpais Creek incident erupted in April of 1969. Irate residents, trying to prevent tree cutting and concrete lining of the channel, jumped in front of bulldozers to bring the project to a temporary halt.

Storm Threat

TAIPEI (UPI) — Typhoon Bess, packing 150 miles an hour center winds, is expected to hit East Taiwan late tonight or early Thursday morning, weathermen warned.

Planes In Action

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Seven helicopters and six light planes donated recently by the U.S. governmnt to Mexico went into action today over Mexico's remote hillsides to spot illicit marijuana and poppy plantations from the air.

'World's Worst Crook' Given Jail Sentence

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —Criminal Court Judge Hudson Olliff Tuesday gave Clyde Leslie Hall a six months' jail term and a title: "The world's worst crook."

Hall, 37, had been accused of planning a fake robbery with the cooperation of a service station operator, who instead warned police of the plan.

When Hall went into the service station with a gun Aug. 16, tied up the operator, and stole $2.67, police were waiting for him outside.

Olliff admonished Hall to go straight when he gets out of jail, because he just had to be "the world's worst crook."

2 Youths Deny Setting Bombs

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—A Sacramento, Calif., youth and his Oklahoma companion pleaded innocent Tuesday when they were arraigned on charges of setting off explosives in a park restroom and a car.

Marvin L. Evans, 19, Sacramento, and Phillip A. Ronistal, 21, who said he was a transient from Oklahoma, were named in complaints of malicious destruction Sunday of a woman's car and a restroom in Sugarhouse Park and also charged with possession of dangerous drugs.

Third District Judge Paul Grant set a preliminary hearing for Oct. 27 and set bail at $101,000 each.

Creekside Park Plans Approved

The Novato City Council last night approved preliminary plans for beautification of Novato Creek in the area between the Novato Downtown Center and the Novato branch of the Marin County Library.

Leroy M. Gerner, cochairman of the Novato Citizens Creek Committee, said "This will be the show spot in Novato."

The concept is to "try to leave the area in its natural state," Gerner reported.

There will be paths along each side of the creek, a ponding area at the Seventh Street end of the project, drinking fountains at each end of the bridge across the creek, benches and lighting, he said.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson presented a preliminary estimate that the proposed improvements would cost $19,525, and the annual maintenance and operation would be $4,800.

The city has budgeted $18,000 and is seeking $18,000 in federal matching funds.

The portion of the $36,000 in city and federal funds not used in the improvements is intended for right-of-way acquisition and connecting the project to Grant Avenue on the west, Mattson said.

The Novato City Council Also:

NOVATO FAIR — Bypassed a bid by Fifty Associates, owners of the Novato Fair Shopping Center, to withdraw its application to rezone a parcel between Novato Creek and South Novato Boulevard from residential to commercial. The council then initiated the rezoning on its own and set 8 p.m. Oct. 12 for a public hearing. J. Wayne Womack dissented.

TAXI PERMIT — Continued until Oct. 12 an application by Novato Cab Co. to transfer its license to D and K Enterprises, headed by Richard H. Stevens of Santa Rosa, who operates cabs in Petaluma, Santa Rosa and several other Sonoma County communities.

CIVIC CENTER — Authorized discussion with the Novato Chamber of Commerce on possible use of the residence at 853 Reichert Avenue, recently acquired by the city for civic center expansion, for a chamber office and information center. It also approved installing a sidewalk on the recently acquired Rodoni property, north of the Community House, at a cost of from $900 to $1,500, depending upon how much work is done by city employees.

Man Held In Burglary Case

A 25-year-old Sausalito man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of burglary after he was arrested in a Sausalito home. A second man found in the residence by police leaped from a second floor window and escaped.

Police said Patrick Michael Quinn of Gate 6 was arrested after officers were notified of a burglary in progress at the Alfred S. Wilsey home, 89 Cazneau Avenue, at 4:30 p.m. On arriving at the house, an officer noticed the front door open.

The policeman heard a male voice and also heard a window being opened, then observed a white male, medium height and build, with dark hair and dark clothing, leap from the window and flee over a hillside.

Police said Quinn was apprehended as he attempted to run from the residence.

Quinn was being held in lieu of $3,500 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Is Belvedere Going To The Dogs?

By MARY BURNS

Belvedere dog lovers and haters barked out their complaints last night about the city's cavorting canines in a two-hour public hearing on dog control.

The Marin Humane Society was jostled between complaining citizens who said its officers have been too zealous promiscuously gathering dogs off owners' front yards and city councilmen who felt that the society has been too easy-going.

Numerous citizens testified to being bitten by loose dogs, having property destroyed by dog waste and being bothered by night barking.

Irving Lipschultz of 19 Cove Drive claimed he was accosted by the same dog five times and said he now carries an iron bar and mace pellets to protect himself while he jogs.

A retired biology teacher, Bernhardt E. Baumeister of 213 San Rafael Avenue raised his pants leg to reveal a two-year-old injury suffered when a dog ran under the pedals of his bicycle.

Baumeister also complained about dog defecation in his yard. "It seems that some owners would like for their dogs to excrete as far away as possible from their yards," Baumeister said, drawing applause from his agreeing neighbors.

The third complaint was about noisy dogs in the area. One man claimed he solved this problem by awakening a disturbing dog's owner at 2 a.m. every morning until the dog had been silenced. A woman told the council her neighbors had moved to Belvedere from Chicago and were so disturbed by noise "that they almost moved back."

John Gill, director of operations for the Humane Society, was thoroughly scolded by the audience.

Robert Hopps of 86 Beach Road told Gill that the humane society was a policing agent concerned with collecting revenue. He said the society had been "hustling business" by picking up innocent dogs.

Joseph Barish of 156 Bay View Avenue told the audience "we don't want to turn over the government of our dog-population to the humane society."

The flood of criticism caused surprised Councilman Merrit K. Ruddock to comment that he had been under the impression that the humane society was hardly earning its pay in Belvedere and was "amazed to find out from the citizenry that the humane society is a police organization, a fascist organization and is sweeping up dogs off people's door steps."

Councilman Alan Steinau echoed Ruddock's reaction. "With the coming of this meeting, you seem to have increased your service to Belvedere," Steinau said. "August was your most active month."

Mayor Thomas S. Price told Gill that the council did not intend for humane society officeres to collect every dog unattended but rather to concentrate on offending dogs.

"You're really tying our hands," Gill responded explaining that every dog was "a potential biter" and that officers could not visually differentiate between "the friendly pooch across the street" and the vicious dog.

The standing-room-only audience of more than 50 persons was mostly in favor of stronger ordinances. However Robert L. Goetz of 93 West Shore Road, an anti-dog law advocate, presented a petition with 40 signatures asking that the council revoke the city's leash law. (The mayor explained that the city has no leash law.)

Few members of the audience suggested viable changes in the city's ordinance. One man recommended that after a dog bites the first time he be put on probation and banished should he bite a second time.

Barish asked the council to consider the current interest in jogging and bicycling when it reworks the dog ordinance.

Belvedere's current dog laws limit the number of dogs in a single dwelling, prohibit dogs from running unattended in public places and state that if three residents complain in writing that a dog is a nuisance the humane society may take action to remove it.

The council took no action but assured the audience that the dog ordinance will be reviewed at its Oct. 4 meeting.

Tower Shot Could Have Felled Jackson

The Marin pathologist who performed an autopsy on George Jackson held out the possibility today that the San Quentin inmate could have been killed from a prison gun tower, despite the fact the fatal bullet entered his lower back and exited through his head.

Although declining to be pinned down on the issue, saying he was a pathologist and not a criminal investigator, Dr. John Manwaring remarked that Jackson "could have" been slain in the manner in which prison officials say the militant convict met his death.

"Whether he could have been shot from the tower down or whether the bullet glanced up or whether he was falling down or what . . . it could have happened," Manwaring said. "All I can say (for certain) is the entry went through the back and out the top of the head."

The pathologist, whose final autopsy report was issued yesterday, disclosed the fatal bullet did not change direction when it entered Jackson's lower back. "I could have put a probe just straight up," he said.

Manwaring's final report refuted a preliminary statement that said Jackson was shot in the head as he sprinted for a prison wall during an Aug. 21 escape attempt in which three guards and two other inmates also died.

The earlier report had said the bullet entered Jackson's head and emerged from the back.

Meanwhile, prison officials today said San Quentin's official reconstruction of the incident was not contrary to the autopsy report. Warden Louis S. Nelson said Jackson first was hit in the foot and knocked down, then fatally shot as he began running in a crouched position.

"Jackson was struck by a bullet fragment and was knocked down and he got up and was running in a crouched, bent-over position," Nelson said after the autopsy was released.

Nelson said Jackson ran out of the adjustment center and "was trying to shoot down that guard on the railing so he would have a clear shot over the wall. The officer on the wall dropped down on his belly and fired."

Other prisoners who were with Jackson have maintained the 30-year-old "Soledad Brother" was "murdered" by guards. Supporters of the black revolutionary say they do not believe the prison version of the incident and maintain Jackson was "set up" to be killed because of his status as a symbol of prison revolution.

At a recent hearing of two surviving "Soledad brothers," defendant John Clutchette shouted, "they shot George in the back and when he wasn't dead they came up and shot him in the head."

Nelson said that Jackson was caught in a cross-fire and "It sure as hell would be possible" for a bullet fired from the gun rail to hit the convict in the back and exit out the top of his skull.

Marin County Coroner Donovan O. Cooke filed the final autopsy by Manwaring. It concluded the bulled entered Jackson's middle back, broke two ribs, traveled up the spine through the brain and exited through the top of the skull.

"My primary task is to determine what killed a person," said Cooke — not how the fatal bullets were fired.

He said the preliminary report, issued two days after the killing, was so labeled and referred to the "apparent cause." He said it was often hard to tell where a bullet enters or exits a body.

Jackson's attorney, John Thorne, said the revised autopsy showed the need for an independent investigation of the bloodiest prison outbreak in San Quentin's history.

"It is interesting to see the changes in the story now that the facts have changed," Thorne said. "By the time we get the full facts the prison officials will still be coming out with new theories to make their original story stick."

Arraignment On Drug Charges

Barrie Lee Weissman, 20, of 556 Scenic Avenue, San Anselmo, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a felony charge of cultivating marijuana and a misdemeanor charge of possessing narcotics paraphernalia.

He is to plead to the charges Monday.

Weissman was arrested Friday after a neighbor told police about some "weird looking" plants on Weissman's roof. Police found five marijuana plants.

Short School Day Is Due In Fairfax

The Fairfax School District board last night approved shortening a school day each week so administrators and teachers can meet to implement long-range educational goals.

Supt. H. Reginald Hammond, said students would be sent home one hour earlier on one day each week from Oct. 1 to the end of the semester in January. Time will be taken off each period on the shortened day so the last period can be worked in, he said.

Speculation In China On Mao's Death

HONG KONG (UPI)—Diplomatic sources with contacts in Peking said today there appeared to be some type of crisis in Communist China.

They said there was no indication exactly what was wrong, but speculated the most likely explanation was the illness or even death of Mao Tse-tung, the 77-year-old Communist party leader who for decades has ruled the nation with an iron hand.

In Paris, the Communist Chinese embassy denied reports in the French press Mao was either ill or dying. "Chairman Mao is in excellent health," an embassy spokesman said. "The reports in the newspapers that Mao Tse-tung is ill are lies."

However, the spokesman did confirm reports the Oct. 1 national day celebrations had been canceled. He said this was because it had been decided to modify the way the national fete was celebrated, but give no details.

Hong Kong is a British crown colony on the Chinese mainland and is the major listening post of Sinologists seeking information on what goes on in China.

Although they described some of the evidenceas "circumstantial," the sources said "there are, nevertheless, some definite signs of a crisis-type situation there."

They said the possible emergency was indicated by a series of "unusual" events in Peking in recent days:

—The decision by Chinese authorities to call off the mass rally and parade traditionally held to celebrate Oct. 1, the national day. News dispatches from Peking first reported the cancellation.

—The grounding of all domestic aircraft, including military planes, during the past few days. A traveller who arrived in Hong Kong Tuesday from China said he was forced to wait for two days because all flights were halted.

Recycled Paper Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, requiring that state and local governments purchase recycled paper for their business was approved 27-0 by the Senate Monday and sent to the Assembly.

Sausalito District Must Provide Learning Center Program Funds

The Sausalito School District will have to provide federally funded remedial reading and mathematics programs to children in the Marin City Learning Center, according to a consultant for special programs for the Marin County Schools Office.

The center, a private school set up by parents dissatisfied with education in the Sausalito district, has about 15 youngsters eligible for assistance under the Title One Program, or about 16 per cent of the 96 children in the district who qualify for the funds. The federal money is used to provide math and reading help to children from poor families.

Just what kind of services the district will have to provide for the learning center students, or how much of the federal money will go to the center portion of the program has not been determined, consultant Gene E. Turtle said.

But Turtle said the federal act establishing Title One mandates that equal services must be given to children in both private and public schools. According to the consultant, the district possibly could have to spend up to 50 per cent of its $41,485 title one funds to insure learning center children an equal share of the program.

The usual procedure in Sausalito, according to Turtle, is for the district to hire aides to work with the youngsters who need special help.

The school board voted Monday night to hire five of the 10 aides it had originally approved for the program. The remaining money will be reserved to be reallocated for services to the learning center, according to Turtle.

The consultant said he is studying the situation with an eye to setting up a revised Title One Program which takes the newly established learning center into account. Only when his study is completed will the district know exactly how much of the federal monies it will have to spend for the learning center.

The district will still administer the program, he said.

The board also approved a revised Title One advisory committee of parents and staff members who will work to set up the revised program.

Fire Ants Pose More Problems

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Quarantine regulations have been extended to 17 new counties found infested with imported fire ants, the Agriculture Department said today.

The ants are a threat to urban as well as rural areas. Heavy infestations can make parks and recreation areas virtually unusable. The ants often inflict painful stings on man and animals and the large mounds they build can damage farm machinery.

The department hoped to slow the spread by restricting the movement of articles that carry the ants.

COLLEGE OF MARIN STUDENT

Israeli Arab Views Middle East

By FRANK FARRARA

Arabs in the Old City of Jerusalem now under Israeli rule are happy, according to Nayef S. Jaber, who left there to become a student at the College of Marin.

Formerly under Jordanian rule, the 22-year-old Jaber of Jerusalem declared: "I am proud to say I'm not a Jordanian. My mother always said, 'You're Palestinian, not Jordanian.'"

"There is Palestine and there is government," he said the other day in an interview at his Novato apartment, making it plain that the nation and government were two different thing's.

Before Israel gained the territory in the six-day war, only a few had wealth and the remainder had little, Jaber said. Now, life is better for the workers and the rich alike, he asserted.

In Israel there is democracy and "you can speak and write in newspapers," as compared to Jordan "where if you walk 100 meters, you are checked."

There is no discrimination against Palestinians in Israel, some serve in the Israeli army and "all fields are open," Jaber said.

Jaber said as far as he's concerned the Palestinian guerrillas "are finished," and have been trying to seek power, but "don't know the right way." The guerrillas "can't hurt Israel," he said.

Jaber said he wasn't concerned about the threat of Egypt to Israel. The Egyptians aren't "thinking seriously," and "generally are stupid," except for students who want to change the system in the United Arab Republic.

"The tragedy for the people of Palestine came from Arab governments," Jaber said.

He described the Syrians as "bloody people, who don't like us."

During the six-day war in 1967, Jaber worked with the Red Cross, aiding "the two sides and the civilians," he said.

Jaber recently served 30 months with the Israeli police, which he considers the "best police force in the world." Officers are respected and known as "a friend who helps everyone," he said.

Jaber and a friend, Mahmoud M. Shaheen, 24, a restaurant operator, chose the College of Marin on advice of an acquaintance, Norman Dhlin, a San Francisco State College professor, who teaches parttime at the College of Marin.

Dhlin went to Shaheen's restaurant in the Old City of Jerusalem and convinced them to attend the College of Marin. "The professor said it would be perfect and doesn't cost as much as other schools," Jaber said. Both Jaber and Shaheen are studying to become mechanical engineers, and are looking for part-time work.

"Do you know of anyone who needs a guard?" Jaber asked.

The future for Palestinians is with Israel, and Jordan "is finished," Jaber said. In Jordan, the "law doesn't work" and the "commanders" want to take "over the power," he said.

He described the Arab government as uneasy and said that Amman is a "different place."

When the pair first arrived they were guests of Theresa Solnit, wife of Albert N. Solnit, former chief of advance planning for Marin County, who left to take a post in Israel.

Sweltering in their top floor at 6 Romar Court, Novato, the other day with the temperature at about 100 degrees, they agreed it was "like the Negev," a semi-desert region of Israel.

Correct Cost

The Independent-Journal in a story yesterday erred in reporting the cost of the new Veterans Memorial Building at $4.1 million. The building actually cost $3,159,000, according to Marin County Auditor Michael Mitchell, with another $794,000 allocated to development of the surrounding county fairgrounds.

41 Gonorrhea Cases Reported Last Week

Forty-one cases of gonorrhea and 32 cases of strep infections were reported in Marin County during the week ending Sept. 18, Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, has announced.

Other communicable diseases reported were eight cases of infectious hepatitis, five cases of syphilis and one case of measles.

Semifinalists Named

Twenty-four young scholars from Marin and one from Southern Sonoma today were named semifinalists in the 1971-72 National Merit Scholarship competition.

By placing among almost 15,000 high school juniors nationwide who placed in the top one-half percentile among more than 670,000 students taking the tests, the Marin and Sonoma scholars are now qualified to compete for $1,000 one-year scholarships or up to $1,500 per year in some 500 four-year scholarships.

Winning finalists will be announced in the spring of 1972.

Listed among the semifinalists are:

Marin Catholic High School — Sheila M. Miller and John K. Muldoon.

Redwood High School — Leonora A. Burke, Carolyn M. Clements, Irina S. de Fisher, Cheryl A. Ingersoll, Michael A. Jacobs, Scott H. Setrakian and Virginia C. Smith.

ATTRACTIVE APPETIZERS that are taste favorites when the company comes over to visit. Cheese is one of the best of appetizers, as it can be fixed ahead of time and allow the host or hostess to join the conversation.

EASY DOES IT

Cheese Makes Entertaining Simple

Entertaining is fun when you can enjoy your own party and not be tied down to the preparation of food. The casual get-together with attractively served snacks is the easiest way to manage to visit with friends.

Cheese in all its forms provides hearty as well as easy to serve foods. These crisp cheese balls can be made days ahead of time and frozen. When it comes time for your party or when guests drop in unexpectedly take them out and bake for 15 minutes. They are ready to serve and attractive, especially when rolled in chopped almonds or pecans.

Another party treat that's a breeze to fix is a ham 'n cheese spread. And it's versatile too. You can serve it in a bowl surrounded by a variety of crackers and sliced cheeses. For a more formal occasion, spread it on bread which has been cut into different shapes. To serve it hot use as a filling for grilled sandwiches.

With recipes like these you can have as much fun as your guests when you entertain.

CRISP CHEESE BALLS

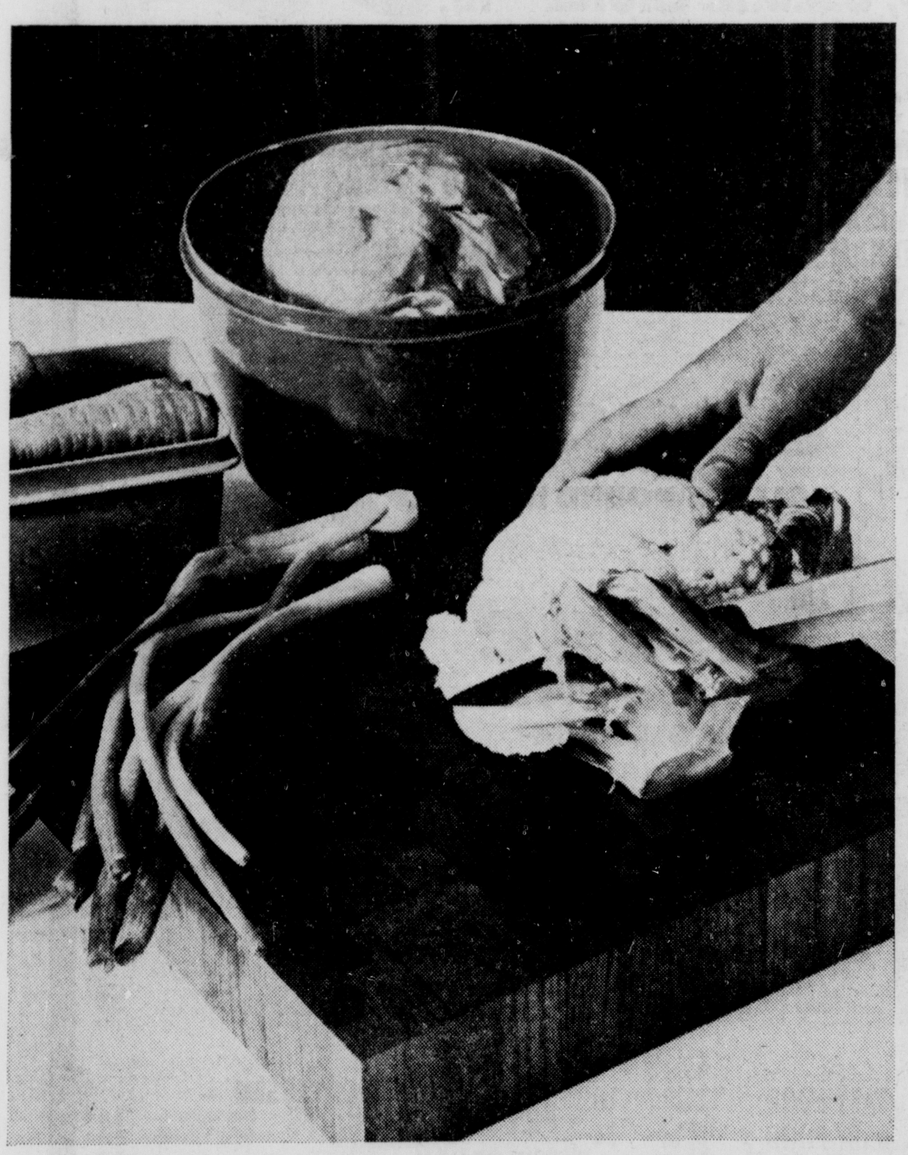
½ cup (1 stick) butter
1½ cups (6 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese at room temperature
1 cup regular all-purpose flour
1/16 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 egg white, beaten
1 cup finely chopped almonds or pecans

In a small mixing bowl cream butter; gradually add cheese and continue to beat until smooth. Gradually beat in flour and pepper, a small amount at a time, until a soft dough; chill several hours for ease in handling. Form into ¾-inch balls. Dip in egg white, then roll in nuts. Place on buttered baking sheets; bake in a preheated 350 degree oven 12-15 minutes. Yield: 4-5 dozen.

HAM 'N CHEESE SPREAD

½ pound cooked ham
6 small dill pickles
6 ounces Swiss cheese
3 hard-cooked eggs
½ cup dairy sour cream
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Grind ham, pickles, cheese and eggs together. In a bowl blend ground mixture with sour cream, mustard and Worcestershire sauce. Serve as a spread. Good also as an open-face sandwich or a filling for a grilled sandwich. Makes about three cups.



ONCE YOU'VE spent good money for foods, preserve them to the best freshness possible by proper storage and refrigeration. Preparing vegetables for storage and placing them in lock-tight food keepers keeps them fresher and more flavorful.

Refrigerator Reorganization Can Add Up To Supermart Savings

Chances are your refrigerator could be a little more organized. How many times have you cleaned out the refrigerator, only to find last week's leftovers jammed behind the catsup bottle? Or hunted for 10 minutes to find that jar of olives?

Today's refrigerators actually are geared to make systematic storage easier for the homemaker, with drawers designed for keeping fruits and vegetables moist and fresh, racks or bins for the handy storage of eggs, inner-door shelves that keep bottles from tipping over, extra-cold compartments for storing meat, and not-so-cold compartments for butter and cheese.

But even with all that help, the most compartmented refrigerator still calls for a bit of organizational know-how.

For instance, do you always store the same thing in the same spot? If you do, you can put your finger on just what you want instantly — and you won't waste time searching for it. One way to organize those bottles and jars is with a turntable that puts the item you want in front of you with a flick of the finger.

Don't keep dibs and dabs of food unless you're sure you'll use them soon. If you do decide to keep leftovers, make sure they'll stay fresh for several days by storing them in lock-tight containers. Sometimes leftovers have more appeal to the family if they're frozen for several weeks and served in a different way; and you avoid piles of leftovers stacked in the refrigerator.

If your family loves cheese and you keep several kinds on hand, wrap each cheese separately, then put them all together in a food keeper.

Don't clutter up the refrigerator with extra jars, bottles or cans of unopened foods. These should go on the kitchen shelf. But some items, like mayonnaise and salad dressings, must be stored in the refrigerator after they're opened.

LEAVE "BREATHING space" around food on shelves — don't pack it in. Foods need ample space in order for the cold air to circulate around them.

Various types of food require different preparation techniques to stay fresh and maintain peak flavor in the refrigerator.

For example, most fresh

Chicken Dish Is A Timesaver

After a frantic business day, people appreciate a pleasant dinner — particularly when it hasn't been reheated five to six times, pending their arrival home.

Almond chicken and rice gives you a fresh-cooked entree that's hearty, satisfying and time-saving, since most of the work is done in advance.

All ingredients can be cut, chopped and measured in advance. The foundation for the dish — rice — can be cooked well in advance of dinnertime. Rice holds well, but if meetings stretch on and on, you can simply reheat the rice with broth or water just before serving. Use one to two tablespoons liquid for each cup of cooked rice.

With all ingredients ready it's just a matter of sauteeing the chicken and vegetables and then allowing them to steam for three minutes, after which you thicken the mixture and serve with snow peas (Chinese pea pods), and rice.

ALMOND CHICKEN AND RICE

1 pound chicken breasts
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 can (1 lb.) fancy Chinese vegetables; drain, reserve liquid
1 cup thinly sliced celery
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons soy sauce
⅓ cup chicken broth
½ cup blanched almonds
1 cup well-drained pineapple tidbits
3 cups hot cooked rice
½ cup thinly sliced green onions

Bone, skin, and cut chicken in small thin strips. Saute in oil and garlic salt until browned. Add Chinese vegetables, celery, and one-third cup of reserved liquid. Cover pan and steam about three minutes or until celery is barely tender. Blend cornstarch, sugar, soy sauce, and broth. Stir into chicken vegetable mixture with half of the almonds. Cook until thickened and clear, stirring constantly. Add pineapple. Serve over beds of rice. Sprinkle with onions and remaining almonds. Makes four cups chicken mixture or 6 servings.

Tomato Broil

Tomatoes, always a late summer favorite, are excellent broiled and served with a steak dinner. Sprinkle the tomato halves with dry Sauterne, salt, pepper and fresh dill. Broil for a few minutes until heated through. Top each half with a dollop of mayonnaise and return to broiler to brown top.

A DISH that can be ready and waiting until a latecomer arrives is almond chicken and rice. Its ingredients can be prepared and then quickly combined when the diners are all assembled.

Change Of Pace From Potatoes

Want something to go with meat that is just a little different? Surprise your family with this delicious change from potatoes — Mashed Baked Bananas. The sweet, subtle flavor of this tropical fruit goes so well with a wide variety of meats and vegetables.

Home economists tell us that although baked bananas taste rich and sweet they are not high in calories

MASHED BAKED BANANAS

3 bananas, peeled and mashed
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
Cinnamon or mace
2 tablespoon slivered blanched almonds (optional)

Spoon bananas into small baking dish. Dot with butter or margarine. Shake cinnamon or mace over top. Sprinkle with almonds. Bake in 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Makes four servings.

Add Country Taste To Pork Chops

There's pure country-kitchen inspiration in this recipe for Tomato-Topped Chops. Pork chops are breaded with a combination of pancake mix, garlic salt and oregano. (Pancake mix also makes a savory coating for chicken or fish.)

Transferred to a baking dish and covered with onions and tomato sauce, the chops are baked 'til tender.

TOMATO-TOPPED CHOPS
Makes 4 servings

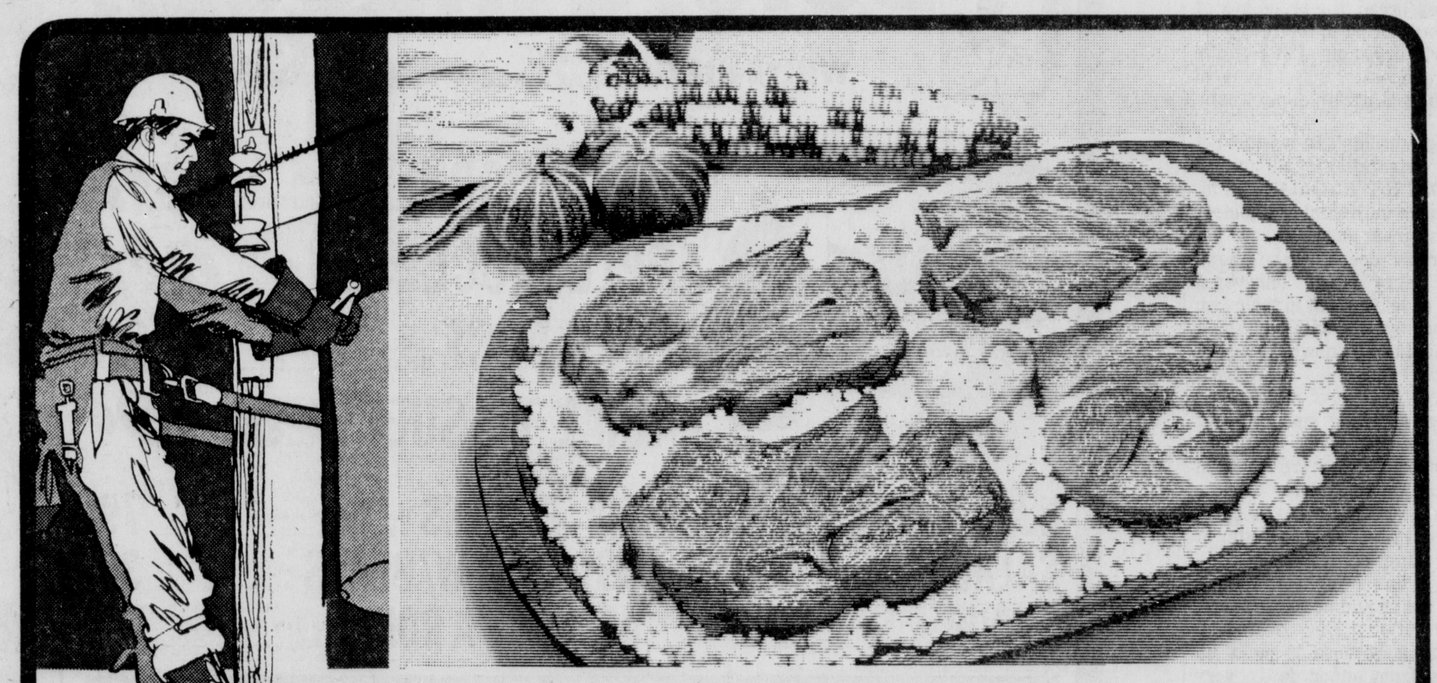
¾ cup pancake mix
1 tablespoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon oregano
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon water
8 lean pork chops, ¾-inch thick
2 medium onions, sliced ¼-inch thick
2 8-oz. cans tomato sauce

Heat oven to moderate (350 degrees.) Place pancake mix, garlic salt and oregano in paper bag; shake to combine. Combine egg and water. Dip pork chops in egg wash, then shake, one at a time, in bag.

Brown pork chops in large skillet in hot shortening. Transfer to glass baking dish; top with onions and tomato sauce. Cover and bake in preheated oven (350 degrees) one hour or until tender.

Nurseries

A new technique which medical authorities believe holds great promise in the management of problem babies is intensive care nurseries.



"Satisfies strapping appetites...
That's what I like about LAMB."

"After a full day spent outdoors on the job, my husband expects a satisfying supper. So I serve lamb often. Lamb's the robust meat . . . with a full measure of satisfying flavor in every bite. He says lamb appeases his appetite better than other meats. Try it – see what you think."

MEXICAN LAMB CHOPS (makes 4 servings)

4 to 6 lamb shoulder chops, about 1-inch thick
Salt and pepper to taste
1 can (12 ounces) whole kernel corn
Water
1 chicken bouillon cube
1 clove garlic, crushed
½ cup sliced green pepper
¼ cup diced canned pimientos

Sprinkle lamb with salt and pepper. Broil 3 to 4 inches from source of heat 5 to 7 minutes on each side, or until lamb is as done as you like it. Meanwhile, drain corn; reserve liquid. Add enough water to corn liquid to make 1 cup. Combine corn liquid, bouillon cube and garlic, and heat to boiling. Add corn, green pepper and pimientos. Cover and cook 5 to 7 minutes or until green pepper is tender. Remove garlic clove. Serve the Mexicali corn with lamb.

AMERICAN Lamb in the circle of good taste

Wine Does Wonders To Any Wild Game

If you have a hunter in the family, or if you enjoy game purchased at a nearby specialty store, use wine when preparing it. Wine brings out the flavors of pheasant, venison and other game and helps to smooth out the "gamey" taste. Here are some tips on cooking wild game with wine:

Because venison can be a tougher meat, marinating in a wine mixture before roasting tenderizes while adding flavor appeal. A good marinade is: 1 cup water, 3 cups Burgundy wine, 2 teaspoons mustard seeds, 2 bay leaves, 1 teaspoon each thyme, salt and pepper, 2 cloves crushed garlic and 2 onions, sliced. Marinate 24 hours at least, turning often.

VENISON steaks from the hind leg of the deer are more tender and can be broiled. Home economists recommend marinating the steaks in Burgundy wine to cover for several hours. Remove steaks, pat dry and coat with bread crumbs. Broil 10 minutes on each side.

THE CONNOISSEUR'S delight, pheasant, is easy to prepare with this oven method. Quarter pheasant and flour lightly. Place in roasting pan and sprinkle with marjoram and parsley. Dot with ½ cup butter. Top with 4 small onions, 1 stalk celery and ½ cup each beef consomme and Burgundy wine. Cover and bake at 325-degrees for 2 hours.

PHEASANT can also be pan-fryed. Flour pieces and brown in butter. Add 2 cups sauteed mushrooms, 1 cup dry Sauterne, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 3 or 4 chopped green onions and salt and pepper to taste. Cover and cook for 1 hour or until tenderm

RABBIT is a delicacy when prepared properly. Marinate rabbit pieces in White Catawba or dry Sauterne wine overnight. Place rabbit pieces over hot coals and baste with a mixture of 1 cup wine (from marinade), 1 cup chicken broth, 2 cloves garlic and 1 teaspoon oregano. The rabbit takes about 1 hour to cook either outside on the grill or inside in thebroiler.

WILD GOOSE should be roasted, covered tightly, with liquid (such as Burgundy wine) added to the pan. Seasonings to use are bay leaves, garlic, cloves, paprika, salt and pepper. Goose pieces cooked in this manner require about 1½ hours roasting time.

Oriental Fried Foods Easy To Fix

There is a very simple way to give a crisp oriental type coating to fried foods. It consists of dipping first in beaten egg which has been diluted with water, then in corn starch and again in the egg mixture When foods coated in this way are fried in hot corn oil, the coating puffs, crisps and browns to perfection. A coating such as this is especially good on chicken.

ORIENTAL FRIED CHICKEN

1 broiler-fryer, cut in serving pieces
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
2 eggs
1 tablespoon water
1 cup corn starch
Corn oil for frying

Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Beat eggs and water until well mixed. Dip chicken into egg mixture, then into corn starch, coating evenly. Dip into egg mixture again; drain off excess. Pour corn oil into wok or large deep frypan to a depth of about one-quarter inch. Heat over medium heat to 375 degrees. Carefully put chicken into hot oil to avoid spattering. Cook, turning once, 25 to 30 minutes or until light golden brown and tender. Drain on absorbent paper. Makes four servings.

fruits, with the exception of berries and cherries, should be washed and dried before storing. Berries and cherries should be sorted and stored in their original basket or in a shallow bowl and placed in the crisper or on the shelf. Wash just before serving. Most fresh fruits can be stored uncovered, but should be used rather quickly because they are extremely perishable.

Of course, all cut fruits and those with stronger odors, like pineapple, should be wrapped. Canned and dried fruits should be stored in lock-tight containers for short term storage.

SALAD VEGETABLES, including lettuce, parsley and celery, should be trimmed, washed and kept moist and cool in the vegetable bin or placed in a salad keeper. Lettuce placed on a plastic lettuce holder in a salad keeper will retain the moisture and stay fresh longer than in a vegetable bin.

Asparagus, broccoli, spinach, green beans, cucumbers and other greens should be trimmed and washed in cold water and stored in the crisper, too. Ripe tomatoes can be stored uncovered on a refrigerator shelf or in the crisper. Leave green peas and lima beans in the pod until ready to cook, and sweet corn in its husk. These vegetables need to be refrigerated, but not covered.

Other vegetables, like potatoes, onions and winter squash, do not require refrigeration but should be stored in a cool, dry spot.

RAW MEATS AND POULTRY should be kept in the coldest part of the refrigerator at a temperature close to freezing (30-35°F.) If your refrigerator has a special meat-storage compartment, be sure to use it.

These products benefit from some air circulation, so they should be covered loosely. Take off bulky store wrappings and cover with wax paper, foil or the inner wrapping from the butcher. Prepackaged meat can be left in its original film wrapper because it has "breathing" properties.

Fish should be stored in a food keeper to prevent the transfer of odors to other foods in the refrigerator.

Keep bread in a bread box or frozen; storing in the refrigerator will dry it out. Put bread in the refrigerator only to prevent molding in warm, damp weather.

Eggs shouldn't be washed before refrigerating.

MOST REFRIGERATORS today have individual egg holders on the inner door. If your refrigerator doesn't have them, place eggs in an uncovered bowl or leave them in their own carton, always with the small end of the egg down. If you're storing egg whites, cover them tightly. Egg yolks can also be refrigerated, but enough water to cover the yolks should be added before they are stored in an air-tight container.

Many refrigerators have compartments to keep butter at spreading consistency. Only enough butter for two or three days use should be stored there. Keep butter tightly covered all the time because it picks up odors from other foods very easily.

WORKING WITH children is her favorite activity, even with her own small ones, says Lynn Harriman Moody, drama and dance teacher. Here she encourages self-expression in her daughter and son Erica, 1, and Myles, 3, in their Ross home. Now teaching in Marin again, Lynn has taught ghetto youngsters and a class of adults and toured the U.S. with the Bishop's Company of repertory theater.

CHILDREN AND ARTS

A Reentry Into Favorite Field

By BARBARA HOSMER

Lynn Harriman Moody of Ross has come full circle in what she calls "getting back" into her favorite career area. As a teacher for Marion Hayes Cain's Magic Circle to expose and involve children with the arts, Lynn Moody is back at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, where she used to do choreography for Mrs. Cain's Junior Theatre workshops when she was 14.

Now she is using all of her wide background in dance, drama, speech and teaching techniques with the Magic Circle class each Tuesday.

Having been a dancer, an actress and a ghetto teacher, Lynn says she has always enjoyed working with children best.

"THE OBJECT is not to become an actor or actress but to come closer to your own self and express your reactions about life," she explains about what happens in her classes, although they may be simply labeled "drama."

This can happen in a small group of children — or adults — Lynn has found.

"People need an outlet for expression now," she says, pointing out that they are constantly being bombarded with words, noise, facts, stimulus of all kinds from society and need to react.

"Sesame Street," she said, has made its point — "now it doesn't have to be so gimmicky. It's time for it to grow," she said, discussing its method of teaching children. She said that such television teaching has its limitations and that in live groups of children or adults education comes through involvement of each.

"The schools would like that to happen," Lynn said, and added that the Magic Circle idea is being taken into schools by its director, Marion Hayes Cain of San Anselmo.

WHAT HAPPENS in the circle? Some eight to 10 children meet together for a period of time, take a seed of thought and a seed of action and let them grow together in the direction that the group wants to go, explains Lynn.

Speech work is important for expression and the parents like their children to have that; concentration solely on an idea or problem, such as the improvisation theater groups do, teaches a person to concentrate and has a healthy effect on people, Lynn believes.

"You learn to look for the key to a problem. It has a good effect on studying," she said.

Body movement is the way you get to know your instrument and movement involves the whole self, Lynn explains. "We tighten up as we get older and need it even more."

She said the concept of the circle isn't meant just to appeal to the child who's dramatic, but helps the shy one be more expressive and the aggressive one become toned down.

LYNN'S BACKGROUND is as varied as the elements the children use in her classes.

She spent 11 years dancing with Ann Halprin's Creative Dance classes and later Dancer's Workshop in Marin, was an exchange student to Sweden at an art folks school and majored in speech and drama at Dominican College. She taught drama to children at the college's Saturday arts program and at San Domenico School.

She also directed a summer arts project at a home for disturbed children with the American Friends Service Committee.

And for two years Lynn Harriman toured the United States and Canada with The Bishop's Company, a national repertory drama company, playing some 60 different roles. She also conducted workshops for religious arts festivals in New York and Michigan during that time.

Then she began a career of teaching drama with ghetto youngsters, first with teen-age gang members at the Henry Street Settlement in the Lower East Side of New York City, and then as project director of the "Come On In" creative arts program for Hunters Point in San Francisco.

"The special pilot project began just as the war on poverty had been announced, and parents were a little more eager to support it. The project ended just when the riots began," Lynn said. The project, which reached some 250 children, evolved into "Girls Club" and is sponsored by the Junior League.

"We got an old church building and used San Francisco State students and had all kinds of arts going — dance, drama, pottery, woodshop," Lynn explained. "We had to start from scratch in teaching sensitivity a little at a time," referring to technique of singling a certain part of the environment to see and describing it.

"LATER WHEN I was teaching at San Domenico, what I learned in the ghetto I found applied to all teaching," Lynn said. While at the Henry Street Settlement she managed to bring the teen-agers to the point where they put on elaborate drama performances, teaching that each youngster was being depended upon to be there and the group needed him, she said. If he didn't show up, we'd send somebody out to find him, she said.

Later she taught improvisional classes with a group made up of a variety of adults for the San Francisco Recreational Department.

Lynn and her husband live in Ross with their children Myles, 3, and Erica, 1, and she took a few years off to devote to the family. Now she enjoys her once-a-week re-entry into teaching children.

"It gives me plenty of time to prepare," she comments.

AUSTRALIAN VISITOR

No Quick Changes In Her Parliament

By ERIK INGRAM

When Joyce Steele entered parliament in her native South Australia she had visions of revolutionizing the world. That ended shortly.

"Everyone thinks that way to begin with, but you soon learn you're just a small cog in a very large wheel," she said Saturday while visiting at the Bayside Acres home of a friend.

BUT WHILE SHE failed to revolutionize the world, she did succeed in revolutionizing state politics. She is the first woman to become a member of parliament from the State of South Australia, which she described as "the first state to give women the vote (1894) and the last state to let them serve in parliament,"

Mrs. Steele left Marin Monday on her return trip to Australia and the rigors of being a member of the Liberal Party in a 47-seat parliament dominated by the Labor Party. During her 15-week stay in the United States she toured most of the East Coast, the South and California with her son, Christopher.

She was elected in 1958 from a middle class section of Adelaide, the capitol of the industrial state, and has successfully battled for her seat four times since.

"WOMEN SHOULD have the same opportunity as men, providing they have the same ability," she said. "I've been one of the lucky ones. I've worked and been accepted by the men."

Besides being the first woman member of parliament, she also broke the barrier into the prestigious minister class as Minister of Education. No other woman in the country had held such a position.

But it wasn't herself that the 62-year-old legislator wanted to discuss, it was the U.S. and the things she saw.

"The diversity of America, its cities and scenery, that's what impresses you first," she said. "And the National Park Service . . . I'd love to be in a position at the federal level to start something like that in Australia."

PRESERVATION OF natural areas, she said, are left up to the five states in Australia and they, like those in the U.S., are having money problems.

But, she continued, "your cities are a wreck . . . They're too large."

To Mrs. Steele, the freeways and strip development of auto agencies, motels and gas stations outside most U.S. communities are "nightmarish."

"I hope, but I'm doubtful, that Australia will not develop that way," she added. "We can learn a lot from the U.S. We should be able to benefit from what has been tried here."

Speaker Bows Toward Goals Of Liberation

Psychotherapist Nina Lathrop of San Francisco last night recounted traditional psychological theory about women and ended with a bow toward the goals of the women's liberation movement.

Using a questioning attitude toward traditional psychological views of women, Mrs. Lathrop came out more strongly in agreement with changes women in the new Feminist movement are attempting to make when she answered audience questions following her lecture at the College of Marin.

"Women have been made vulnerable throughout history because they have always been subject to pregnancy and rape. The effecting of equality of rights for women may be possible now only because technological development has made pregnancy and childbirth a matter of choice," she said.

"This may change family life in the Western world. . . I myself have not been all that taken with the Western family," she added drily.

"The nuclear family and the uncles and cousins family are not the answer either. Perhaps there are newer and better forms to come — relationships we have not tried yet. For those of you who are for the changes, whatever they may be, more power to you."

Mrs. Lathrop added that women must be helped to think of themselves as complete persons, not as the adjunct of someone else.

She agreed that Freud was a sexist, as the Feminist movement has charged, but added to remember that he came out of a completely sexist society in which the male and female roles were thought to be ordained by God.

Speaking on possible innate sex differences that are behaviorial, the psychotherapist cited a study being conducted at Mt. Zion Hospital in San Francisco in which babies aged 2 to 4 days are being studied.

The study, she said, is not conclusive to show marked and immediate differences in behavior between the sexes because there is so much overlap (similarity) in the boys' and girls' behavior.

But, she said, the study is showing that 3-day-old babies do respond to different ways they are handled.

"How young does a child have to be to respond to signals parents send out — is there in infancy already an expectation of what girls and boys are supposed to do?" she asked, examining the point that perhaps non-physical sex differences are created by the culture.

"I wonder what it would be like if girls were brought up differently than they are," she mused.

The series on "Women: Past, Present, Future" will continue next Wednesday with a talk on Cross Cultural Perspective of Women by anthropologist Dr. Margaret Mead

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Mother Of Four Just Hates To Get Up In The Morning

DEAR HELEN:

This problem won't seem like much to you, but it may ruin my marriage. I can't get up in the morning.

I'm supposed to see my husband off for work at 6 a.m. I set the alarm — and sleep right through. He doesn't hear it either, so he's often late, and he almost never gets breakfast.

He calls me lazy, throws things around, says he's going to lose his job but still, no matter how I concentrate, I just can't force myself to face the day at 5 a.m.

We have four small children and I'm carrying a baby now; also, we have a big house to care for.

What am I going to do? — HELP PLEASE

DEAR HELP:

Put breakfast things out the night before, put the alarm clock across the room (set on extra loud) so that your husband must stir himself to turn it off — and stop feeling guilty. A mother of four and one-half needs sleep when she can get it, and a man who doesn't give her a rain check on early morning meals is so inconsiderate he'd make a miserable breakfast companion.

(And you can tell him I said so .... On second thought, you'd better not!) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Thanks in great part to you, our goal of obtaining a much needed kidney machine for our hospital is within reach before the Dec. 31 deadline. Response to our appeal for Betty Crocker Coupons has been unbelievable. They have poured in from all over the country since someone (would you believe — we don't know who?) wrote to HHU, telling of our project.

We now need just 50,000 more coupons, and the kidney machine will be a reality. As your readers know, General Mills has given us until Dec. 31, 1971, to get them in.

Helen, we don't know how to thank you and your readers for all you've done. Could we add just one final plea: if anyone has Betty Crocker coupons or can collect them — please, please send them to us before the middle of December. With deepest gratitude: Ethel Hughes, Saddle River Reformed Church, 500 Saddle River Road, Upper Saddle River, N.J., 07458.

DEAR READERS:

I'll add my thanks to Ethel's. Keep those coupons coming — there are only 50,000 more to go . . . and that life-saving kidney machine is greatly needed.

P.S. Another project which needs Betty Crocker coupons (and has a deadline of November, 1972) is one conducted by the Girl Scouts of Secaucus, N.J., to get a much-needed, (and expensive) part for a hospital heart machine.

Thanks for any help you can give these two projects. Coupons for the latter can be sent to: Edna Namendorf, 809 Cedar Ave., Secaucus, N.J., 07094. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm unmarried, but have two children. Now I'm in love with Bill, who treats me and my children wonderfully — better than their blood father ever did.

In May, Bill married a girl who has lots of money and a new car.He still stees me, and says he'll come back to marry me when he gets what he wants from her. She is buying him a motorcycle and guitar, but he comes over whenever he can. I knew him first. Do you think I'll get him last? — WANTS A HUSBAND NAMED BILL

DEAR WHNB:

Look for Pete . . . or Joe . . . or Hank . . . or . . . anyone but Bill — who evidently only goes to the highest bidder. — H.

What Government Didn't Say About Soaps And Detergents

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Uncle Sam is not doing any better than Arthur Godfrey as an adviser to housewives on how to clean the family wash. Last week's statement by three federal agencies only added to the confusion already existing about the role of phosphate detergents in laundering and pollution.

In effect, the statement sided with the detergent industry, which has been campaigning hard to counteract the widespread criticism of phosphate detergents as contributors to water pollution.

The off-the-cuff statement of the U.S. Surgeon General, Dr. Jesse L. Steinfeld, was just what the industry wanted to hear, "My advice to the housewife would be to use a phosphate detergent. It is safe for the household."

FOR MANY months, the makers of phosphate detergents, which include almost all detergent products, have been telling the public that all the Brand X's that contain no phosphate may be dangerous to human health.

They based their claims on the fact that most of the nonphosphate detergents contain silicates, notably metasilicate, which are extremely irritating to the skin and mucous membranes and may be fatal if swallowed.

It is also a fact that metasilicate in a product such as Ecolo G is more caustic and potentially more harmful than regular phosphate detergent. But phosphate detergent can also cause problems if spilled into the eye or swallowed accidentally by a curious youngster.

The three government agencies — the Council on Environmental Quality, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare — also threw cold water on another phosphate substitute called NTA, for nitrilotriacetic acid.

About a year ago, there was a sudden rush to NTA by some detergent manufacturers because it appeared to be less polluting than phosphate, which has been linked to eutrophication, a process that prematurely ages bodies of water. Then, a few months later, lab tests showed signs that NTA might cause cancer.

LAST WEEK'S government statement simply confirmed an earlier statement on NTA that it may cause more problems than it solves and therefore should not be used in detergents. Very few products, however, have any NTA now.

With two of the most promising substitutes for phosphates having been effectively dismissed, the government appeared to reverse an earlier stand against phosphates. It said it would provide financial assistance to communities seeking to neutralize phosphates in sewage treatment plants.

Government officials acknowledged that phosphates) cause pollution but said in effect that there is no way at present to avoid using them. What they did not say was that there are ways for concerned citizens to cut down on them or avoid them completely without exposing themselves or their families to dangerous hazards.

One simple answer is to use soap flakes or powder in communities where the water is soft (from zero to three grains). If you are not sure of the water quality, a few trials should tell the story. If the water is too hard, soap curds will leave a film on the clothes.

If this does not work, add washing soda to soften the water, and be prepared to accept "glamorous gray" rather than "whiter than white" in your clothes. Whiteness is not necessarily the same as cleanliness.

IF THIS still does not work, try a low-phosphate detergent. Then, if necessary, try stronger products. But before doing so, consider the help you can get from other cleaning aids.

One is to try soaking soiled items in plain water overnight. This can do miracles the next day when the washing process is begun. Plain water, of course, is itself a powerful cleansing agent. In one lab test, plain water scored better than a popular detergent in cleaning dirty diapers.

Use of ammonia or bleach can also help in the cleaning process. Liquid chlorine bleach is an economical whitener, disinfectant, deodorant and stain remover, but it can damage silk, wool and mohair

Trio Will Present Concert On Sunday

WILBUR F. RUSSELL
To play Sunday

Organist Wilbur F. Russell, flutist Clive Hawthorne and violinist Stephen Golden will present a concert Sunday at 4:30 p.m. at the Methodist Church of Mill Valley.

Russell, who is director of music at the First Presbyterian Church and associate professor at San Francisco Theological Seminary, both in San Anselmo, assists Ludwig Altman at San Francisco's Temple Emanu-El and is pianist with the Kensington Trio.

He will perform on the church's new Baldwin organ works by Antonio Soler, C.P.E. Bach, N. Vruhns, Franck, Ginastera and J.S. Bach.

Known as the musical barber, Hawthorne has had an extensive background in chamber ensemble music. Between customers at his shop in Fairfax he joins other customers in playing chamber music at the back of the shop, where there is a piano.

Also a member of the Kensington Trio, Golden is a student at the San Francisco Theological Seminary. He toured Europe at the age of 16 as a member of a chamber ensemble under the late renowned George Ezell of the Cleveland Symphony.

Golden and Hawthorne will join Russell in the Adagio from C.P.E. Bach's Trio in B Flat for two instruments and keyboard and Jacques Ibert's Two Interludes from the contemporary period.

CALGARY, Alta. (UPI) — Premier Harry Strom, as trustee of the Alberta government, is faced with a $1 million lawsuit for allowing a strip-mining operation on the eastern edge of Banff National Park.

Two Receive Fines In Marijuana Case

Odeva Field Ivey Jr., 25, of Santa Venetia, and Ronald Kenneth Alexander, 24, of San Rafael have been fined $75 each for being in a place where marijuana was used.

Judge Robert A. Smallman sentenced the pair after they pleaded guilty to the charge.

An additional misdemeanor charge of possessing marijuana against Alexander was dismissed at the request of the district attorney's office following his plea.

The case of a codefendant, Ronald Dean Dilello, 25, of San Rafael, was continued to March 15 for possible dismissal, according to the district attorney's office.

The trio was arrested July 5 when San Rafael police went to an apartment at 355 Canal Street because of neighbors' complaints of noise. Officers said they smelled burning marijuana when they went to the door of the apartment.

Apollo 15 Explorers Will Thank Crewmen

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The three Apollo 15 moon explorers will return to their launch site next Wednesday to thank ground crewmen who started the record-breaking expedition July 26.

Change Will Be Topic Of 10-Week Seminar

Accelerated change and how it affects people, specifically Marin residents, will be the theme of a 10-week seminar sponsored by the Marin Jewish Community Center.

Registration for the course, to be held from 8 to 10 p.m. on alternate Tuesdays beginning Oct. 19, now is under way at the center.

The first three classes will deal with, "Marvelous Marin? Sick Suburbs or Utopia," and will be led by Sol Silver, acting director for advanced planning in the county.

"New Roles for Men and Women," the second group of classes will be presented by Dr. Joseph Gutstadt, psychiatrist.

The final series will concern "New Politics: Revolution, Rhetoric and Reality," and will be led by Robert Politzer, architect.

The courses will be held at the Edna Maguire School in Mill Valley.

Catholic Priest Sent To Jail For Sermon

SAO PAULO (UPI)—A military court sentenced a Roman Catholic priest to 20 months in jail Tuesday night for delivering a sermon saying "Brazil never became independent... we left the Portuguese dominion to enter the dominion of the Americans."

According to the prosecution, the Rev. Helio Soares do Amaral had violated the nation's national security laws with his sermon.

Like It Or Not, Juan Has To Pitch In Astrodome

HOUSTON (UPI) — The tail-spinning San Francisco Giants are going so bad these days that it even looks dark when their stopper is scheduled to pitch.

The Giants lost their 13th game in their last 16 starts to the Houston Astros 3-1 Tuesday their 1 1-2-game lead in the National League West race.

The Giants will send their ace, Juan Marichal (15-11) against the Astros tonight, but Marichal hasn't won a game in the Astrodome since July 28, 1968. San Francisco has won only five of its last 26 games in the Dome.

Marichal, who has a 4-4 career mark in the Astrodome, said he doesn't like the air conditioning in the domed stadium.

"I already feel stopped up, like I got a cold," Marichal said after the series opener. "I get a bad headache, a backache and sometimes it's a stiff neck so bad I can't turn my head.

"I remember once after leaving here and going to St. Louis, I was playing cards in Willie Mays' room and I got the sneezes so bad I pulled a rib muscle sneezing," Marichal said. "I got the sneezes from catching cold here. I couldn't pitch right for 44 days after getting the pulled muscle so you see why I don't like this place so much."

Giant Manager Charlie Fox said balderdash.

"He could stand on his ear, but he's pitching tomorrow night," Fox said.

Jack Billingham, 6-0 in his career against the Giants and 31-31 in his career overall, stood the Giants on their collective ears Tuesday night with a five-hitter. The only run came on Willie McCovey's 17th homer that tied the game at 1-1 in the top of the seventh.

Rookie Larry Howard, who grew up in Atwater, Calif., 100 miles east of San Francisco, beat the Giants with a two-run homer over the center field fence in the last of the seventh. It came after a double by Jim Wynn and a sacrifice.

"When I was a kid I used to listen to the Giants every day," Howard said. "They were my favorite team. I just loved the Giants and hated the Dodgers—like a true Giant fan."

The Giants didn't even talk to Howard when he turned pro out of high school, but that doesn't bother him. He signed as a free agent with Houston in 1963 and spent almost nine seasons in the Astro farm system.

"That was my first game-winning homer," Howard said. "It was a belt high fast ball and I never hit a ball any harder."

Fox said the Giants aren't folding. He said the other teams are playing better against them.

"I don't think we're tightening up," Fox said. "I didn't see a guy mishandle a ball out there. Their guy pitched a helluva game. The other teams are playing great ball against us.

"We're just not hitting the ball, period," Fox said, pointing to his team's main problem. "I'm going to have to change up (the lineup) to get some runs."

One change will be Fran Healy catching instead of Dick Dietz, but Fox wouldn't reveal any other changes. Dietz was beaned on the left templein the seventh inning and suffered a cut which took four stitches to close.

Dietz was taken to a hospital for X-rays and Fox said he did not know how long he would be sidelined.

The Houston pitcher tonight will be James Rodney Richard, the hard-throwing rookie who struck out 15 Giants last week in winning his major league debut in San Francisco.

FIGHT NIGHT

Athletics Lose Pair

OAKLAND (UPI) —Chuck Tanner, the Chicago White Sox manager, says it was a changeup curve that hit Mike Epstein of the A's and Oakland manager Dick Williams says it was a fast ball and it was thrown with intent.

The two skippers were poles apart on the pitch that touched off a big fight in the ninth inning of Tuesday night's doubleheader — opener between the A's and White Sox. A quick poll of baseball writers in the press box showed unanimity with Tanner.

Bart Johnson, the young and often wild White Sox rookie right-hander, was the man in the middle, and the one who touched off the fireworks. When the smoke had cleared Johnson went to a hospital for examination of his neck and left wrist and the White Sox went to bed with a 5-1 and 6-2 sweep of the A's.

Johnson, leading 5-0 in the bottom of the eighth, first low-bridged Reggie Jackson with an inside fastball and after he struck him out, Johnson hit Epstein with what appeared to be an inside changeup curve.

Epstein threw his bat in the direction of the mound while trotting to first and also let Johnson know how he felt about being hit.

In the top of the ninth, A's pitcher Rollie Fingers hit Ed Herrmann and that prompted plate umpire Larry McCoy to call Tanner and Williams for a conference. McCoy told the two managers that he didn't want "any more of that stuff (bean balls)."

Johnson was the next batter and Fingers sent his first pitch on a line toward Bart's head. Johnson put up his bat and bunted it toward first. Epstein picked up the ball and was ready to tag Johnson out, except the Chicago pitcher stopped and started backpedalling toward the plate. Epstein was so incensed at being upstaged that he flattened Johnson by tagging him with the ball on the jaw.

Johnson squared around to make a fight of it but Epstein beat him to the punch and sent him spinning on his heels. Before another blow could be struck players from both benches came out to pull the participants apart. Epstein suffered a bruise under his left eye and was ejected and Johnson, who had given up only three hits and struck out 12 in eight innings, had to quit because of his injuries, neither believed to be serious.

"People forget that Johnson is only a rookie and that he tends to be pretty wild at times," said Tanner. "I can't believe he had any reason to throw at anyone considering the big lead and the circumstances. I think Epstein simply lost his head. He hasn't been going good lately and he had to take his frustralion out on someone."

Tanner explained further that he has had to take Johnson out of three of his last four appearances because of wildness.

Williams didn't see it that way at all.

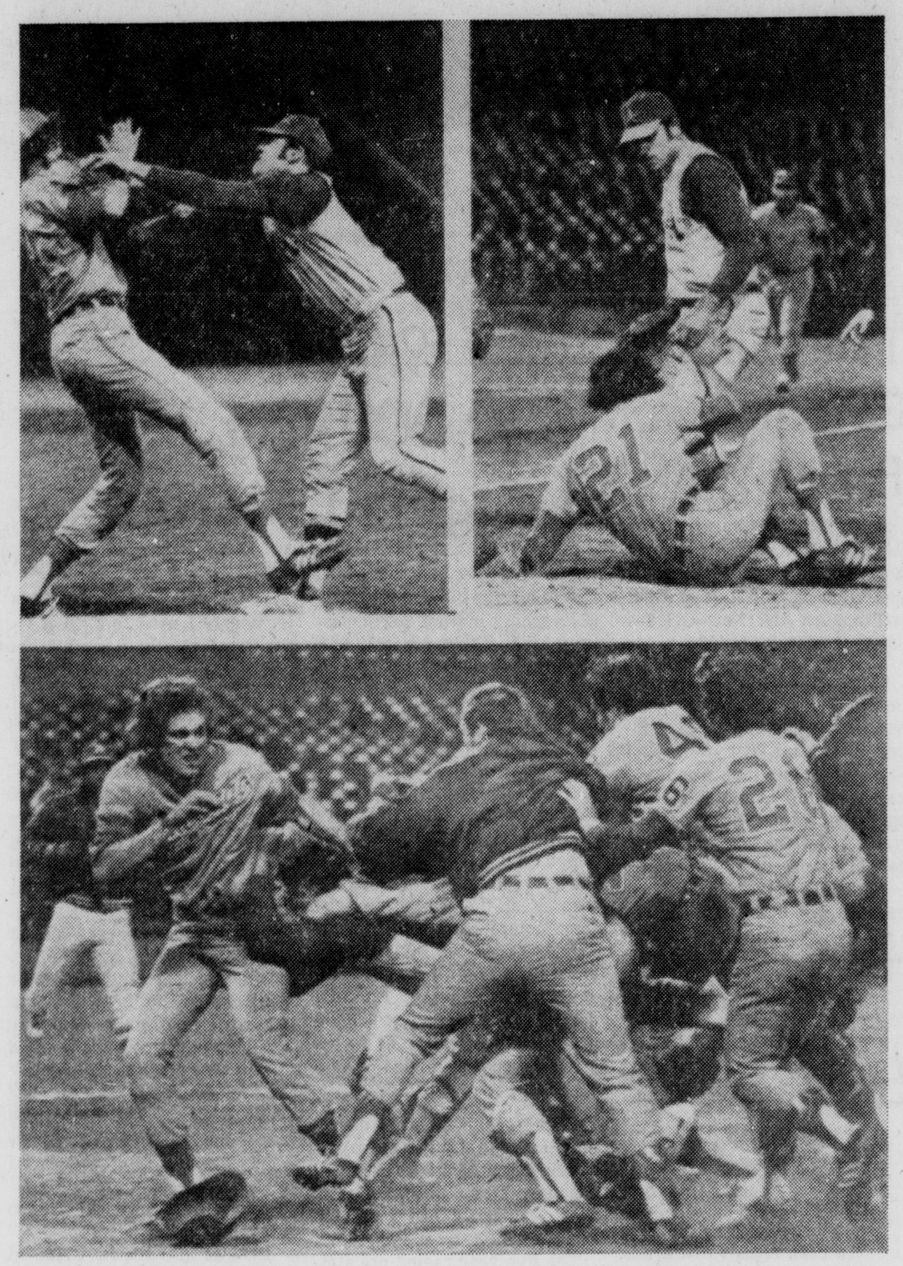
"There is something wrong with that guy (Johnson)," said Williams. "That's the third beanball fight he has had this year, two of them with us. I believe he was throwing at our guys on purpose although I don't know why."

Carlos May and Rick McKinney each drove in two runs in the opener as Johnson, with ninth inning help from Steve Kealey, won his 12th game in 22 decisions. Chuck Dobson took the loss, his fifth compared to 15 victories.

Pat Kelly, who had one rbi in the opener, added three more in the nightcap as the White Sox, who now have beaten the A's 10 times in 17 games this year, broke the game open with a four-run fifth inning rally. Lefty Tommy John and Vicente Romo added 10 more strikeouts with John gaining credit for his 13th victory in 28 decisions. John Odom was touched for all six White Sox runs in four plus innings and took his 12th defeat compared to 10 victories.

For the A's, Sal Bando hit his 23rd homer and Joe Rudi, with one hit in the opener and three in the nightcap, extended his hitting streak to 12 games.

Vida Blue shoots for his 24th victory as the two clubs wind up their season's work against each other tonight. It'll be Blue's fifth attempt at no 24 although he is slated to pitch only five innings. Tom Bradley pitches for the White Sox.



SWINGING A's — Oakland first baseman Mike Epstein, apparently still fuming after being hit with a pitch from Chicago's Bart Johnson in the bottom of the eighth yesterday, shoved Johnson (TL) to the ground in tagging him out after the latter bunted down the first base line in the ninth. The "Swinging A" and Johnson subsequently exchanged blows until both benches emptied onto the field, seemingly on Epstein. The A's won the fight but lost the doubleheader 5-1, 6-2 at the Coliseum. Lakers Cut 1969 Top Pick Willie McCarter

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Willie McCarter, the Los Angeles Lakers' No. 1 draft choice from Drake two years ago, was placed on waivers Tuesday.

McCarter, a 6-foot-3 guard, appeared in 76 games for the Lakers last season, hitting on almost 42 per cent of his shots.

Madden — Chargers' Defense Improved

OAKLAND (UPI) —Oakland Raiders coach John Madden says the San Diego Chargers have changed from an offensive-minded team to a tough defensive club.

Despite being upset 20-6 by the New England Patriots last week, the Raiders have been installed as 3 1-2-point favorites over the Chargers at San Diego Sunday.

"They've changed their defensive people," said Madden. "They've got a new defensive coach (Phil Bengtson) and they're doing things differently.

"Steve DeLong, at defensive end, is the only guy we know on that front four. They've got (Ron) East and (John) Tanner on the left side, and Andy Rice is the tackle on the right side."

Despite the shuffling, Madden was impressed with the way the San Diego defense handled Kansas City 21-14.

As for the Raiders, Madden says he plans to make major changes. But he noted tackle Ron Mix and running back Charlie Smith will miss the Charger game because of lingering injuries.

Senators Leaving Washington In '72

Owners Okay Move To Texas

BOSTON (UPI)—The Washington Senators have suddenly become the Dallas-Ft. Worth-Arlington, Texas team in one of the major league baseball's most surprising franchise shifts.

American League owners, apparently ignoring the warnings of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, baseball lawyers, and congressmen, gave overwhelming approval on a 10-2 vote shortly before midnight Tuesday to let owner Bob Short move his financially ailing franchise effective next season.

The league placed some stipulations on the Texas group to make the shift "conditional" but Arlington officials had already offered to meet the stipulations in their presentation.

In choosing to let Short continue his ownership of the club and operate under a $1-a-year basic lease in Texas, the league turned down two offers to purchase the club and keep it in Washington.

The prime offer came from food store chain owner Joseph Danzansky who said he and two others offered to match Short's original purchase price by paying $7.9 million for 90 per cent of the stock.

Kuhn, in what was literally an 11th hour move, suggested that the offer be boosted to $7.9 million for 80 per cent of the stock. He left the closed-door hearing late in the evening and the announcement of the shift came shortly after his suggestion was obviously turned down.

The next thing anyone knew, and with only the Baltimore Orioles and Chicago White Sox dissenting, Short and the Senators were on their way to Texas.

Short said he would begin shifting operations to the Dallas-Fort Worth area on Oct. 1 and would "set up in a tent if necessary" if office space was not immediately available.

Danzansky labelled the loss of its major league franchise as a "tragedy for Washington" but Arlington Mayor Thomas Vandergriff said it was the "answer for 13 years of work" in attempting to "give the Southwest the major league franchise it has long deserved."

Vandergriff explained that the $1-a-year lease figure would apply only until 1 million home attendance was reached and said the stipulations called for expansion of the 21,000-seat municipally-owned Turnpike Stadium to 35,000 seats by next April and 45,000 by April of 1973.

The stadium has been the home of the Dallas-Fort Worth Spurs of the Dixie Association, a Baltimore Oriole affiliate and one of the few minor league franchises which has consistently shown a profit. In addition, the stadium is used by the University of Texas Arlington branch.

Although Short had insisted publicly as late as last week that he didn't expect to own the Senators when the league meeting ended, he emerged from 13 hours of nearly continuous discussions still the owner of 90 per cent of the Senators stock.

Short admitted that he would seek new investment in the team in Texas but insisted he would not turn the ball club into a publicly held corporation where "every stockholder knows more than the president and the president doesn't know anything."

Short described the terms of his new lease as putting him in a "more favorable position than any major league operator I know of" and admitted that the Texas radio and television revenue potential was "greater than anything we've been able to obtain in Washington."

Noting that James Lemon still holds 10 per cent of the Senators stock and that manager Ted Williams has an option to buy 10 per cent of Short's stock, the club owner said he "certainly expected" to have Williams as his manager in Texas.

Kuhn, describing the decision as a "sad day" for Washington, admitted under questioning that he presumes Congress "might very easily touch on" the Senators shift in current hearings and future probes.

"The league could not see a possibility for successful operation in Washington," the commissioner added.

Cronin said the league had not yet had time to consider the question of playing some Baltimore home games in Washington as was suggested a day earlier by President Nixon. But he admitted there had been some discussion about it though declining to say whether Baltimore's opposition to the franchise move was connected with the suggestion.

Plunkett Is Instant Hero For New England Fans

NEW YORK (UPI) —The people of New England have themselves a new boy.

His name is Jim Plunkett, he's already being merchandised as a combination Paul Revere, Pancho Villa, Joe Namath, and inasmuch as the big thing today is identification, the football fans of New England now are identifying with a big, black-haired 23-year-old Mexican-American whom whey believe can finally bring them a winner.

Jim Plunkett supported all this unbounded faith in him against the Oakland Raiders Sunday when he pitched a pair of touchdown passes during a hot third period performance and powered the New England Patriots to a 20-6 upset win in their home opener.

When it was all over, the 55,405 in brand new Schaefer Stadium at Foxboro, Mass., stood up and let Plunkett know how they felt about him.

That ball game is finished and head coach John Mazur must prepare the Patriots for their next one with Detroit on Sunday, but none of the cheering for Plunkett has died down. If anything, it has increased and not only around Boston, either.

Some already are comparing Plunkett to Namath although comparisons like these really are an injustice to both. All they do is make Plunkett wince and Namath laugh, the same way Sandy Koufax used to laugh privately everytime they came up with "a new Koufax."

Jim Plunkett, who certainly looks like the goods, is a remarkable young quarterback. He could be the best of the new lot but there's still so much he has to learn and nobody knows that better than he does. He made mistakes against Oakland, the way any rookie quarterback will, and he knows that, too.

"I was very conservative the first half," he says. "I tried to keep the ball on the ground. Maybe too much. But I didn't want to make any mistakes. That's the thing I was concerned about, making mistakes like throwing an interception or calling a bad play close to our end zone where they might get good field position. I think that's why I was so conservative. But the second half we had to throw the ball. We were behind by a touchdown and I opened up a little bit more. Our running game started to go and that's what helped our passing game."

"I'm not as good as I'd like to be or will be," says the 6-3, 210-pound rookie. "That takes time."

A Vote For Williams For Rookie Of Year

HOUSTON — Chris Speier looked like the runaway rookie candidate of the year in the National League during the first half of the baseball season. The 21-year-old shortstop of the Giants not only was turning the DP with his double play partner Tito Fuentes but hitting a solid .265.

The only blemish on Speier's first half record was a statistical red mark of 18 errors prior to the All-Star break. The fact that half the errors were due to Speier's aggressiveness in trying to get too many outs on one play was a mitigating circumstance.

SPEIER AND Fuentes continued to turn the DP after the All-Star break but the rookie's errors soared while his batting average dipped. As the Giants started their final nine-game road trip, Speier's errors had climbed to 32 and his batting average dropped to .235.

It would take something sensational from Speier in the final games to get him back in the running for rookie honors. Even if he turned out to be the hero who won the pennant for the Giants with a dramatic home run or spectacular glove play, his overall season record must be rated second to that of Atlanta's talented rookie Earl Williams.

WILLIAMS' 33 homers and .275 batting average can't be ignored in any balloting based on justice and merit. His RBIs by season end should be between 90 and 100. And, as Atlanta's No. 1 catcher, Williams has done a most remarkable job in view of the fact that he never caught in the minors.

Williams, a high school whiz in his native Montclair, N.J., was 18 when the Braves signed him in 1966 as a pitcher. He was a 6-3, 200-pounder who could fire the ball. Then the Braves discovered he could hit, too.

He was converted into a first baseman, then a third baseman and finally last spring into a catcher. Paul Richards, general manager of the Braves who was a catcher himself, doesn't take any bows for making a catcher out of Williams.

"IT WAS A desperation move," says Richards. "We had nobody else who could do the job. Williams is an intelligent young man. He was ready to accept the challenge. I am not the only one who believes Williams is going to be a better catcher than Johnny Bench. Remember, Williams never previously caught in the minors.

"Until a couple of months ago Speier was the leading rookie candidate but Williams is far ahead of Speier now or anyone else you want to name, incuding Phidelphia's Willie Montanez."

AFTER HE hit 33 homers, drove in 107 runs and batted .340 at Greenwood in the Western Carolinas League in 1969, Williams was called up by the Braves. But he was sent out to Shreveport in the Texas League for more experience following 1970 spring training. He hit .318 at Shreveport, including 19 homers.

The Braves were convinced he was ready for major league competition when they called him up this spring. They were right.

Pac-8 Has Balance— Ralston

OAKLAND (UPI) —Stanford coach John Ralston figures the Pacific-8 Conference is so well balanced this year that a team could win the championship with two losses.

"In the past, losing to USC usually meant you were out of it, but this season there's so much balance, a team could win the championship with two losses," Ralston told Northern California football writers Tuesday.

He referred to Saturday's Pacific-8 Conference opener between his Indians and the Oregon Ducks at Stanford as "a real classic, but I don't think a loss would kill either team."

Oregon coach Jerry Frei, meanwhile, as is an opposing coach's custom, heaped mounds of sugar on Stanford and its quarterback, Don Bunce. Frei spoke to the writers via a telephone hookup.

"I'm more impressed with this year's Stanford team because there are some weapons not evident last season," said Frei. "I think Bunce is every bit as good a quarterback as Jim Plunkett.

"Bunce's ability to run and pass makes him more difficult to defense. Stanford's offense has hardly gone downhill with Bunce."

Ralston noted that Oregon has a potent offense, rolling up a school-record 615 yards in a 36-29 victory over Utah. Ralston said this was accomplished after the Ducks lost their three linebackers with injuries.

"I really don't think we've had a top test in our first two games with Missouri and Army," said Ralston. "But it will come Saturday because I rate Oregon up there with USC and Washington as the best teams in the conference."

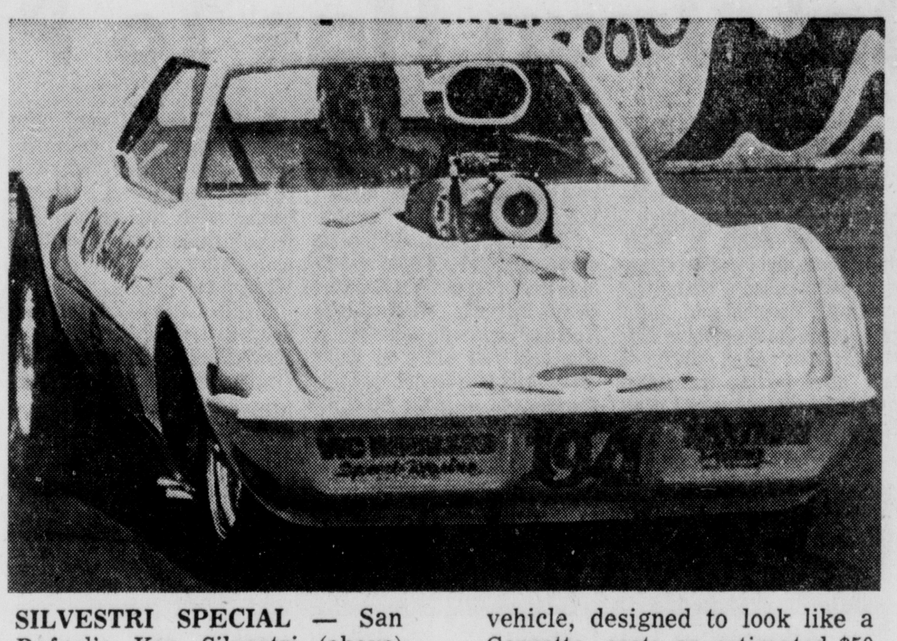
Meanwhile, Cal coach Ray Willsey said his Bears aren't looking ahead to the Ohio State game Oct. 2 and neglecting this Saturday's game with San Jose State at Berkeley. Fresno State upset the Spartans 14-7 Saturday.

"We're in no position to overlook anybody," said Willsey whose Bears are 1-1. "We know San Jose State is a better team than it showed at Fresno and the Spartans traditionally make it tough on us in Berkeley."

Spartan coach Dewey King called the Fresno State loss "a horrendous affiar." He promised the Spartans would bounce back "and give a good account of ourselves against California."

Defensive tackle Sherm White of Cal was named defensive player of the week by the writers while offensive honors went to Stanford receiver Miles Moore who caught two touchdown passes in a 38-3 rout of Army.

Running back Aaron Rudolph of San Francisco State, who rushed for 166 yards and two TDs in a win over USF, picked up offensive honors in the college division. USF linebacker Bob Unruh was selected the top defensive player.



SILVESTRI SPECIAL — San Rafael's Ken Silvestri (above) thoroughly tested his not so funny car valued at $20,000. The vehicle, designed to look like a Corvette, costs an estimated $50 to operate per day, according to the 28-year-old owner.

Tight Ends Battling For No. 1

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Coach Dick Nolan says he isn't sure whether Ted Kwalick or Bob Windsor will start at tight end against the New Orleans Saints Sunday.

"Ted is the better receiver ... Bob is the better blocker," said Nolan. Kwalick, a 6-4, 215-pounder in his third year from Penn State, started last Sunday's game against Atlanta. It was only the second time he has started for the 49ers and he caught six passes for 97 yards.

"I don't feel good about it because we lost," said Kwalick.

WHAT'S SO FUNNY?

$20,000 Car No Laughing Matter

By RON LENT

A funny car costing $20,000 is no laughing matter, particularly to the auto's creator, San Rafael's Ken Silvestri.

The 28-year-old Silvestri has been racing nearly 13 years. During that span, he has accumulated 62 first place trophies and a lot of memories, climaxed by the construction of his latest dream. The car, which will launch a national "drag" campaign following its display at the California Custom Motorcycle and Car Show Sept. 24-26 at the Oakland Coliseum, is based on a 1971 Corvette. The vehicle hit test speeds of 170 miles per hour in 8.5 seconds on drag runs with a 1,200-horsepower engine on regular pump gas.

"That (gas) is the main difference between my car and other funny cars. The others use nitro for gas. I don't because it is more expensive and more explosive," Silvestri explained.

The five year racing pro stated that the auto is a funny car with oversized rear wheels and fiber-glass shell. It has the same frame, body, design and suspension. Because of the gas differential, his car costs $10,000 less than a typical funny car "and it normally only takes $50 a day to operate. That's less than the usual funny car." And it also has an automatic transmission.

Possibly his first vehicle could be construed as a funny car, if only by comparison to today's standards; it was a 1940 Ford coupe. He added, "as a teen-ager, I used to race it on the street, mostly."

Silvestri met a lot of people that way, mostly policemen.

However, in 1962, Silvestri turned in his tickets for a track. "That's when I built my 1937 Chevy," he said, regarding his recent jousts in Double-A gas super charge competition. "But the car," he mused, "outdated itself. I went through 17 engines on it."

The precocious race driver won his first go in his initial try during the 1963 season. For the next three years, he accumulated experience while maintaining amateur status but turned pro in 1966 "for the challenge." The following year, he dropped a 327 super charged engine and ran it one season. "When I blew that motor," he recalled, "I turned to the 427 Chevy motor.

"I was the first in the area to convert to it."

He was also the first student to take over the instructional responsibilities of his high school auto shop class at George Washington in San Francisco. "I taught the shop for two years," he remembered fondly.

However, those days are gone; now Silvestri has his own shop in San Rafael. From this locale, he develops racing cars for others and works on his own, such as his car show entrant. After racing it three times since mid-August, netting a pair of thirds and a second, Silvestri has been improving the structure by changing cam shafts, tires and transmission.

His sponsors must believe in this young man, a veteran of the Cotate, Sacramento, Sears Point, Half Moon Bay, Fremont, Vacaville and Los Angeles circuits, for they backed their faith with money to help Silvestri build his $20,000 car.

May Still Picks Dodgers To Win

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Lee May picks the Dodgers to win but he's doing his best to make it difficult for them.

"It seems to me that the Dodgers, with their pitching, have the best chance," the Cincinnati Reds' slugger said Tuesday night, "especially since Willie McCovey is hurting."

May made those comments after he drove in five runs with a double and a homer as the Reds clobbered Los Angeles 9-3, and foiled its bid to pick up a game on the Giants, who lost to Houston 3-1 despite a homer by McCovey.

The Giants, who've lost 13 of their last 17, still lead by 1 1-2 games in the Western Division. The Giants have eight games left and the Dodgers seven.

May, who now has 38 homers but had been struggling this month before this game, knocked out loser Claude Osteen with his homer in the four-run fourth and he kayoed reliever Doyle Alexander with a double in the four-run fifth. Don Gullett, 16-6, picked up the victory.

Rookie Larry Howard hit a two-run homer in the seventh to snap a 1-1 deadlock and Jack Billingham pitched a five-hitter to get the victory as Houston beat the Giants.

Manager Charlie Fox batted Willie Mays in the leadoff spot for the fourth time this year and he went 1-for-4 but it wasn't enough to pep up the Giants' sagging offense.

In other games, St. Louis topped Pittsburgh 6-4, Atlanta beat San Diego 5-2, Chicago blanked New York 3-0 and Philadelphia edged Montreal 5-4 but lost the second game 4-3.

In the American League, Baltimore blanked New York 50, Boston nipped Detroit 3-2, Kansas City topped California 6-2, Milwaukee edged Minnesota 4-2, Washington routed Cleveland 9-1 and Chicago swept a doubleheader from Oakland 5-1 and 6-2.

St. Louis delayed Pittsburgh's pennant clinching in the Eastern Division as Jose Cruz' two-homer in the seventh inning gave the Cards the victory over the Pirates. Moe Drabowsky pitched three hitless innings of relief to gain the victory.

Hank Aaron continues to get better with age. He's 37 now but he cracked his 46th homer for his personal high in one season as Atlanta downed San Diego. Aaron now has 638 homers in his career and he's just eight homers behind the 40-year-old Mays. Aaron now seems a cinch to crack Babe Ruth's career mark of 714.

Rookie Burt Hooton, who beat New York on a three-hitter last week for his first major league victory, pitched a two-hitter to give Chicago the victory over the Mets for his second major league triumph. Ron Santo homered off Tom Seaver, who took the loss and is now 18-10.

Two-run doubles in the five-run seventh inning by Roger Freed and winning pitcher Billy Champion handed Philadelphia the first game victory over Montreal. But Bob Bailey drove in all four runs with a homer and a double to give the Expos the second game triumph.

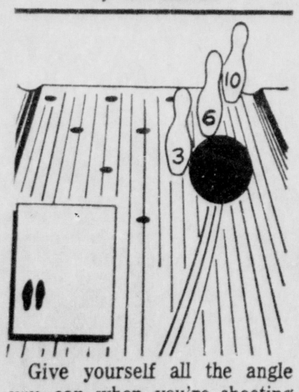
BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



Give yourself all the angle you can when you're shooting at the 3-6-10 — it's tough. Move to the extreme lefthand corner before you start your approach, brushing against the ball return if there is one on that side. The purpose is to give your ball a chance to deflect off the 3-pin and then get the 6 and 10.

If your ball comes at the 3-pin head-on, instead of on an angle from the left, it is more likely to be driven straight back into the pit, leaving the 6 and 10 untouched.

Jabbar Keys Buck Triumph

DALLAS (UPI)—Lew Alcindor, who says he wants to be called by his Muslim name of Kareem Jabbar, scored 31 points Tuesday night in pacing the Milwaukee Bucks to a 106-103 exhibition victory over Dallas in the First game ever between teams of the rival NBA and ABA.

Milwaukee had to rally in the final 11 seconds to defeat the surprising Chaparrals, coached by Tom Nissalke—who last year was Milwaukee's assistant coach.

The Chaps had a 103-102 lead until McCoy McLemore pumped in a 15-foot jump shot. Lucius Allen added two free throws with one second left to round out the scoring.

Surprisingly Dallas was in the game all the way against the defending NBA champs. Dallas trailed by only two at the end of the first quarter and by only four at the half.

The Chaps took the lead when rookie guard Gene Phillips caught fire in the fourth quarter and hit six of six field goal attempts.

Steve Jones led the Chaps in scoring with 19 points.

The clubs used NBA rules during the first half and ABA rules, including a red, white and blue basketball, in the second half.

Football

CLEVELAND (UPI) —A federal grand jury today was to convene for the third consecutive day to investigate possible anti-trust violations by the National Football League.

Jack Christiansen, former head coach of the San Francisco 49ers, testified before the jury Tuesday and said he knew of no cases within the NFL in which players were blacklisted.

During his appearance behind closed doors, Christiansen said Bernie Parrish, former defensive back with the Cleveland Browns, was mentioned. Parrish had contacted a player on the 49ers' squad, according to Christiansen, for help in getting a contract with the West Coast team. Christiansen added he was never contacted by Parrish and said the 49ers were not interested in Parrish because they did not think he was needed.

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Bears Tuesday announced the trade of linebacker Leroy Caffey to the Dallas Cowboys for an undisclosed choice in the next draft.

Caffey, obtained by the Bears last year from Green Bay where he had played six years, was a regular last season but appeared to have lost his job this season to Ross Brupbacher.

Baseball

BOSTON (UPI)—In his 21 years in office, Mayor Thomas Vandergriff has rarely been at a loss for words. But he was shocked into silence for a while late Tuesday night.

Vandergriff, who headed the Texas delegation seeking to obtain the Washington Senator baseball team, was informed by Charles O. Finley in a hotel lobby that his group had succeeded in luring Bob Short's baseball team to Arlington.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Night Boating's Fun If You Know Rules

Many small boat owners resist taking their boats out after dark, and I think it's because night boating requires just a little extra know-how and understanding of the rules. Yet boating at night can be very exciting — everything is so calm and quiet after a hectic day.

Motorboats and sailboats must carry navigation lights from sunrise to sunset. The law says they are not a daytime requirement, but failure to have lights at night can bring a $500 fine.

Most boaters know . . . some rather vaguely . . . that navigation lights consist of a red light on the port side (left) and a green light on the starboard side (right). But this is not enough. To understand navigation lights thoroughly every boater should get a copy of the "Coast Guard Recreational Boating Guide." It's booklet CG-340 for 45 cents from the U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

The fact that lights and night navigation concerns many boaters is indicated by some of the questions they ask:

Q. Isn't there a new rule about sailboat lights?

A. Yes. It became effective about three years ago with the revision in International Rules of the Road. Sailboats over 40 feet may now (it's optional) display a red over green light at the masthead as well as the red and green side lights. It's explained in he Coast Guard booklet.

Q. What lights does a canoe require at night?

A. Canoes and rowboats (unpowered craft) do not require navigation lights, but a white light must be shown if there is danger of collision. A flashlight will do . . . and no one would go out without a flashlight, or would they?

Q. Can I turn off all lights while at anchor?

A. Yes, if your boat is under 65 feet long and is in a recognized, anchorage area. But, if it is anchored in a navigable waterway, it must show a white light visible all around the horizon (360 degrees), bright enough to be visible for two miles if in international waters or Western rivers (Mississippi waters), but only for a mile on inland waters or the Great Lakes.

Q. Can you water ski at night if you carry a flashlight?

A. Water skiing is banned by law in practically all states from one hour after sunset to sunrise, even if you're lit up like a Christmas tree. Check your state boating law.

Q. I'm told that fishing at night without a light is illegal. Is it?

A. You can fish all night in total darkness if you like. But the moment another boat approaches and there is danger of a collision, the law requires you to show a white light such as a flashlight.

Q. What's the basic reasoning behind the red and green navigation light system?

A. If you can see another boat's green light, it's a "go" signal, you have the right of way. But if you see only his red light — this means he's approaching from your right and the Rules of the Road give him right of way — it's a stop signal for you. If you can see only his stern white light, it means you are overtaking him and it's a warning to keep out of his way.

Q. Do ocean liners follow the same rules for navigation lights?

A. Basically, yes. But there's much more to it, and if you plan to operate in the company of big mercantile ships, dredges, barges, tug boats or pilot boats, you had better get a good text book. They all carry different identifying lights.

Q. The channel into my dock is hard to see at night. Any suggestions?

A. Most hardware stores well a fluorescent reflective tape (kids put it on their bicycles). Put strips of it on stakes to mark your channel. Put some on corners of docks and other points to be marked. The tape glows in the beam from a flashlight and readily guides you in.

49ers Picked By 13, Raiders 3½ Point Choice

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI)— Despite dropping their openers, the San Francisco 49ers, Oakland Raiders and Los Angeles Rams were listed as favorites Tuesday to win their next games.

Harrah's Tahoe Racebook figures the 49ers as 13-point choices over New Orleans, Oakland 3 1-2 over San Diego and Los Angeles 3 1-2 over Atlanta.

Other pro odds: Kansas City over Houston by 7 1-2; Washington over the New York Giants by 2 1-2; Miami over Buffalo by 6 1-2; Detroit over New England by 11; Dallas over Philadelphia by 13 1-2; Cincinnati over Pittsburgh by 3 1-2; Minnesota over Chicago by 14 1-2; Baltimore over Cleveland by 5 1-2; Green Bay over Denver by 3 and St. Louis over the New York Jets by 5 1-2.

Close Softball Games In Recreation League

MacArthur's Pub trimmed Morwear Paints, 7-6, and Bourbon Shop tipped All Catholic All-Stars, 11-10, in San Rafael Recreation Department softball last night on Albert Field.

Dave Urquhart belted two home runs in pacing Bourbon Shop's come-from-behind triumph. Bob Schmidt had four safeties and three runs batted in for MacArthurs.

Ross Soccer Program To Start

There will be a lot of soccer being played in Ross this fall.

Playing in the newly formed Marin Youth Soccer Association will be youngsters in third through sixth grades. There are 10 teams and about 100 boys involved in the program.

The association will kick off its activities Friday night at 7:30 with soccer films at the Ross School multi-purpose room. The films will be on a game between Pele and his Santos of Brazil teammates against International of Milan, Italy. Cost is $1 for adults and 25 cents for children.

Another main attraction for the boys will be a clinic put on by University of San Francisco players on the Ross Common Saturday, Oct. 2, 10 a.m.

The third and fourth grade league opens its schedule Sept. 27 and the fifth and sixth grade league opens its slate on Sept. 28.

Thomas Rejoins Cowboys

DALLAS (UPI)—Former Dallas Cowboys' running back Duane Thomas has dropped the former from his name.

Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle reinstated Thomas to the defending NFC champs and the controversial runner was told to report to the team today.

It is not known yet exactly when Thomas will be placed on the active roster but it is expected to be sometime after Oct. 3, the date the Cowboys open their home season against the Washington Redskins.

A decision on whether that game will be played in the Cowboys' new Texas Stadium in suburban Irving or in the Cotton Bowl also is expected at any time.

"Thomas has been reinstated by the commissioner," Cowboys' President Tex Schramm announced Tuesday. "He will report. The extent of what he can do will be determined by Dr. Marvin Knight."

Thomas has an inflammation in his leg but the full extent of the injury is not known.

The Cowboys have 10 days to decide whether Thomas will be placed on the 40-man active roster or on the seven-man Taxi squad. Coach Tom Landry, whom Thomas called a "plastic man" during his salary dispute with the club, said he did not know when Thomas would be activated.

The team is expected to try to find another trade for Thomas during the next 10 days. But such attempts have proved unsuccessful in the past.

Thomas' status will also depend on how healthy Calvin Hill, the Cowboys' No. 1 running back at the present, can stay during the next 10 days.

Landry will also want to see if Hill can untrack the Cowboys this weekend against the Philadelphia Eagles, a team that has been rough on the Cowboys of late. The Cowboys won both games played between the two teams last year, but they were close, 17-7 and 21-17. And in that second game, the Eagles held Dallas to a total of 38 yards rushing, a Cowboy modern day low.

In another move Tuesday, the Cowboys obtained linebacker Lee Roy Caffey from the Chicago Bears in return for an undisclosed draft choice. Caffey is in his ninth season. His best years were with Green Bay in 1965, 1966 and 1967 and he was an all-pro selection in 1965.

Smith Gets Stiff Test In Tennis

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —U.S. Open champion Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., encountered unexpected trouble from Ross Case before subduing the 4th ranked Australian 6-3, 7-6, Tuesday night in a feature men's singles match of the $73,000 Pacific Southwest Open tennis championship.

Smith, No. 1 seeded in the tournament, overcame a 3-2 deficit by winning the last four games to capture the first set.

The lanky Pasadenan outpointed his rival 5-1 in the tiebreaker period to win the second set and the match.

Earlier in the day, Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia and Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., second and third seeded, swept to straight set wins.

Other seeded players also won easily. Frank Froehling, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., defeated Tom Edlefsen, Los Angeles, 7-6, 6-4; Roger Taylor of England downed Steven Faulk, Covington, La., 6-2, 6-2, and Pancho Gonzales needed only 43 minutes to whip Milan Holecek, Czechoslovakia, 6-2, 6-2.

Redwood Bank Tennis Tourney Finals Sold Out

BERKELEY (UPI) —Meet director Barry MacKay says all tickets have been sold for the finals of the $50,000 Redwood Bank International Open Tennis tournament Oct. 3 at the Berkeley Tennis Club.

But he said tickets are still available for earlier rounds, Sept. 25 through Oct. 2, at both Berkeley and the Golden Gateway Club in downtown San Francisco.

LOOK WANTED MORE PUNCH

Ralston Explains McClure Article

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Stanford coach John Ralston thinks that ex-lineman Tim McClure was misquoted in his magazine article blasting the Indians.

"The people that know Tim know the ultimate article isn't what he wrote, and we have other far more important things to worry about than that," Ralston told the Northern California football writers Tuesday.

Look's story under McClure's byline included charges of drugs being taken at halftime of the Rose Bowl game, discrimination against long hair and dictatorial practices by the coaches.

McClure has denied the most controversial parts of the article, which he said was intended more as an attack on the harsher aspects of the whole collegiate grid scene and not just on Coach Ralston, whom McClure said he likes.

"I'm disappointed in the thoughts Tim has toward intercollegiate football," Ralston said, "although let me stress again that Tim was misquoted often."

Stanford publicist Bob Murphy said he heard rumors of the story last spring and got in touch with the magazine's sports editor, Jared Lebow.

"He told me the story as he had it didn't have enough meat in it, and he was coming out to get more punch to it from McClure," Murphy said.

He said some of the players read it last spring and "didn't think it was terribly inflammatory at all."

Ralston said that "coaches live in glass houses; I've been called an SOB before, but usually by the alumni; I guess I owe Tim an apology if I offended him."

Stanford officials have denied assertions of pill-popping at halftime of the Jan. 1 Rose Bowl game although McClure's article said it was done without knowledge of the coaches or trainer.

McClure later said the drug taking was added to the original article after "some people from Look flew out and taped the conversation about drugs with me . . . It wasn't supposed to be in at all."

He said the drug intake was limited "to a few guys, but it was there."

McClure asserted that "the original (article) degenerated into a negativistic statement of bitterness and frustration."

But he decided to let the article be printed over his name, he said, because it might get people to take a more jaundiced look at the college football scene.

Softball Victory

Suburban Auto of San Rafael secured a San Francisco "A" League playoff with the Aristocrats Tuesday by whipping them, 5-1, yesterday. Winning pitcher Joe Nystrom scattered three hits while striking out 10.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A Double Against A Resourceful Declarer Can Be Very Disastrous

A careful declarer should find the right line of play in today's hand even if no bell rings to warn him of danger. The fact remains that most bridge players give an undoubled hand only a second or two of thought. The trouble with doubling a resourceful declarer is that you ring the bell, warning him to play the hand carefully. So if you're thinking of doubling a good player when your tricks are on the doubtful side, the word to the wise is: Don't.

ROUTINE LEAD

If West had made a routine diamond lead, South would have had an easy time. South would win with the ace of diamonds and lead the king of clubs. Even if West refuses that trick (the best defense), South crossruffs spades and clubs, making an overtrick.

West actually led the ace of trumps and then a low trump to dummy's king. Declarer returned a club to the king, and West shrewdly refused the trick. (If West takes the ace of clubs, South takes the ace of spades, ruffs a spade in dummy and discards two spades on high clubs.)

When West refused the ace of clubs, South had only nine sure tricks: five normal trump tricks, one ruff in dummy, one spade, one diamond and one club. How should he play for his 10th trick?

HELP FROM ENEMY

The double and the opening lead warned South to expect the high spades behind him. He therefore cashed the ace of diamonds and led the queen of spades. (A low spade would allow East to win and get out safely by returning a spade.)

West had to win with the king of spades and get out with his diamond. South ruffed, ruffed a low spade in dummy and returned the queen of clubs, discarding a spade.

A BLACK CARD

West had to take the ace of clubs and had to return a black card, for lack of anything else. spade return would give South a free finesse with the ace-ten; and a club return would yield a trick to dummy's jack. Either way, West had to give declarer his 10th trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 6
♥ - K 10 9
♦ - 7 3 2
♣ - Q J 7 6 4 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs.

Partner will think that you are using the Stayman Convention, asking him to bid a major suit of four or more cards. No matter what partner bids, you will go on to three clubs. He will then know that you are showing a "club bust," and he will pass.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 22, the 265th day of 1971 with 100 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

On this date in history:

In 1692 the last executions for witchcraft were carried out at Salem, Mass. Nineteen persons were hanged and one crushed to death that year.

In 1959 the Chicago White Sox won the American League baseball pennant for the first time in 40 years. They lost the 1959 World Series to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

A thought for the day: Rudyard Kipling said, "Meddling with another man's folly is always thankless work."

Insurance Firm Bound To Recover

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Why is it that there is so little said about insurance stocks? I hold Philadelphia Life Insurance bought at over $30. It dropped in price when the market went down and has never recovered. I am puzzled whether to keep it or sell. Is this stock worth keeping? — E.T.

A. The insurance industry has been the subject of several articles — which you apparently have not seen — in the financial media in recent weeks. The concensus of these brokerage, analyst and investment advisory reports favor the industry for gradual growth at a reasonable price-earnings multiple. Recent interest stems from the outstanding market performance particularly apparent in the multi-line companies. Another contributing factor in the bullish stance for the group is the narrowing credibility gap as to earnings.

Your shares, purchased at the height of a bull market, are now selling 35 per cent below their peak, having rebounded 110 per cent from the 1970 low. The Dow Industrial average now 9 per cent below its former peak has rebounded only 45 per cent since the 1970 low point. Fundamentally there is no reason to believe that Philadelphia Life (OTC) will not continue its recovery.

In the first half of 1971 adjusted earnings gained 18 per cent year-to-year with premium income and investment income contributing equally to the increase. For the full year company should push earnings into new high ground perhaps in the $1.40 a share area. Hold Philadelphia Life for further recovery.

Stock Market Down In Moderate Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) —Prices declined in moderate turnover on the New York Stock Exchange today.

Economic news for August had a bearish look, but much of it developed before President Nixon imposed his 90-day wage-price-rent freeze at mid-month. The cost of living for Americans rose three-tenths of one per cent in August (a bigger increase than in July), and the Commerce Department reported a drop in new orders for durable goods in the same period.

Among the most active Amex issues were Tesoro Petroleum down fractionally on 43,000 shares, Tesoro warrants off more than a point on a volume of more than 20,000, and Asamera Oil down slightly.

American Firms In Ulster Say Rioting Doesn't Trouble Them

By LeROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI)—The 35 American manufacturing firms in Northern Ireland seem to be experiencing relatively little trouble because of the Belfast rioting.

"We have had a little absenteeism on the night shift because workers don't want to leave their families at night in these troubled times," said a spokesman for Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., which has a big tire factory at Craigavon in County Armagh.

"We have no reports of disruptions at all," said International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. Its Standard Electric subsidiary has a works at Monkstown in County Antrim.

DuPone Co. has a synthetic rubber and plastic plant at Londonderry, a hot spot in the present commotion and there have been no problems there.

The Irish Republican Army has been intimidating Roman Catholic workers at some British owned plants in Northern Ireland, ordering them to stay off the job to harass the government of Prime Minister Brian Faulkner. But the IRA has made no effort to keep Catholic workers from their jobs in American owned plants.

"I've heard absolutely nothing of harassment of American or other foreign firms in Northern Ireland," said Jack O'Brien, director of the Irish Northern Aid Committee in New York. "Our enemy is England not America or) Germany."

A spokesman for Dublin's consulate in New York said he had heard of no harassment of foreign firms in Ulserter.

Although American firms with factories in Northern Ireland leave hiring policies up to local managers, they apparently have not been accused of religious discrimination on jobs. The Northern Ireland Development Office said a few smaller American firms in the country had made an overt effort to balance hiring along religious lines but that the bigger American subsidiaries simply ignored the religion in hiring. It was learned that DuPont's Londonderry plant has more Catholics than Protestant workers. This is not surprising since Londonderry's population is largely Catholic.

American investment in Northern Ireland has been growing fast in recent years, but the 35 American factories employ only about 5 per cent of the six counties' 520,000 workers.

Nine American companies have located in Ulster or expanded their facilities there to the tune of $84 million in new investments since the civil disorder started in August, 1969.

These firms include Monsanto, ITT, Ford Motor Co.'s Autolite division, National Distillers' Bridgeport Brass division, Textron's Fafnir bearing division, Norton Abrasives, Plastic Capacitators, Globe Union and V.F. Corp.'s Berkshire International subsidiary.

Other American firms with factories in the troubled areas are Kent Plastics Corp. of Evansville, Ind., Brunswick Corp.'s Sherwood Medical division of St. Louis, AMF, Inc., Essex International, Inc., of Ft. Wayne, Ind., Fruehauf Corp. of Detroit, H.J. Heinz Co. of Pittsburgh, Nichols & Co. of Boston, Camco, Inc., of Houston, Norton Co. of Worcester, Mass., St. Joe Paper Co. of Jacksonville, Fla., and TRW, Inc., of Cleveland.

Agenda Too Short, Or Supplement Too Long?

Marin County school trustees have been shaken up by a memorandum from Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino, warning that the skeleton agendas furnished the public by many districts are illegal in light of an appellate court decision in the case of Carlson vs. Paradise Unified School District.

Godino didn't mention, of course, the vast difference between what is furnished the public and what is furnished the school board in the way of printed background information in many districts. Taht has no bearing on the legality. But it may be an indication of just how devoted school board and administration are to letting the public in on what they're doing.

Let's take an example.

TAMALPAIS HIGH SCHOOL District is not among those given to skeleton agendas. For its Sept 13 meeting, for instance, the public was furnished with an agenda of two single-spaced typewritten pages which pretty well spelled out the matters the board was to consider.

Accompanying this two-page agenda for the board members (and press), however, were 220 similarly single-spaced pages of additional material.

Of these, 57 pages consisted of resumes of things that had come up at previous meetings. These consisted of 25 pages of minutes of three previous meetings, 28 pages of budget summaries, one page of supplemental book list, and three pages listing class offerings.

SINCE THE BUDGET had been adopted the previous month, the 28 pages of budget summaries were resumes of material included previously in similarly large packages.

Minutes of three meetings up for approval would seem to indicate the superintendent's staff during the summer was unable to cope with getting the minutes out on time.

The remainder of the 220 pages consisted of the following:

Graduate follow-up survey, 50 pages; citizen advisory committee memorandum, three pages; recommendations on institutional memberships, 26 pages; lawsuit against district, one page; grievance procedure, four pages; rental agreement, six pages; home-school transportation contract, nine pages; Tamalpais High School walkways, 19 pages; building program, 13 pages; special reserve fund bills, 13 pages; regular bills and salaries, eight pages; personnel actions, five pages; superintendent's report, one page.

The superintendent was not that brief. The page merely said he would give a verbal report and mentioned the subjects. A digest of his report doubt will show up along with the minutes at the next meeting.

SCHOOL BOARD members need to be kept informed. We have often heard them ask superintendents for more information on matters that came up at meetings. But 220 pages?

It is perhaps worth noting that the 26 pages on institutional memberships included letters and promotional material from the organizations involved (such as the Association of California School Administrators and California School Boards Assocation), all duplicated on the Tam district's equipment at Tam district taxpayers' cost. That made up all but two of the 26 pages.

Question No. 1: If two pages is enough information for public, does the board need 222 pages?

Question No. 2: Does anyone on the board read all this stuff?

Question No. 3: Is turning out such a volume — often over and over again, as in the case of the budgets — a justifiable public expense?

"And remember the cute little stories in the textbooks about me. 'The Happy Yellow School Bus'?"

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

The Late George Scott 'Man For All Seasons'

I want to take this opportunity to thank you for the excellent writeup which you published in your issue of Sept. 13 concerning my beloved husband, George R. Scott. You did not give him a good time during his years in Marin County. I was hurt by your articles but he thrived on them. He often told me that the more damaging things that the San Rafael Independent printed about him, the more people knew what he really did — for labor first of all; for management because he believed as I do that we have to have good relations between these two. Then too, he did an awful lot for charity and the downtrodden. In other words, he was in my opinion a man for all seasons. The day he passed away, he was becoming vague somewhat but he looked at me and laughed out loud, saying, "Well, did they have a big story about me in the San Rafael Independent?"

Police, Fire Forces Draw Appreciation

I would like to see "bouquets" to the San Rafael Fire Department and the San Rafael Police Department for their fine public service.

Twice during the past week we have been made vitally aware of their efficiency, when they each responded to a call for assistance.

Most of us take the wailing of sirens for granted until we become personally involved in the need for their services. In both cases, one a fire, the other a medical emergency could fall in the category of "saving life and property".

Man Gives Thoughts On Women's Liberation

"Liberation." Today this word seems to be an open topic, with its pros and cons. When subjects like these arise I think it is best to think them over and reason them out.

This word Liberation, one could write a book about its meanings in relation to others. Like the artist painting a sunset, he must catch each sunbeam to have a perfect picture. So one has to be broad-minded and weigh each avenue of its meaning to do justice to all concerned.

Some think a woman's place is in the home and not in the business world. Yet sometimes due to the change of events the woman may be forced to go into the business world to care for her family. Then too, if they have something to offer to make a better and more pleasent business world, I am sure they will be welcome. I am sure if a woman is paying taxes and is qualified, she is entitled to her place in the world, regardless of race, color or creed.

In closing I would like to add these words: Liberation must be for all, not a chosen few. When the door is closed on Liberation, then in comes domination, and that we all know destroys whatever is good and beautiful, as friendships, families and even nations. Liberation and love make a wonderful family.

President Likely To Take Congressmen Along To Peking

WASHINGTON — Unless new circumstances change his plan, President Nixon is preparing to take representatives of both parties in Congress on his mission to Peking.

He has already taken preliminary soundings, has consulted with some of the legislative leaders on how best to determine who should go.

The President is fully aware that there is no single action he could take which would do as much to improve his working relations with Congress in the delicate area of foreign policy as to invite trusted members of Congress to be observers at the Peking talks.

It is now evident that Nixon intends to do so.

CONGRESS WANTS to be in when important decisions are being made, not merely when things go wrong.

If the President does not move in this direction, he runs the risk of gravely impairing diplomatic initiatives increasingly open to him.

It is profoundly to the good that he is enlisting the active co-operation of Congress during the Chinese summit instead of waiting till the end and then hoping to persuade Congress how wise the administration had been.

IT IS ALTOGETHER likely that Nixon had been planning to invite appropriate congressmen to accompany him to the Chinese summit before this column began advocating it several weeks ago.

No one could know better than the President what a galvanic boon it would be to bring Congress and the White House back into a trusted, responsive relationship after the divisive clashes over Vietnam had so long torn them apart.

The blunt truth is that members of Congress are eagerly waiting for Nixon to let it be known that there will be congressional representatives on the delegation to Peking. It now seems clearly certain that the invitation will be forthcoming and I am convinced that it will prove to be an immeasurable source of strength to the President himself.

OBVIOUSLY THE CHOICE of members of Congress to go to Peking is a delicate matter. One way to resolve it would be for the Presdent to invite the official leadership of both houses — Senators Mike Mansfield and Hugh Scott, Speaker Carl Albert and Rep. Gerald Ford. Another way would be to invite the chairmen and the ranking Republican members of the Senate and House Foreign Relations Committees.

This would mean that Nixon would be taking to Peking the severest critic of the administration's foreign policy generally, Sen. William Fulbright.

But what of it? Why not take Mr. Fulbright? He isn't going to disappear by not being taken to Peking. I am not advocating who the President should invite, but it could be very helpful to Nixon to have a man of Fulbright's viewpoint available in Peking.

Senator Fulbright supports the initiative Nixon has taken to bring about the Peking summit. He says in answer to a question I put to him: "I approve of the President's change in attitude toward China, carrying out his announced policy of negotiation rather than confrontation, and I am very hopeful that he and his assistants will keep us informed."

FULBRIGHT STEPS BACK from offering any suggestion about who should go to Peking. He puts it this way:

"I am personally reluctant to publicly urge the President to take specific members of Congress with him as this is a decision which I feel should essentially be the President's personal preference and I, therefore, don't want to be in a position of suggesting specific members."

For the United States to deal with the diplomatic opportunities and dangers which loom ahead, the President and Congress need each other's cooperation as never before. There could be no better place to start than at the Peking summit.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Baird On Birth Control: Criminal — Or Hero?

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — Bill Baird spends most of his time on the road lecturing on birth control. He often illustrates his lectures, mostly to college and housewives' audiences, with pills, diaphragms and cans of contraceptive foam.

As a result, he also spends a lot of time in court and in jail. Seven times in four states, he has been arrested for some variation on the basic horrendous crime of telling women how to avoid having unwanted children.

As a most recent example, the forces of law and enlightenment in Huntington, N.Y., preserved community order by hauling him in last month for corrupting the morals of a 14-month-old baby which attended one of Baird's talks in its mother's arms. The mother was arrested, too: her hard luck for being unable to locate a baby sitter that evening.

BAIRD'S TRIAL on that one comes up next week. Before subjecting themselves to the embarrassment of having to prosecute the case against Baird, however, the authorities have dropped the part about corrupting the 14-month-old. In the baby's place they have substituted a 14-year-old girl whose alleged presence among the 100 persons at the lecture was turned up by assiduous detective work in the name of the great state of New York. Aside from the chance that questioning the younger victim of Baird's scandalous conduct might have proved tedious, there was the additional fact that the baby slept through it all.

So now the prosecution is set to wreak justice upon him for corrupting the 14-year-old, who of course is at a prime age for moral corruption, plus illegally displaying contraceptives (all druggists will be fitted for handcuffs in the line to the right), plus obstructing government operations, whatever that means.

As preposterous as all that is, it is not the most important pending case in which Baird is a principal. The one with the most far-reaching implications for birth-control laws all over the country already has reached the Supreme Court, and arguments on it will begin promptly after the trial on Long Island. This case was appealed from Massachusetts, where the birth-control advocate was sentenced to three months in prison for giving a can of contraceptive foam to a 22-year-old unmarried student as part of a Boston University lecture — all intentionally done to test that state's laws. Those laws, even though revised five years ago, nevertheless forbid dissemination of birth-control devices except by prescription, and even information about them, except to married persons.

THE BASIC, even more restrictive Massachusetts statutes on the subject are 124 years old — passed back when Zachary Taylor was fighting the battle of Buena Vista, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was first publishing "Evangeline," Pius IX had just become Pope, the first woman medical graduate was still three years from graduation, and Margaret Sanger's birth was still 36 years in the future.

They are lumped together, in Massachusetts' usage, as the "crimes against chastity" laws. Contemplate that — laws still on the books, albeit on the home grounds of our most famous witchcraft trials, which purport to deal with something called "crimes against chastity." In September, 1971!

In the period between the passage of those laws and the arrest of Bill Baird at Boston University, the population of Massachusetts has more than sextupled. A race of Americans once slaved, has become free. New nations by the dozens have been created out of darkness. Literacy has replaced ignorance as the norm in most of the world. Man has devised means to control virtually every ailment except cancer and the common cold.

He has devised a contraceptive pill, and he has perfected safe methods of abortion (Baird himself having helped some 12,000 women obtain abortions without a single patient death). Despite the pessimism with which we regularly forecast a polluted, overcrowded future, there is hope for man ahead if he somehow can match his technical achievements with social progress.

A promising nudge in that direction will be provided by the Supreme Court if it does what common sense, education and the Constitution of the United States indicate it should do — if it strikes from the books the archaic birth-control statutes of Massachusetts and thus in turn those of every other state, and thereby certifies Bill Baird in his true role in our country. He is a valuable public servant, perhaps a hero — not a criminal.

Why Not Tahoe Gambling On This Side Of Line?

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE (Capitol) — It is not difficult to ascertain what happens in the transition of gambling from care-free sport to multi-million dollar business.

In the early 1930s some 40 years ago, the first gambling casinos started at Stateline. They weren't casinos in the modern sense of the word — they were back rooms of business establishments.

One of the first of these Stateline casinos started in a Quonset hut and has now grown to a multi-storied building housing a casino on the grand scale, several restaurants and a modern hotel. (It wasn't quite as modern as it might have been — when it opened, the plumbing wouldn't work.)

This first large hotel, which many conservationists feel is a blot on the Tahoe landscape, has been joined by others, and by a host of smaller motels on both the California and Nevada sides of the lake. These are needed to house the small army of casino employees — dealers, restaurant employees, pit bosses, entertainers, and others who make a living from the bad luck of the gambling public — which increases year by year.

ALL OF WHICH is neither new nor startling, but merely marks the passage of time from one generation to the next, and reflects the changes in the public's attitude toward gambling.
bling.

It does bring up the question of how soon (or whether) the California public will demand the legalization of all gambling in this state. This may not be too many years ahead, as the state is living in a hyprocritical atmosphere under the present circumstances.
cumstances.

It is hypocritical because it denies the portion of the public which wishes to gamble, the right to do so legally.

Many years have elapsed since gambling, by popular accord, has been written off the "sin" list. If the people who still consider it sinful to wager their money can tolerate gambling in Nevada, there would seem to be no reason why they could not tolerate it in California, or in any other state of the union.

THE OPPONENTS of legalized gambling in California go to great lengths to explain why it isn't good for the citizen to have easy access to the casinos, but this is beside the point. Why should government determine what is good and what is not good for the citizen? In a democracy, he is supposed to do this for himself.

Greedy politicians have long had their eyes on gambling revenue, which is only one reason why, if it were legal in California, taxes might be a little more reasonable.

And gambling is "big business". One realizes that it is such when the casinos start selling used cards, which they formerly donated to organizations, and start cutting down the odds at black-jack.

Consistency, Thou Art No Jewel For Office Holders

By ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Emanuel Celler, R-N.Y., who has been around Congress longer than anyone, has a favorite response when he is chided for changing his mind on some issue.

"Consistency," says the sage of Brooklyn, "is like a stagnant pool. It breeds vipers in the mind."

Another successful officeholder who didn't have snakes in the head was Sen. Everett M. Dirksen. He changed his mind on public questions many times and when a newspaper worked up a scorecard on his turnabouts, his reaction was more amusement than outrage.

STILL, MANY POLITICANS live in horror of inconsistency. To them, a man who changes his mind has shown himself to be without conviction or principle and opened himself to ridicule and very probably defeat in the next election. The prospect of simply declaring that the facts of a situation have changed or that he was wrong in the first place is enough to unhinge most conventional public officials.

There is, however, a less painful way for a politician to do a turnabout than simply admitting he had changed his mind.

The method may stem, in spirit at least, from the advice supposedly given Franklin D. Roosevelt in the 1936 campaign. He was to appear in Pittsburgh and was concerned that he might be asked to explain his speech in the same city four years earlier in which he promised to cut government spending and balance the budget.

"Just deny you were ever in Pittsburgh," an aide proposed.

Out of this seems to have stemmed the system of changing the name of whatever it is you were against before but are for now. Sometimes these exercises in saving face are so transparent as to seem ridiculous, but they seem to be regarded as one of the most valuable tools of the American political trade.

Whether the common folk will believe stinkweed has become sweet clover just because the gardener says so is another question.

President Nixon has found the name change method particularly useful. In 1968 and since, he has staunchly opposed "the guaranteed annual income" as a solution for really hopeless welfare cases. But he is trying to get Congress to pass a "Family Assistance Plan," which boils down to a guaranteed annual income for a very large portion of the people who need public assistance.

The President also found a change of name helpful when he ordered wage and price increases halted for three months. He got the authority for his action from a 1970 standby wage and price control law pushed through Congress by the Democrats.

At the time, Nixon said he abhored wage and price controls and would never use them. And, as the nation learned Aug. 14, he did not impose controls, but ordered a "freeze."

THERE IS A SIMILAR phenomenon taking place in foreign policy. Not too long ago, American leaders were referring to the government of the most populous country in Asia as Communist or Red China, and shuddering visibly at the least whisper of a suggestion that Peking be admitted to the United Nations.

Now that the Mao government has become touchable, it is being referred to as "Mainland China," the "People's Republic of China" or, as heard recently from a top White House aide "The PRC."

That, of course, is a reminder that the new name method of softening a policy change is nonpartisan. It was under the Democrats back in FDR's days that the "Bolsheviks" became the Soviet Union and under Lyndon Johnson that "socialized medicine" became Medicare.

If there is a lesson in this, it should be thatpoliticans are mortal and fallible, and that their opinions are, and frequently should be, subject to change.

The question for the citizen to ask is not whether the politician changed his mind, but why.

Frugality is good if liberality be joined with it. The first is leaving off superfluous expenses; the last bestowing them to the benefit of others that need. The first without the last begets covetousness; the last without the first begets prodigality. — William Penn.

Daly City Showdown On Teacher Bargaining

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The first real showdown over teachers' collective bargaining rights in California public schools has come in Daly City. It may have far-reaching effects on the state's education system.

Jefferson Elementary School District Classroom Teachers Association (a California Teachers Association chapter) was joined by the district local of the California Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, in a strike at opening of the fall school term. When pupils showed up for opening day, more than half the district's 429 teachers were absent. Many of them were walking picket and advising children it would be unsafe to go to school.

The district board was not caught napping. Substitute teachers — all fully certificated, according to Vinton Stratton, associate superintendent — were hired to provide almost complete classroom staffing.

Then, at a special meeting Sept. 16, the board voted unanimously to fire all teachers not on the job the next day. Accordingly, notices were served on 226 teachers on Sept. 17 that they were suspended and would be discharged at the end of 30 days.

The action was taken under Section 13408 of the Education Code, which, as amended last year by a bill introduced by Assemblyman John L.E. (Bud) Collier, R-South Pasadena, includes "willful refusal to perform regular assignments without reasonable cause" as ground for dismissal.

THE DALY CITY walkout was not over pay, fringe benefits, class sizes, or any other usual grievance of teacher groups. It was over the issue of a "master agreement," which is a California Teachers Association euphemism for a collective bargaining contract.

Last year, CTA put on a drive to get such contracts in 300 California school districts. It got them in seven districts. Jefferson Elementary was one of the seven.

These "master agreements" provide that the certificated employees' council, as set up under the Winton Act, has a voice in all school board decisions affecting teachers, and that no district policy may be changed without the council's approval. They also set up a grievance procedure which provides that only through the council may any grievance be dealt with.

The Winton Act specifies that the certificated employees' council is made up of representatives appointed by each teacher organization in the same ratio its membership holds to the total certificated employees in the district.

In most districts, this means that CTA has a majority of the council, since nearly all California public school teachers belong to CTA.

Controlling the council through its majority membership, the CTA local becomes in effect the exclusive bargaining agent under the so-called "master agreement."

THE "MASTER AGREEMENT" signed after a strike last year in Los Angeles Unified School District was ruled illegal by Los Angeles Superior Court, which held that neither certificated employees' council nor school board has authority to enter into a collective bargaining contract. Several other such agreements subsequently were challenged in court and held invalid.

Thereupon, Jefferson Elementary District trustees refused to renew the "master agreement" for this year, declaring they could not be parties to an illegal contract. So the teachers went on strike.

Almost at the same time the Jefferson board was voting to fire the striking teachers, Don Morrison, a San Diego teacher who is the new president of the National Education Association (CTA's parent organization) was telling a gathering in Santa Barbara that the Daly City strikers would have full NEA support.

"If we lose this, we won't have a safe agreement with any board of education in the state," he said.

So that's how the land lies.

New Election Code For Philippines

By VICENTE MALIWANAG

MANILA (UPI)—Gone are the days of political gimmickry in the Philippines when millions of T-shirts, ballpens, unbrellas, fans and even rosaries were distributed free by campaigning candidates.

"That's all over now," said Jaime N. Ferrer, chairman of the Commission on Elections (COMELEC), a constitutional body charged with the task of supervising not only the elections but also the political activities of candidates.

On Nov. 8, an estimated 11 million voters (out of a population fo 37.5 million) will elect eight members of the 24 member Philippine senate, 66 provincial governors and vice governors, 55 city mayors, 1,500 town mayors and a host of other local officials.

A new election code was passed by congress this year and signed into law by President Ferdinand E. Marcos. It provides for a series of reforms that include banning of political gimmicks, limiting political advertisement, shortening voting hours (polls will close at 3 p.m., instead of 6 p.m.) to enable counting to begin during the day instead of nighttime and empowering the Comelec to postpone or suspend elections when necessary.

In particular, T-shirts emblazoned with such legends as "Vote for Lopez" will be missed, mainly by newspaper vendors and shoeshine boys who counted on each campaign to keep them clothed.

Ferrer said the new law also authorizes the canvassing of votes —the official compilation of precenct-by-precinct returns —on the same day as the elections, instead of 15 days afterwards to minimize tampering of results. In addition, he said the board of canvassers will henceforth be made up of teachers, district supervisors, municipal treasurers and municipal health officers instead of the previous partisan group of mayors, vice mayors and councilors.

Ferrer said these were all "tremendous improvements" in Philippine electoral processes which had been marked in the past by overspending, cheating, and outright terrorism so much so that there has been a loud outcry against the use of "guns, goons and gold" during elections.

The 45-year-old Ferrer said he still expects some irregularities and even violence in next November's elections but that the new law is an encouraging deterrent.

He said he plans to enlist 50,000 university ROTC cadets as peace-keeping volunteers on election day with an option to marshal the army, navy, air force and constabulary (national police) forces as well.

"It is paradoxical but one of our biggest problems is how to police the police, particularly in the remote areas where they are the only law enforcement agency available and prone to be part of a local politician's private army," he said.

Ferrer said some of the political hotspots would be Ilocos Sur Province in northern Luzon, a perennial trouble area where political arguments are often settled by guns, in Manila's neighboring province of Cavite, in three southern provinces troubled by MoslemChristian strife, and in two other provinces where the Maoist Communist New Peoples Army is on the upsurge north of Manila.

With elections still seven weeks away, the unofficial count on political violence based on published reports is more than 20 dead and more than 100 wounded, including casualties in the Aug. 21 grenade attack at an opposition political rally in downtown Manila. In the last two previous election campaigns, 60 were killed in 1967 and 97 in 1969.

Ferrer said he would still like to see more electoral reforms. He has proposed to the 1971 Philippine constitutional convention several amendments.

These would eliminate political dynasties by limiting local officials to two terms and disqualifying their close relatives from seeking the same office, reducing the voting age from 21 to 18 years, synchronizing elections every three years, holding elections during summer instead of during the typhoon season, and compulsory voters registration and election.

By K. C. THALER

BUDAPEST (UPI)—Hungary has no drug problem, and long hair, beards and jeans are rarely seen. But the girls have taken to hotpants as they did miniskirts, showing that Hungary's younger generation is not altogether out of pace with the West.

The authorities say the drug problem that plagues Western society is non-existent here. And they say they are confident they can keep it that way because young people have not shown any inclination towards drugs or alcohol.

The regime in this Communist bloc country tries to offer alternative means of relaxation and leisure to their youth in political and sports clubs. There also are dancing places where rock 'n roll is popular.

In general, with the advent of more consumer goods, life in Hungary has become more relaxed. Stores are more plentiful, the choice of goods wider and quality has also been improving.

The gaps are still wide but "everything is relative," as one informant put it. There is plenty of food and more colorful dress is evident nearly everywhere. The latest most striking phenomenona is the advent of the automobile in notable numbers. The government is for the first time facing the problems of traffic congestion.

These are merely outward symptoms of improving life in the country. But many shortages remain, as well as many restrictions. Even though Hungarians now have the right to a passport, this does not mean that everybody can leave the country as he chooses.

But, fear, the great undermining factor of the past has gone, according to all available signs, and according to best available information people do not shy away from foreigners. They converse freely. On the other hand, Western newspapers are still unavailable to the general public. But they are obtainable in some of the big hotels for the benefit of tourists, who have begun to flood this country.

The authorities say they are bracing for vastly increased tourist trade. A Hilton hotel is to be constructed in Budapest, following the opening of an Intercontinental on the bank of the Danube.

Much of the positive impulse has come from the successful economic experiment by the government, which has abandoned the traditional hard line pattern of centralized government planning in favor of initiative and profits.

Whereas in the past, the central authority planned everything, from power stations to suspenders, now the individual enterprise and its managers have the power to make their own plays from production to distribution and they must think in terms of profit making. Together with their workers, they share some of these profits which find their way to acquisition of houses, apartments and above all cars.

Jobs are available but wages are low and prices relatively high.

A typist earning a monthly salary between $40 -$60 would have to spend the income of a whole week for a pair of shoes costing between $10-$20.

Likewise, a worker earning $80 a month would have to spend his entire monthly earnings for a cheap readymade suit.

But many do several jobs to supplement their wages and earnings and there are also the socialized big earners who may make up to 10 times the earnings of a worker, among them doctors with private practice or those who manage to organize some small business or trade of their own.

Education is free, so is the health service. Rents are basically low, even though they have been rising lately.

Ask any Hungarian how, with a low salary, he can manage to look reasonably well dressed, eat well and have his wine, the answer will be a smile and shrug of the shoulder.

Woman Ordered To Pay Back Welfare Money

Sandra Sellers, 28, of San Rafael, has been ordered to repay $500 she illegally obtained in welfare payments from Marin County.

Judge David R. Baty, sitting in Municipal Court, also placed her on probation for two years after she pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of welfare fraud.

Judge Baty, who usually sits in Western Marin Judicial Court, dismissed one felony count of welfare fraud against her and reduced another to a misdemeanor.

She was accused of receiving welfare payments after failing to inform the county Department of Social Services of a $3,100 inheritance last December.

San Rafael Man Pleads Guilty To Burglary

George Edward Myers, 24, of San Rafael, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglary.

He is to be sentenced Oct. 12.

Following his plea, Judge E. Warren McGuire dismissed an additional count of burglary and a charge of possessing stolen property against Myers at the request of the district attorney's office.

Myers was arrested July 28 when San Rafael police found him at the home of William Savage of 4 Knight Drive.

He was accused of burglarizing Savage's home as well as a car parked in front of the residence and having gloves from the car in his possession when he was arrested.

Equipment Is Taken At Creek

Construction equipment valued at $600 has been stolen from a contracting firm working on the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

Marin County Sheriff's deputies said yesterday the equipment was stolen in a burglary during the first week of September of a tool shed belonging to Elmer J. Sleethy Construction Co. of El Cerrito.

The shed was located near the creek, adjacent to Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Kentfield, deputies said.

Case Of Reenlisting Into Service Twice

MARIETTA, Ga. (UPI)—Sgt. W. E. Meserve, a flight engineer, re-enlisted twice on the same day while flying aboard a C-141 Lockheed Star Lifter between Okinawa and Alaska.

Shortly after Meserve was sworn in the first time, the aircraft crossed the international dateline, which meant that the previous enlistment was still in effect. He promptly repeated the ceremony so the proper date would show on official papers.

Veterans Lose Appeal On Moving Doughboy Statue

The doughboy statue, which formerly stood in front of the old San Rafael courthouse, will be placed at the north of the Veterans Memorial Building at Marin Civic Center, the Marin County Board of Supervisors declared yesterday. (Another supervisors story, page 1)

Several veterans organizations yesterday failed to win their request that the statue be placed next to the Veterans Memorial Building itself, not to the north of the parking area, well away from the building.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella said relocation of the statue is already in process.

Supervisor John F. McInnis noted that former Supervisor William A. Gnoss had been named to a committee of one to pick the site for the doughboy statue. He said no criticism had been voiced when the site was picked last year.

Supervisors decied it is too late to change the location now.

Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

YOUTH COMMISSION — Appointed to the Marin County Youth Commission Anne Duggan, Terra Linda High School senior; and Brian Perkins, San Rafael High School sophomore.

MOTORCYCLE COMMITTEE — Named George V. Paraspolo of 158 Crescent Road, Corte Madera, to the Motorcycle Ad Hoc Committee. He replaces Dorothy Everett of Woodacre, who resigned because of illness.

FLOOD CONTROL — Appointed John A. Allen of 33 Corrillo Drive, San Rafael, to the San Rafael Meadows Flood Control Zone. He replaces Clifford Den Otter, who resigned in March.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE — Named John Kenward of 12 Palm Avenue, Larkspur, to fill a vacancy on the Family and Children's Services Advisory Committee.

TIRES —Voted 4 to 1 to buy 1,375 Armstrong tires from Novato Tire and Battery Co. of Novato for $38,185. Louis H. Baar, the lone dissenter, said he believes Armstrong tires are inferior and would not use them himself.

TWO-WAY RADIO — Bought 10 two-way portable radios for use by the sheriff's department from Kaar Electronics Corporation of Mountain View for $8,020. Kaar submitted the lowest of five bids.

LAWSUIT — Hired engineer Michael F. King of San Rafael as special consultant at a maximum cost of $2,000 to develop engineering data needed by the county in defending against a $1.57 million lawsuit brought by Robert E. McKee Co., builder of the Hall of Justice. McKee contends he was damaged because the county's specifications were vague and forced him to do extra work.

COMMENDATION — Voted a resolution of commendation for Lothar Salin, former chairman of the Marin County Parks and Recration Commission, who resigned last February after six years on the commission. Louis H. Baar abstained from voting, explaining he did not reappoint Salin to the commission and therefore would be a hypocrite if he voted to commend the man.

INTEREST — Agreed that Marin's flood control zones be allowed to retain interest earned on fund accumulations in excess of $100,000, interest on the first $100,000 continuing to go to the county to compensate for legal and accounting services provided by the county.

FENCES — On hearing a complaint by David Young of 370 Crown Road, Kentfield, that a fence planned by his neighbor, H. W. Orear Jr. of 380 Crown Road, would violate deed restrictions in Kent Woodlands subdivision, rejected Orear's plea to erect an eight-foot-high fence and told him to stay within the six-foot limit.

FLEA MARKET — Ordered the 2-month-old flea market off Donahue Street at the entrance to Marin City be screened by an appropriate fence within two months. Arlene Atkinson, representing People's Community Market, failed to overcome neighborhood insistence on the fence.

Keep Carrier Home

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Antiwar groups conducting a four-day straw vote on whether the attack aircraft carrier Constellation should return to Vietnam duty reported that balloting is running 6 to 1 against the warship leaving San Diego harbor.

Parents, Teachers Criticize Busing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Chinese and white parents picketed San Francisco's Board of Education Tuesday while a teacher's union leveled a broadside against the busing of elementary school children to integrate classrooms.

About 300 parents, many marching with their children, carried signs protesting busing and calling on the school district to modify integration plans for the 50,000 children assigned to the city's 97 schools.

"This is just to let the school system know we're alive and kicking," said Bob Jacobs, co-chairman of Walk (We All Love Kids).

The American Federation of Teachers local attacked School Supt. Thomas A. Shaheen and called the integration by busing program "a hasty patchwork, an excuse for the district's failure to face its responsibilities for the past several years."

The AFT, in a union bulletin, charged the school district officials with "negligence," saying they ignored integration until the last possible moment and then "threw together a plan."

25 Acres Deannexed By Owner's Request

On the request of a property owner, the Richardson Bay Sanitary District board agreed last night to deannex 25 acres of land from the district, board Secty. Beverly Wheeler reported.

Owner Henry Avey told the board he wishes to sell the property, located between Tiburon Boulevard, Gilmartin Drive and Upland Ridge, to a developer. He wished to leave the district, he said, because it cannot provide the 500 sewer connections which will be needed for development. The number of sewer connections the district can permit is severely curtailed by an order from the San Francisco Bay Area Regional Water Quality Control Board, Mrs. Wheeler said.

Avey said he hopes to annex the property to the Tiburon Sanitary District which he said has connections available.

Also last night, the sanitary board appointed Jules Winkelman to the board, replacing George Szabo, who has moved to Argentina.

A contract for construction of an interceptor sewer for the Bel Aire area was awarded to R.D. Ramirez Inc. of South San Francisco, whose low bid for the work was $32,987.

Board Votes Funding For Program

Funds to provide a special teaching program at Wolfe Grade School were approved last night by the Kentfield School District board.

According to Supt. Anthony G. Bachich, the board's appropriation of $6,000 will be added to state and private grants which total about $30,000.

Bachich said the new staffing project — which uses the concept of team teaching — is months away from completion and was presented last night as a progress report.

The report, drafted by about 40 parents and teachers, is basically a skeleton of the staffing plan, with greater detail to be supplied at later meetings. About $20,000 of grant funds will be used to train student teachers from Dominican College in San Rafael.

The Kentfield School District Board also:

FIELD TRIP — Authorized a four-day trip for four teachers and about 60 students to the Mother Lode country for study of early California towns.

STUDY COURSE — Adopted the county course of study as a listing of minimum requirements in the district.

COURT COST — Authorized payment of $1,619 to the state for dismissal hearing costs incurred in teacher Joanne Pocta's successful fight to remain employed.

PERSONNEL — Approved hiring Elizabeth Cabana as a physical education instructor at Adaline E. Kent School at a salary of $8,785 per year; Victoria Boyer as an intermediate grades teacher at Kent School at a salary of $10,250 per year; Kathleen Von Seggern as an intermediate grades teacher at Wolfe Grade School at a salary of $9,515 per year, and four teachers aides at Kent School — one at a pay scale of $2.58 per hour and the other three at $2.45 per hour.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignations of Sandra Harlan, teacher at Wolfe Grade School, who is out of the country, and Wolfe Grade custodian Dennis Hoell.

Child Center Grant Application Backed

The Marin County Board of Education has authorized its staff to apply for federal and state funds for operation of a child care center for student mothers at the College of Marin.

According to Byron W. Mauzy, deputy superintendent of schools, the board's action Monday must be ratified by the college district board before application is made.

The child care center, to be cosponsored by the county schools office, the college district, and the student body, would operate on a budget of about $30,000 per year.

It would be housed in the old chemistry building at the college and would accommodate about 25 children each class hour. He said students have estimated about 165 children of student mothers would use the center each week.

The Marin County Board of Education also:

BREAKFAST — Agreed to continue operation for at least another week of the Sausalito School District's breakfast program in Marin City. During the first week of school, a total of four children participated in the program, designed to accommodate about 30.

PERSONNEL — Approved hiring Frank Benson of San Francisco as a part-time psychologist at $11,550 per year; Jeanne Coulter of Novato as a teacher of multihandicapped children at $8,379; Karl Kurk of San Mateo as a part-time teacher of food services at $7,497; Muriel Lynch of Kentfield as a part-time teacher of auto mechanics at $2,265; and Roger Falge, formerly employed in the Tamalpais High School District, as an administrative assistant at $16,748 per year.

An American inventor, Elisha Gray, found a way to transmit the human voice over wires and filed notice of a patent application but Alexander Graham Bell's patent had already been granted.

Group Told Cooperation Is A Must

Parents and teachers attending the San Anselmo School District board meeting last night were told greater community involvement and cooperation in education is a must.

The meeting, consisting of three speakers each from the State Department of Education, the California Teachers Association and the California School Boards Association, was attended by about 120 persons, W. Kenneth Lowry, district superintendent, said.

He said the discussion centered on the traditional and future roles of parents, teachers, administrators and trustees in education.

It was the first of four such panel discussions. The next will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Red Hill School.

The board is to meet again tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at Red Hill School for its regular business agenda.

Among items to be discussed are the district's policy regarding student-to-teacher ratios and whether the teaching staff should be reduced from the current 88 positions.

Living Costs Climb During Last Month

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The cost of living rose three-tenths of one per cent in August, a higher increase than in July, the government reported today, but statisticians said the figures did not accurately test the impact of the wage-price freeze President Nixon imposed at mid-month.

The Labor Department said the price advance which was about the average rate for the year was led by a sharp 3.7 per cent increase in the price of gasoline.

Wages also increased in August, the department said, with average gross weekly earnings of rank and file workers advancing $1.43 from July to an average of $129.

The department said the cost of living survey, conducted in 56 cities, reflected price information collected both before and after the President imposed the freeze on Aug. 15.

The department cautioned that even prices sampled after the freeze could have reflected price boosts in the first two weeks of the month.

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said the consumer price statistics "reflect this year's trend to lower levels than last year's plus 5 per cent rise." He said the housewife would be "particularly pleased" that there was no rise in the food prices.

"President Nixon's recent wage price freeze assures a continuance of this improvement," Hodgson said at a news conference.

But, Hodgson emphasized that the August index could not be used as a yardstick for determining whether the price freeze was working.

"Even in later months the method of collecting data is not wholly useful for what might be called before-and-after comparisons," he said, observing that some prices are not collected on a monthly basis and some prices are not covered by the freeze.

The first cost-of-living report since Nixon took his drastic economic action came as the House Ways and Means Committee moved to trim business tax reductions he ordered into effect earlier this year without requiring congressional consent.

The consumer price index rose in August to 122.2 per cent of the 1967 average. That meant it cost $12.22 last month to buy the same goods and services that could have been obtained for $12.18 in July; $11.69 a year ago, and $10 about four years ago.

The August level was 4.5 per cent higher than a year ago.

When the figures are adjusted for seasonal variations, the August increase was 0.4 per cent, double the 0.2 per cent advance in July but lower than the increases of 0.5 per cent in June, and 0.6 per cent in May.

On the unadjusted scale, the 0.3 per cent increase compared to a 0.2 per cent increase in July and boosts of 0.6 per cent in June, 0.5 per cent in May and 0.3 per per cent in April.

Pair Arraigned On Narcotics, Theft Charges

Charles Michael Tackett, 23, of no known address, and Joseph Paul Pellolio, 26, of 26 Spring Road, San Rafael, were arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on felony charges of possessing hashish, marijuana and benzedrine, and misdemeanor counts of petty theft and possessing narcotics paraphernalia.

They are to plead to the charges Monday.

The pair was arrested Monday after the sheriff's office got a report that two men had stolen a bicycle from a carport at the residence of Patricia Ann Johietz of 31 Reed Boulevard. Apt. 14, Strawberry.

Deputies found the men in the parking lot of Denny's Restaurant in Corte Madera with the bicycle allegedly in the back of their station wagon.

In the glove compartment of the car, which deputies said was open, small quantities of the various drugs allegedly were found.

Leif Erickson Day Proclaimed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Leif Erickson will have his day Oct. 9 through a proclamation signed by President Nixon.

Nixon scheduled the day in honor of the Norse explorer Tuesday but carefully avoided taking a stand in the dispute over whether Erickson or Christopher Columbus discovered America.

"The exploits of Leif Erickson are still in large part shrouded in the mists of history and only now are we beginning to appreciate fully the magnitude of (his) explorations," Nixon wrote.

Robber Hits Clerk, Flees With Cash

A gun-wielding robber last night took $70 from the cash register at the Bourbon Shop in San Rafael and struck the clerk on the head with a pistol before making his escape, police said.

The clerk, Timothy Gabbard of 308 Glen Park Avenue, San Rafael, received stitches at Marin General Hospital following the robbery.

He told police the robber, described as a male of Oriental or Mexican descent with a small mustache and beard bought a can of beer at the shop at 373 Third Street in the Montecito Shopping Center about 9:30 p.m.

Police said the robber then pulled an automatic pistol from his belt behind his back and announced, "This is a holdup."

As Gabbard emptied the cash register, he was cautioned to keep his hands in sight, police said.

The clerk then was forced to lie down on the floor in the back room with his hands under his chest and was struck on the back of the head with the pistol before the robber fled, police reported.

Oil Pipeline In Canada Backed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., has released a Canadian study which contends a pipeline from the Alaskan North Slope across Canada to the Midwest would cost less than $2 billion, compared with the $3 to $4 billion estimated for a trans-Alaska route.

Aspin also said Tuesday the state of Alaska would earn an additional $95 million a year in royalties if oil from the North Slope is piped the Canadian route. He said the additional income would come from lower transportation costs than those for the proposed route from the slope to the Alaskan port of Valdez.

Aspin said the Interior Department should not issue a permit for the Alaskan pipeline until a study is made of a possible Canadian route.

Ferry Service To Bay Ships Ordered Halted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A ferry service to sea-going vessels in San Francisco Bay by 18 harbor pilots was ordered stopped Tuesday by the California Public Utilities Commission.

The order came after a complaint was filed by Harbor Carriers, Inc., which operates four water taxis on the bay.

Harbor Carriers said income had dropped from $16,572 a month to $2,062 since the California Inland Pilots Association began its own shore-to-ship service in 1969.

A PUC ruling said the association violated state law by operating vessels for the transportation of persons for compensation, without a commission permit.

The pilots association had begun its own service during a strike which idled Harbor Carriers' operations.

Vigil Planned For All Living Things

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A band of conservationists plans a sunrise-to-sunset vigil in Grace Cathedral Thursday dedicated to all living organisms of the world and to the land, air and water in which they live.

Sponsors of the unusual event plan services for the "great family" of the globe which will mingle religious rites, political discussion, and entertainment.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Demo Remapping Delay Ires Reagan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan, charging Democrats with dealing in secret on reapportionment, has warned he may call a special session unless their redistricting plans are made public soon.

Reagan declared in a prepared statement yesterday that the current 9-month-old session should already have been "sufficient for birth of any worthwhile legislation, including reapportionment."

The governor spoke out shortly after Republican leaders urged him to call a special session on reapportionment of legislative and congressional districts. The lawmakers must by law reapportion districts on the basis of the 1970 federal population census.

Sen. Fred Marler Jr. of Redding and Assemblyman Robert Monagan of Tracy, GOP floor leaders, voiced concern that if the lawmakers fail to redistrict by a proposed Sept. 30 adjournment, "serious constitutional questions may arise."

Since no Democratic plan has been unveiled, Reagan said he concluded "that a great deal of secret activity on reapportionment must be going on among the Democrats."

"This should be done in public instead," Reagan said.

Democrats outnumber Republicans in both the Assembly and Senate. How seats are distributed among the two parties will help determine the political complexion of the Legislature for the next 10 years.

Republican legislators have privately informed Democrats that Reagan intends to veto any reapportionment bill designed to increase the Democrats' current narrow majority in each house.

They said they wanted reapportionment handled as an issue separate from other issues such as tax reform and forecast if reapportionment could be used as an "excuse for endless delays on other issues, there will be a tendency to procrastinate on everything."

PENALTY BEATEN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill to make killing a policeman acting in the line of duty first-degree murder was voted down Tuesday by the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee.

The measure by Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, died after it failed to gain approval by one vote.

But the committee endorsed a bill making it a crime to advocate the injury or killing of a policeman.

The measure by Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai, was sent to the full Assembly on a unanimous voice vote.

BOND ISSUES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has approved a proposed constitutional amendment cutting the vote majority needed to pass a local bond issue.

The measure, by Sen. Mervyn Dymally, D-Los Angeles, lowers the requirement from two-thirds to 60 per cent. The amendment was endorsed by the Senate on a 297 vote and sent to the Assembly.

If the lower house approves it, the measure will be submitted to the voters next year.

Dymally said his bill was prompted by the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision upholding the current two-thirds approval requirement. He said many persons feel it is too hard to meet.

VENUE CHANGES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill allowing judges to order changes in the location of trials has been sent to the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The Assembly Criminal Justice Committee approved the measure by Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Watsonville, Tuesday on a voice vote.

Under present law, a change of venue can only be granted on a motion by the defense that a fair trial cannot be held in the original court.

TRIAL HELP

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly Criminal Justice Committee has endorsed legislation for the state to help out financially counties holding major criminal trials, such as in the Angela Davis and Juan Corona cases.

The measure by Sen. Fred Marler Jr., R-Redding, was sent Tuesday to the Ways and Means Committee.

It would require the state to reimburse counties for trial costs which exceed two cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

VD PROGRAM

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation establishing a state anti-venereal disease program has been passed by the Senate.

The bill, by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-Tiburon, was passed without debate on a 31-4 vote. The measure, which goes to the Assembly, appropriates $69,625 to the state Department of Public Health to conduct an information program.

Most Marin Teachers To Receive Pay Increases

Teachers in most Marin school districts will receive both step increases and salary schedule raises in their first paychecks for the new school year as result of revised rulings by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Joseph Amato of the county superintendent of schools office said today that new EOP rulings have permitted step increases incorporated into spring rehiring contracts for this school year as well as salary schedule hikes effective before the Aug. 15 wage freeze.

"As of today," said Amato, pay checks for September will include or exclude both increases as follows:

Step increase included: Bolinas-Stinson, Dixie, Fairfax, Kentfield, Lagunitas, Larkspur, Mill Valley, Nicasio, Redd, Ross, San Anselmo and Sausalito Elementary School Districts; San Rafael Elementary and High School Districts; Novato Unified District; Tamalpais High School District; Marin Community College District.

There will be no step increases in Laguna, Lincoln and Union Elementary School Districts and Shoreline Unified District.

Salary schedule increases included: Dixie, Fairfax, Kentfield, Laguna, Larkspur, Lincoln, Ross and Union Elementary Districts; San Rafael Elementary and High School Districts; Tamalpais High School District; Marin Community College District.

There will be no schedule increase in Bolinas-Stinson, Lagunitas, Mill Valley, Nicasio, Reed, San Anselmo and Sausalito Elementary Districts and Shoreline Unified District.

The Shoreline teachers voluntarily gave up step increases and asked no salary schedule hike because of the district's financial bind, resulting from loss of assessed valuation through land acquisition by the federal government for Point Reyes National Seashore and placing of much land in agricultural preserve.

Two Admitted To Hospital In Auto Accident

A 48-year-old Corte Madera woman and a companion from San Francisco were admitted last night to Marin General Hospital for injuries sustained in a two-car accident.

Hospital spokesmen said Sibyl V. Rodrigues of 1495 Casa Buena Drive, driver of one vehicle, was in serious condition today suffering broken ribs.

The passenger in her auto, Murray A. Gier, 55, of San Francisco, was listed in fair condition also suffering broken ribs.

Corte Madera police said the accident occurred when the Rodrigues auto apparently ran a red light at the intersection of Tamalpais Drive and Madera Boulevard.

Officers said she was traveling south on Madera when she collided at 6:30 p.m. with an auto driven by Albert Carl Lamperti, 30, of 124 Gloria Drive, San Rafael. He was traveling west on Tamalpais, officers said.

Meeting Is Reset For Library Board

San Rafael Library Board's October meeting, which regularly would fall on Oct. 11, will be held Oct. 20 instead to allow the board to complete its interviews of architects on library expansion plans before the regular session.

The board last night interviewed Andrew J. Ring and Tak Enomoto of the San Rafael firm of Enomoto and Ring, and John Field and David L. Paoli of the San Francisco firm of Bull, Field, Volkmann, Stockwell. Further interviews will be held next Monday and Wednesday at 7:45 p.m. in the children's room of the library.

Lagunitas Trustees Set A Town Hall Meeting

Lagunitas School District trustees will conduct a town hall session next month to garner public ideas for the district goals and objectives report which must be submitted to the state by next March.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 4 in San Geronimo Valley School, according to Supt. William E. Johnson.

Discussion of the goals and objectives consumed much of the board's time at its meeting Monday night, Johnson said. As a result, several agenda items were put over to the board's next meeting, at 7:30 p.m. next Monday in San Geronomo Valley School.

The Lagunitas School District Board also:

VACANCY — Asked the county schools office to prepare an election to fill the seat resigned for business reasons Monday by Trustee Eugene G. Di Basilio, whose term was to have expired in 1973.

NATURE STUDY — Increased from $1,200 to $1,700 the funds earmarked to develop a nature study guide for use by the district's pupils.

FIELD TRIPS — Asked district staff to prepare a proposed policy on class field trips for discussion at the board's Oct. 11 meeting.

RECYCLING — Agreed to ask the district student council to consider sponsoring recycling programs.

WAGE FREEZE — Reassured teachers the district will pay as much as the presidential wage-price freeze permits, and will not divert any unspent payroll funds to other purposes in the district.

TEACHER SUPERVISION — Deferred discussion to next Monday's meeting.

PERFORMING ARTS — Approved allocating $168 to match Parent-Teacher Association funds to send each district pupil to at least two performances of the countywide Youth In Arts program.

MUSIC PROGRAM — Approved hiring part time vocal and instrumental music teachers for the district.

The Miami area offers to travelers more than 65,000 hotel-motel rooms, the largest concentration in the world.

TONIGHT LOOK 4 (YOU'LL NEVER LOOK BETTER)

Modular Housing Attacked

Sausalito City councilmen and staff officials sharply criticized modular — prefabricated — housing last night, then asked the city planning commission to do something about the threat.

H. Eric Borgwardt, city plancing director, warned that the state has preempted many city controls on factory-built housing, which could be scattered throughout Sausalito single-family neighborhoods on single lots by speculators.

The only existing "privately owned example of modular housing in Sausalito borrows heavily from the values created by established nearby dwellings. And it can only tend to diminish the values . . ." Borgwardt told the council.

"There is no such thing as 'low cost housing' in Sausalito" due to high land prices, the official declared. He said only public agencies should develop modular housing projects.

He told the council that one answer might be to extend the powers of the city architectural advisory board and planning commission over single-family homes. He pointed out previous strong objections to the idea.

Councilman Wyman Hicks declared that "the particular home that brought us to this discussion is incredibly bad" but that Midwestern modular housing firms hire "the best architects" and are "a big industry."

William Hynes, city building inspector, showed photos of what he said were bad examples of conventional homes approved by the city architectural review panel. Sausalito, he said, was renowned for its architecture, but not due to the CAAB efforts.

Hynes expressed doubt that modular housing "is going to be that important in expensive Sausalito," and said architects would object strongly to having their residential plans "picked apart by the CAAB."

Ronald A. Martin of 41 Lincoln Drive, a neighbor of the controversial modular house, presented a letter from the Buena Vista Heights Homeowners Protective Association. It asked help from City Atty. Leland H. Jordan to determine whether the tract covenant might not bar the prefabricated building under a requirement for review of plans for any house moved into the 58-home subdivision. The city may have an interest in property in the subdivision, Jordan noted.

Councilmen asked Jordan to investigate.

The Sausalito City Council also:

PARK — Accepted a proposal by the Community Park Volunteers for no-cost improvement of a four-acre city park site between Litho and Napa streets, shoreward of Bridgeway. All labor and materials will be donated by volunteer residents and businessmen.

LOT SPLIT — Approved a lot split for the Arthur McIntosh property at 164 Santa Rosa Avenue, but ordered redesign to provide offstreet parking before a conditional use permit will be granted for a second home at the site.

PARKING — Postponed to Oct. 5, discussion of Police Chief James D. Wright's request to restrict parking at 46, 47 and 52-54 Bulkley Avenue, and to reinstate permitted parking at 482-48 Sausalito Boulevard.

SIDEWALKS — Received a proposed ordinance from Chief Wright that would make obstructing sidewalks or store entries an infraction subject to a fine up to $500 on the first offense, and a misdemeanor in repeated cases. Citizen Peter Crawford branded the proposed ordinance "just an harassment" and Councilman Stephen A. Fraser called the ordinance "so broadly" worded "it bothers me." "You've got to provide me tools to work with," Wright answered as the council postponed action.

ABATEMENT — Unanimously voted to order cleanup of trash and felled trees at the intersection of Butte Street and Highway 101.

MEMORIAL — Asked Jean Dyk, enhancement chairman of the Sausalito Women's Club. to suggest a better site for a planted area, park bench and bronze marker in tribute to the late Anita Koenig. Mrs. Dyke presented an offer from the club to place the memorial at the corner of Princess Street and Bulkley Avenue, which councilmen felt was inaccessible to the public.

DECORATIONS — Postponed action on Woman's Club offer to install hanging plants on light poles on Caledonia Street, after Norman Wohlschlaeger, public works director, predicted maintenance problems would result.

SCHOOL BUS — Approved Wohlschlaeger's revised plans for a sidewalk at San Carlos and Santa Rosa avenues for children waiting to board buses.

At School

The Marin County Bloodmobile will be at the Mount Carmel School auditorium from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday. The school is located at Buena Vista and East Blithedale avenues, Mill Valley.

Downtown Plan Is Outlined To Protect Sausalitans

Sausalito City Council members listened last night to two proposals to save part of the city's downtown for Sausalitans instead of tourists.

Norman Wohlschlaeger, director of public works, presented proposals to convert Pine, Locust and Bee streets to one-way from Caledonia Street to Bridgeway, to ban left turns from the three streets onto Bridgeway and to allow angle parking on both sides of the three streets in the one-way portions.

These, combined with possible use of the city's lot on Bee Street as parking for Sausalitans only, would add about 50 spaces for city residents going downtown to shop, Wohlschlaeger estimated.

The public works director added that the left-turn bans would reduce collision hazards at three intersections on Bridgeway.

Councilmen debated whether to allow one-hour free parking or meter the spaces, for not more than 5 cents an hour. "Meters are ugly," Councilman Robin Sweeny declared, urging a six-months test of free one-hour parking.

Councilman Stephen A. Fraser unveiled another idea he said was designed to preserve Caledonia Street for stores serving Sausalito needs rather than catering to tourism. He urged revision of the city's waterfront ordinance to prevent visitor-oriented shops from "seeping in" among Caledonia Street's hometown stores.

"I want to blow the whistle on it right now," he said.

City Atty. Leland H. Jordan, Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt and other councilmen pointed out the legal difficulties of keeping tourist-oriented shops out of the area.

William Remak of the Sausalito Artists and Merchants Association said that both proposals needed study by the store owners, because "the business community should be governed by the consent of the governed."

The city is given unique character by such things as its many fine restaurants and its five goldsmiths, he argued, even though Sausalito itself could not possibly support such enterprises. Hometown service stores on Caledonia Street, he declared, are "being held too small" by the city, and their operators will move elsewhere to achieve higher business volume.

The councilmen agreed to hold a public hearing at their Oct. 5 meeting to learn public reaction to the one-way street plans. Mayor Alexander R. Imlay asked Fraser to meet with Remak, Borgwardt, Jordan and others to study revision of the downtown zoning or stricter curbs on business licenses.

Innocent Plea To Auto Theft

Timothy Guy Tuttle, 18, of no known address, has pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court to two felony counts of car theft.

Trial was set for the week of Nov. 1.

Tuttle was arrested Aug. 30 in possession of two cars reported stolen, according to San Rafael police, who said he might have used one of several master keys found in his possession to open the car doors.

Barbed Wire Removal Told

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The founder of the "Church of Satan" has been ordered to remove the barbed wire that protects his home from curiosity seekers.

Anton LaVey and his attractive wife, Diane, said they erected a cyclone fence with barbed wire on top because of harassment. The San Francisco Board of Permit Appeals said LaVey could keep the fence but must remove the barbs.

"We've been harassed so much that I can't even count the number of times I've called police," Diane said.

The Case Of A Snake-Bite Victim

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Saving a person's life sometimes involves — in addition to the medical team — many people and agencies in the community, as in the case of a recent snake-bite victim hospitalized at the University of California's Moffitt Hospital.

One night a custom agent at San Francisco International Airport, while opening a shipment of venomous snakes from Europe (destined for a local pet shop), was bit on the finger by a deadly asp-viper. There was rapid onset of pain and swelling of his hand and he was rushed to Moffitt Hospital.

Karl Switak, supervising herpetologist at Steinhart Aquarium in Golden Gate Park, was asked to locate the particular antivenin (antitoxin) effective against the asp-viper venom. He tracked some down at the Los Angeles Zoo, and the medication was flown to San Francisco and delivered by a police patrol car. Ony five hours elapsed between the bite and the administration of anti-venin, thanks to the close cooperation between personnel of zoos, museums, airlines, and police departments of two cities.

There are about 650 million domesticated sheep in the world.

Irrigation By Seawater Studied

I-J Special Report

SAN DIEGO — Scientists in all parts of the world are working to increase the food supply. One of the boldest efforts toward this goal is the direct use of seawater to irrigate dry land.

Because of the high cost of converting ocean brine into fresh water, successful seawater irrigation would be a far more practical approach to arid region farming than current attempts to irrigate with desalinated water.

Before seawater irrigation becomes a reality, however, scientists must first figure out how to condition certain commercial plants to salty water.

Researchers Mrs. Peta Mudie and Walter Schmitt at Scripps Institution of Oceanography, University of California, last October set up a special laboratory for seawater irrigation experiments under the direction of Prof. John D. Isaacs.

So far the two researchers have successfully grown ordinary table beets in full-strength seawater, a solution containing 3.5 percent salt.

All Scripps test plants are first raised in fresh water and then gradually introduced to brine cultures when a few inches tall. This is a technique common to most seawater irrigation experiments because most plants are usually extremely salt-sensitive in the seedling stage.

Thus the table beets raised in full-strength seawater grew for the first two months in fresh water. But the fact that they could grow and continue to develop for the next two-and-a-half months in pure seawater is a dramatic statement in favor of continuing investigations into the possibilities of seawater irrigation.

Others besides Mudie and Schmitt say they have coaxed plants into accepting seawater. An early record mentions a group of 18th century Spanish monks who supposedly produced a variety of healthy crops by watering them with seawater which they let flow into irrigation channels at high tide.

In 1949, Hugo Boyko, ecological adviser to the Ministry of Agriculture of Israel, and his wife introduced vegetation on a six-acre tract of land in the Negev Desert. They raised 180 species of plants by irrigating them with salty underground water from a nearby oasis.

Mudie claims Boyko was revolutionary because he bypassed the main barrier to seawater irrigation: he planted his crops in sand, not in soil containing clay. Sand, because it is porous and almost chemically inert, doesn't cause the salt to build up and kill plants, as do clay soils.

Scripps experiments are currently underway on beets, chard, barley, and other species planted in silica sand.

While Mudie and Schmitt took an important step forward in successfully raising plants in full-strength solution, their most encouraging laboratory results were with beets grown in three-quarter-strength seawater.

Impact Of Air Pollution On Ecology System Eyed

I-J Special Report

RIVERSIDE — In a major new approach to the problem of air pollution, the impact of air pollutants on a total ecology system will be studied by research scientists at the Statewide Air Pollution Research Center at the University of California.

The first phase of the study is to organize a research program that may take as long as 10 years to complete, said Dr. O. Clifton Taylor, associate director of the center.

He said the intensive research effort would be conducted in the Lake Arrowhead area of the San Bernardino mountains. The planning phase is being developed under a $42,800 grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. Ultimately, the project is expected to be a multi-million dollar one, Taylor indicated.

"We will want to examine the effects of air pollutants on the total ecology of a forest region," Dr. Taylor said. "This would include its effects on plant and animal life, on water shed, underground water resources, the effects on land value, land use and ultimately, its effects on human population."

When the study is completed, all of the information gathered could be used to develop a computer model to test the impact of pollutants on similar ecological systems in other parts of of the United States.

Recently, more than 40 scientists form UC Riverside, UC Berkeley, UC Davis, UC Los Angeles, the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Forestry, the Pacific Southwest Forest Research Extension Station, and the Environmental Protection Agency met for an initial planning session.

"This was a productive session," Dr. Taylor said, "and we will continue to meet until we have developed an administrative organization to carry out the study, and until we have outlined carefully what the goals and objectives of the study are."

Last Year's Hemline Havoc Fades

Last year's havoc and confusion over the hemline — long or short — stirred up one of the hottest fashion controversies of the past decade.

Today it no longer is even the remotest issue. The knee? Now you see it, now you don't.

When it comes to fashion, anything goes.

Unexpectedly, out of all the chaos emerges a new fashion order — complete independence. And, with it emerges a new fashion statement. Women will never again slavishly adhere to any one fashion dictate.

This theme is echoed and re-echoed in fall's styles, fabrics and colors. Each appears everywhere, at any time of day or night.

Appearing coincidentally with this new free-spirit is another trend. Revival. Revival of elegance — or the "civilized" look. Revival of the classics, and a dip into the mood of the '40s.

For new, young, alert fashion it's the layer-on-layer look — vivid colors and separates put together.

Both the classics and the elegants include two styles missing from the picture for some time — the pretty feminine dress and the suit.

Dresses move easily and softly with gores and bias cuts, pleats and lots of flare. Shirtdresses and sweater dresses appear alone or teamed with blazers and cardigans.

Wrap dresses are back, as are prim little schoolgirl styles. The beloved "little black dress" reappears for every occasion, at every length.

Lengths? Everything from short-short to knee-length to mid-calf to ankle to full-length.

Fabrics are foils for the feminine styles. Included are knits, jerseys, wools, polyesters, corduroy, chiffon, satin-back crepes and velvets in endless array.

Tweeds, plaids, herringbones, jacquards and argyles are in quick-step with ribby things and solid tones.

Colors run the gamut from earth tones to vivid reds and yellows. Black, navy and white are seen often.

In suits, it's something for everyone. Short cropped jackets, blazers, cardigans and a revival of the seven-eighths length appear.

The tailored suit or the softer costume are both found in wools and flannels, tweeds and knits, velvet and satin. Colors range from black to brilliant.

Leather and suede suits and coats achieve a new importance this season.

The coat story features the return of the wrap coat. Untrimmed or heaped with lush furs, it shows up everywhere. Mid-calf is one very popular length. The shortcoat tops pants and skirts with aplomb. The seven-eighths length is sportive. The "chubby" is back, too.

Fake furs and fun furs and real furs add excitement to fall fashions. Luxury or little-priced, they will be accents to every wardrobe.

Fabrics can be wool meltons, suedes, alpacas, knits, tapestries or mohair.

Colors are clear with wine shades appearing along with green, brown and, of course, black.

Capes appear often in every fabric and color.

Accessories also reflect the new independence.

Jewelry can be small and equisite, or huge and sculptured. Gloves can be wrist-length or to-the-elbow. Shoes run the gamut from open strappy styles to laced-up gladiator sandals. Boots, with every heel height, are worn everywhere.

Millinery can be the close little cloche, a beret, a wide sideswept brim, or a flirtatious bit of veiling.

The Tank Top Out Of Swimming Pool

In the midst of torrid summer days, fashion leaders in Paris were wearing cotton knit sleeveless tank tops over crisp blouses that billowed away from their arms. With the tops they wore everything from hot pants to maxi skirts.

Now the tank top has leaped out of the swimming pool and into the fashion picture in a look you'll be seeing everywhere this fall and winter, on the campus, in offices and at home.

There's a fall feeling in a costume that combines a dark tank top worn over a dark sheer blouse. It's an easy-care fashion when the blouse is made of a synthetic fabric and goes into the washing machine, then into the dryer and out, ready to wear with simple touch-up ironing.

Sizing, a modern ironing aid, makes the touch-up ironing almost as easy as the laundering. A special lubricant in sizing makes the iron glide over fabrics to speed up the ironing. Sizing is right for a sheer, dark blouse because it adds a finish that is as crisp as starch. And, because sizing does not flake or scorch, you can use it on dark fabrics to put back the "like new" body and finish that wearing and laundering remove even from the manmade fabrics.

These new fashion tops have an advantage the swimming pool tank tops never had. Their modern blend of cotton and man-made fibers have a talent for holding their shape through laundering. You simply wash and dry as directed. Then, for a "like new" finish, spray with sizing and press. Regular Magic sizing is ideal for these cotton knits because it adds body without stiffness and thus helps retain the important clinging qualities of the knit.

If you enjoy putting together your own costumes, you'll like the tank top. It can give you the look of a doublet-clad Elizabethan page, the nostalgic look of a 40s siren, or today's layered look.

FINISH LINE SPRINT

A contestant in the Corte Madera Center's Bike to School Races held last month sprints toward the finish line, well ahead of the rest of the field. More than 100 young racers competed in the contest, which also included bike safety clinics, demonstrations of the latest cycling equipment and accessories and a race by experienced bicycle competitors. The event was officiated by members of the Marin Cyclists. Winners of Bike to School Races in past years have gone on to become prominent in cycle racing through the U.S.

'Look Of Gentlemen' Returning

The man who is tired of gimmicky clothes and far-out fashions is coming into his own this season.

The "look of the gentleman" and a feeling of quiet elegance prevails, according to the Men's Fashion Association.

Although the fashion pendulum seems to be swinging back, with emphasis on nostalgia, there are still plenty of fresh ideas and plenty of fashion excitement.

THE MOST popular suit style appears to be a shaped two-button, single-breasted model. The jacket is longer, frequently with a deep-center vent. Lapels are wide, and pocket flaps are also wide — creating a nice balance.

The big excitement in suits and sports coats is generated by knits. Knits in tailored clothing offer new comfort and wrinkle-resistant qualities to today's male.

Found in plaids and patterns as well as solids, knits feature the same fashion details — such as fancy backs and pocket treatments — found in standard clothing.

Knit sportshirts are featuring skinny ribs this year. Fitting close to the body, they feature oversized collars and often, chest flap pockets.

PATTERNED, geometric or flocked knit shirts appear in a myriad of color combinations.

The newest sweaters for fall sport Art Deco and argyle diamond patterns that could have been copied from a 1930's canvas.

These patterns can be found in sleeveless sweaters that feature either a U- or V-neck. When worn over a lightweight sweater, or with a shirt and bow tie, the look is complete.

In tune with the nostalgia sweaters, Oxford bags — high-waisted pants cut very full from top to bottom — return to the sportswear scene. In the same mood there are also pleated trousers with high waistbands.

Corduroy and leather appear on the fashion scene in a wealth of colors and styles.

Tweeds appear to be making a strong comeback, and they come in many tweedy color combinations including handsome donegals.

THE TWEED knicker suit is one of the newest returns to the past, featuring patch pockets and belted backs. A really complete classical look includes a matching cap and tweed patterned knee-length hose.

Other patterns seem on the fall scene include stripes, checks and plaids. All of them are subdued: stripes are chalk, checks are mini and plaids are subtle.

Colors, like patterns, are toned down, but several light years away from somber black and navy. Dark reds, maroons and wine shades seem to take preference.

In addition, light browns and tans add softness to a man's fashion plumage this season.

Montgomery Ward Has 99th Birthday

From a modest beginning in a tiny room, Montgomery Ward has grown steadily and dramatically since it was founded in 1872. The company was begun by A. Montgomery Ward in a 12-by-14-foot room from which the first printed circular was sent out.

Today there are some 462 retail stores, 660 catalog stores and 961 catalog sales agencies. Last year alone more than $73 million was spent in new stores and this year's budget calls for an expenditure in the neighborhood of $93 million for expansion of present stores, capital improvement and the building of 24 new stores.

In keeping with Ward's policy, the Corte Madera store carries a multitude of stock — everything, in fact, needed for the home, garden and auto, as well as the latest, most up-to-day and stylish fashions for every member of the family.

Don Carey is advertising manager of the Corte Madera store and Don Gillis, the manager, also serves on the board of directors of the Marin Chapter of the United Bay Area Crusade, and served as its president in 1970.

Adjacent to the store is the Wards automotive center, where values abound in needs for bicycles and auto accessories. The staffs of both the auto center and the main store are courteous and eager to help their customers find the merchandise they need at a reasonable price.

The Feminine Dress Is Staging Fashion Comeback

The lovely, feminine dress is staging a great big fashion revival this fall.

As women clamor for pretty dresses again — and some of them have not had a dress in their wardrobes for over a year — civilized and classic looks reappear.

The line-up of styles is seemingly endless.

The classics include shirtdresses and sweater dresses, dresses with blazers and long cardigans.

They are found in plaids, menswear patterns, flannels, velvets, herringbones, tweeds and argyles.

The body dress moves fluidly with gores, bias cuts, pleats and lots of flare.

The schoolgirl looks appear with prim white collars and cuffs.

The divided skirt is very much in evidence, and dresses over shortpants and warmpants are seen often.

The one-piece dress frequently looks like a two-piecer — and in reverse — the two-piecer often comes up looking like one.

The wrap dress echoes the wrap coat revival.

New shoulder treatments for dresses include the cap sleeve, the capelet and padded shoulders. Puffed sleeves and full romantic sleeves are seen again and again.

Knits and jerseys, in wool or polyesters, are perfect foils for the soft feeling. Crepe de chines and satin back crepes lead elegant lives.

Still Together After 37 Years

Thirty-seven years ago, two 12-year-old North Beach boys with fine musical talent and a flair for business decided to seek their fortunes together.

And today — after working in top dance bands, in war surplus stores and eventually in a men's apparel store in the Corte Madera Center — the two are still at it.

They are Louis N. Malvino and George P. Campanelli, owner of Louis George, Fine Men's Apparel, 30 Corte Madera Center.

Showing a talent for working together in music and in business, rare among partners, Louis and George — in their early 40's — are celebrating their 25th anniversary in fine men's wear and laying plans for future expansion.

The two met while playing school dance bands together.

Campanelli was attending Galileo High School and Malvino was attending Sacred Heart — both in San Francisco.

Campanelli went to San Francisco State College and Malvino to University of San Francisco, graduating in business administration.

During the war, Campanelli wrote musical scores while a member of the Army Air Force Band; and Malvino played with the Army band.

But at the war's end, they went into business for good.

New Sandwich Shop Is Opened

The International Sandwich Shoppe has come to the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Operating the shop is John Schultheis III. He is offering gourmet delicatessen-type sandwiches — and domestic beers as well as soups, salads and other hot and cold beverages.

Schultheis is also offering a catering service for weddings, banquets, luncheons and parties.

The shop, at 66 Corte Madera Shopping Center, is open seven days a week from 8 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., weekdays, and 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Saturdays and Sundays.

Prior to opening the CMC store, Shultheis worked for his brother-in-law, Mike Burgess, at the later's International Gourmet Sandwich Shoppe in Terra Linda.

Similar shops are planned by the pair in other Marin locations in the near future.

'No-Tricks' In Suits This Season

"America is in a 'no-tricks' but fine tailoring mood," the National Board of Coat and Suit Industry remarks. It's an "over the wider shoulder" glance at the 40s with bias-cut skirts. A nostalgic look at the 30s with chubby jacket effects. Classics with zippy themes and hot pants suspense.

If you don't wear those you-know-what pants — even with blazer and skirt, there are other goodies. Coats with big-wheel collars, lapels and hide-the-code patch pockets. Honest hoods. Funnel collars if you're high on individuality.

Fox trims in shades of yesterday. Raccoon. Monkey — black or dyed — has leading-lady appeal.

Fake furs softer, more natural. From seal to mink doubles. Or villainous-looking wildcat, wolf.

Suits give important performances. Mobile skirts, hacking jackets. Tap-dancer blazers. Dinner suits. Jacket or skirt length not the story, only the P.S. Just below knee or downward. Upward, if you've got the gams or the lack of years.

Costumes — no cliches. Mixed patterns strike the "not too matched" note. Tailored dresses with the right jacket, coats, capes. Each piece a star. Not an understudy.

If you pant for pants, there are ensembles. With great-coats, capes, three-quarter coats that top everything. Or go midway with warmpants or culotte costumes.

OUTLAW CAMP — Sonoma State College students have turned a field across the street from the college into an improvised and illegal camp grounds. They report little luck in finding conventional housing and have no other place to park vans, busses and campers. College officials wanted to move the group onto campus, but found state law would not permit it because of the absence of flush toilets. Students expect Sonoma sheriff deputies will soon order them off the land.

Sonoma State Crisis: Student Housing

By BONNIE BARD

The annual mad scramble is on at Sonoma State College with students finding it harder than ever to find housing and jobs.

With a record setting 5,000 students on campus, college officials have called the housing and job situation critical. Students can only agree as they search for reasonably priced living quarters and jobs that will help them pay their way through college. Many consider the situation desperate.

More than 100 students a day pass through the office of student employment director Adele Davis. "What am I going to do with all these kids?," she asked rhetorically. "It's simply impossible this year."

Mrs. Davis said the job market opened up slightly in the beginning of September, but not in proportion to the number of students seeking work.

"We have students with all kinds of skills . . . There's hardly a job request that we can't fill," she said. "Many of our students are older and have some experience in some field. They're not choosy at all," Mrs. Davis said. Some have taken jobs as live-in domestics as a way of solving both housing and job problems.

"Keep checking, is the by-word of the office as students stream through asking, "find anything for me yet?"

Most report they have little or no support from their families and when summer job savings are depleted, some will be forced to drop out.

Mrs. Davis feels the ailing economy of Sonoma County caused the job squeeze. "Unempoyment is running at about 7.5 per cent right now and could go well over 10 per cent this winter," she said. "Business is bad here and people simply aren't hiring."

She said that men moonlighting to augment their main source of income have taken jobs that would naturally have been filled by students a few years ago.

Mrs. Davis feals that some employers are afraid to hire Sonoma State students. "They think they're all hippie freaks," she said.

A bulletin board outside the office lists current job openings, but the cards are grabbed nearly as quick as they are posted.

A young coed read one where a working mother seeks a baby-sitter four days a week from 5 p.m. to midnight. "It only pays 75 cents an hour, but it's better than nothing. At least I can study after the children go to bed," she said carrying the card to a pay telephone to set up an interview.

The college itself is the biggest source of employment with nearly 400 students on the payroll through the work-study program and teaching assistant jobs.

For many, the first week of classes was a maze of registration lines, classroom mix-ups, job hunting and camping out in tents until permanent quarters can be found.

Like the employment office, the office of housing director

STUDENT HOUSING — The sound of hammering echoes across the Sonoma State College campus, but the complex of 400 units won't be completed until September of 1972. In the meantime students are camping out in tents or living out of their cars during the search for a place to stay.

2-China Policy Handed To U.N. By U.S. Delegate

Japan Strengthens Resolutions By Agreeing To Be Co-Sponsor

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)— The United States formally submitted Wednesday its companion resolutions designed to save a seat for Nationalist China in the U.N. General Assembly while admitting the Chinese Communists to membership.

The two resolutions went to the U.N. Secretariat for publication after Japan announced that it would join 12 other cosponsors of the move. The Japanese decision, announced in Tokyo, provided much needed impetus for the U.S. drive.

The texts were not immediately made public. They were to go before the Assembly for debate on Oct. 18, with the historic vote expected by the end of the month.

In one resolution, the U.S. agrees to the seating of the Communist Chinese in both the General Assembly and the Security Council. The other would require a hard-to-get two-third vote for the assembly to expel the Nationalist Chinese from the United Nations.

An Albanian resolution with 19 co-sponsors, published weeks ago, calls for the "restoration of the lawful rights" of the Peking government and the complete ousting of the Taiwan (Formosa) regime from all U.N. bodies.

U.S. Ambassador George Bush said he expected a "flexible" attitude from Peking on the dual representation issue.

Japan's decision to co-sponsor the U.S. resolutions was taken by Prime Minister Eisaku Sato despite opposition from within his own political party and from other Japanese leaders. They argued that President Nixon's projected visit to Peking showed that Washington was moving toward closer relations with Mainland China. Japan, they felt, would have to do likewise and should do nothing to offend the Peking government, such as joining the "Save -The -Nationalists" move.

Busch said Japan's decision destroyed the myth that washington's "Two-China" plan was an "unwinnable proposition."

Collapse Of Tax Talks Predicted

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SACRAMENTO — Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, offering his own $533 million "mini-tax reform program," predicted yesterday that negotiations on major tax reform will "blow up" by the end of this week.

Bagley and other key legislators have been closeted with Gov. Ronald Reagan this week in negotiations over tax packages involving up to $2 billion in tax shifts and relief for property taxpayers.

The Marin legislator, also a key negotiator in the overhaul of welfare and Medi-Cal, said tax reform was "much tougher than welfare." In welfare reform, he said, the primary but loosly organized parties affected by the negotiations were the taxpayers and the poor.

But in tax reform, he said, the "total spectrum" of economic and special interests was involved, since each tax hits at someone.

Bagley predicted a "total impasse" by the 15 negotiators over who should get relief and who should be taxed more heavily.

Adding to the difficulty of reaching agreement, he said, was the political friction between a Republican governor and a Legislature controlled by Democrats.

Bagley strongly questioned the wisdom of granting property tax relief in the face of the state Supreme Court ruling that California's financing of public schools was unconstitutional because it relied on the local property tax. The court said this discriminated against poor districts.

The assemblyman pointed to estimates that the state may have to raise almost $1.5 billion in new taxes for new aid to equalize school support, saying "it just doesn't make good sense to pour $1 billion into homeowner relief this year."

The school financing issue posed by the court, which probably will mean a statewide property tax for education, will not be tackled by the Legislature until the next session, Bagley said. It's too complicated a subject to solve this late in the current session, he said.

Predicting the 1972 Legislature also will put controls on school expenditures, subjecting increased costs to voter approval, Bagley said this was "as good a property tax relief you can find."

He doubted that the U.S. Supreme Court would consider an appeal by the state to overturn the state court's ruling. The prospect of the U.S. Supreme Court accepting jurisdiction was "virtually nil" until the legal challenge to school financing comes to a legal head in other states, Bagley said. State officials still have not yet decided whether to take the ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Another potential problem blocking tax reform this year, he said, was the proposed ballot initiative to limit property taxes to 2 per cent of market value. The proposal, being circulated to qualify for next year's ballot, would require the state to impose $2.5 billion in new taxes, Bagley said.

The revenue side of his package would increase the state sales tax by a half cent, increase the bank and corporation tax by one-half per cent, replace the oil depletion allowance of 27.5 per cent with an

Illness Puts Off Otis Appearance

I-J Special Report

REDWOOD CITY — The court appearance of Sheldon P. Otis, a member of Angela Y. Davis's defense team, on felony embezzlement charges has been postponed, according to Wilbur Johnson, chief deputy district attorney of San Mateo County.

Otis had been scheduled to surrender himself to San Mateo authorities today, but he is in the intensive care center of Herrick Memorial Hospital in Berkeley, where he was admitted Saturday night.

(In Berkeley, hospital officials, who earlier had denied the attorney was there, said Otis was in fair condition, but would not discuss the nature of his illness.

(Berkeley police, questioned about rumors that Otis was suffering from an overdose of a narcotic, said they had no report of any such incident.)

Johnson said he spoke by telephone yesterday with Richmond attorney David Rosenthal, who is representing Otis in the embezzlement case.

"I have no information" on Otis's illness, Johnson reported today, other than that Rosenthal told him yesterday his client was suffering from a respiratory ailment. Rosenthal could not be reached today.

Johnson said Otis has been tentatively rescheduled to surrender himself next week.

Otis faces prosecution on two counts of embezzlement, accusing him of taking, then returning, a total of $10,000 from the accounts of the San Mateo County Legal Aid Society. Otis worked for the society until January, when he became associated with the Davis case.

Quake Recorded Off S. Mexico

BERKELEY (UPI) —The University of California seismograph station today recorded an earthquake at about 7:20 a.m. PDT.

It was located off the coast of Southern Mexico, the scientists said and had a magnitude of five on the Richter scale.

It was unlikely the tremor caused any damage, according to the Berkeley scientists.

Draft Calls May Resume Next Week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Draft calls probably will resume early next week under the new military conscription bill given final Congressional approval Tuesday, the Pentagon said today.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird began a series of meetings today to determine how many men must be called the remainder of this year.

"I expect there will be a new draft call announcement early next week," said Brig. Gen. Daniel James, a Pentagon spokesman. "It's getting intensive attention."

Ban On Burning Partly Lifted

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —State Forester Lewis Moran has partially lifted the burning ban on state protected land.

Moran ordered the state Department of Forestry to begin issuing burning permits Tuesday for state land north of the American River and in the Coast Range mountains from the Oregon border to Ventura County.

Ginger's Wind, Rain Threaten Bermuda

MIAMI (UPI)—Meandering hurricane Ginger turned westward in the Atlantic today, threatening the resort island of Bermuda with 75 mile an hour winds.

In its first public advisory on Ginger in over a week, the National Hurricane Center said the storm was located by reconnaissance planes today 350 miles east-southeast of the island "and is now less than 24 hours from striking Bermuda."

Marin Medical Society Backs Health Care Program Creation

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Marin County Medical Society has embarked on a new program to eliminate post-operative pain caused by ever-soaring medical fees and charges.

Called a "foundation for medical care," the plan is to offer Marin residents an insurance program which will guarantee full payment of doctor bills.

The idea for such a foundation is not new to Marin County or the society, which has discussed its merits and shortcomings for years.

What is new is that a large majority of Marin's physicians agree to support it in light of expanding Kaiser-Permanente programs in California and greater public acceptance of a proposed national health insurance program by the federal government.

"People want to know their bills will be paid," Donald W. Sower, executive director of the society, told the Independent-Journal last week. "The problem with insurance has been that people in a hospital or doctor's office learn (too late) they are only covered to a certain extent."

The foundation, now in its formative stages, is basically an organization of doctors banded together to offer their services for a set fee.

It would establish what those fees should be and what services should be offered and set up a policing system under which doctors' fees and practices are subject to review by a panel of fellow doctors.

The foundation then would contract with an insurance company or group of companies to market the policy to residents — primarily under group policies.

According to Sower, the main advantage of such a nonprofit program is that it would be the

Settlement Is Reached On Chicken Ranch Beach Land

Marin County supervisors, on the eve of a court battle for possession of Chicken Ranch Beach on the west shore of Tomales Bay, decided yesterday to settle for two-thirds of the strip of beach. (Another supervisors story, page 32.)

The 4-to-1 vote, with Arnold M. Baptiste dissenting, came despite the opinion of the county counsel's office that there was good chance of winning the whole 1,100-foot stretch amounting to about five acres.

The supervisors also overrode pleas by the Marin Conservation League and a group of residents of the area that they reject the compromise offered by the beach owner, Larry Marks Jr. and wait on the outcome of the trial which was to start today in Marin Superior Court.

The supervisors, in settling for two-thirds of the beach, gave Marks the right to build 15 units on the 10 acres he retains.

The majority of the supervisors decided not to hold out for the entire beach because last May 18, they had voted 3-to-2 with Baptiste and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. dissenting, to accept the compromise finally achieved yesterday.

Yesterday Arrigoni wanted to accept the 1,100 feet of beach without agreeing to a density of 15 units, and Baptiste seconded the motion. The motion was defeated by the other three supervisors.

Supervisor Michael Wornum noted that the board had previously approved 15 units. He said, "I don't see how we can go back on it now."

Wornum also pointed out that when he first started negotiating with Marks for public dedication of Chicken Ranch Beach, the conservation groups were holding out for one-third of the beach.

"Now that you've got two-thirds of the beach, you want the three-thirds of the beach," Wornum told opponents of the compromise.

On the final motion by Wornum for a partial beach dedication and permission to build 15

Barber In Trouble

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Steve E. Martini, the barber to four presidents, has pleaded guilty to charges of embezzlement and income tax violations.

Called an "influential" counselor by former President Lyndon B. Johnson and close enough to President Nixon to ride on the Air Force One to Florida in Spring, 1970, Martini entered the guilty pleas Friday at U.S. District Court in suburban Alexandria, Va., and at the District of Columbia Superior Court.

Martini, 59, pleaded guilty to appropriating for his own use $15,000 from an estate for which he was a trustee and to failing to report tax withholdings from employees to the Internal Revenue Service.

My Lai Crossfire?

FORT MEADE, Md. (UPI) — An investigator of the 1968 My Lai massacre has testified that Col. Oran K. Henderson told him civilians killed in the operation apparently were the victims of preliminary artillery fire and a crossfire between U.S. troops and enemy forces.

Col. William Wilson testified at Henderson's court-martial on My Lai coverup charges that Henderson told him in an interview in the summer of 1969 that about 20 civilians died as a result of the operations.

His account of Henderson's report was in sharp contrast to previous testimony that the death of unarmed civilians totaled more than 100.

Wilson was another in a long line of witnesses for the prosecution in the fifth week of government efforts to prove that Henderson did not adequately investigate the My Lai sweep on March 16, 1968.

Godfrey To Leave Radio Show

NEW YORK (UPI) — Arthur Godfrey will end his daily radio show in April after 27 years of continuous programming, CBS radio announced yesterday.

Godfrey

"Radio is a great medium," said Godfrey, 68. "But a seven-day-a-week radio program is just too confining."

CBS said Godfrey will make television specials for the Chrysler Corp. and work on other television projects.

In 1929 Godfrey began his career with WFBR in Baltimore and he has been with CBS radio since he joined WJSV in Washington, D.C., in 1934. He began "Arthur Godfrey Time" in 1945 and it has been a regular radio feature since.

To See Gromyko

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers will sound out Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko on the possibilities of arranging a conference to reduce NATO and Warsaw Pact forces in Europe, State Department officials said today.

The Soviet foreign minister will be Rogers's guest at a working dinner at the Waldorf Towers Friday. Both will be in New York to attend the U.N. General Assembly session.

A meeting will be held in Brussels beginning Oct. 5 at which the deputy foreign ministers of the NATO alliance are expected to discuss the subject of a conference on reducing troops in Europe.

Hirings Fo Attica

ATTICA, N.Y. (UPI) — A freeze on state government jobs will be lifted in order that more prison guards may be hired following the Attica state prison revolt, a spokesman for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said Tuesday.

The spokesman said 107 vacant positions in the Correctional Services Department will be filled, but he did not specify how many would be sent to Attica. Officials at the prison said it was understaffed by 36 men when the riot broke out there Sept. 9.

Refuses To Resign

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Prime Minister Hilmar Baunsgaard refused to resign today and advised King Frederik IX his three-party center-right government would await the outcome of an election recount.

After spending 22 minutes with the 71-year-old monarch at Amalienborg castle, Baunsgaard told newsmen he would advise the Monarch Friday when the result of the recount has been published.

Baunsgaard said the result of Tuesday's general election "was so close that a recount might completely change the picture. There is no need to rush headlong into a resignation."

Reason For Raids

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. command said today American planes carried out the heaviest raids in six months north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), partly because North Vietnam had increased its antiaircraft guns by 40 per cent in less than two months.

A U.S. command spokesman said the damage had not been assessed from Tuesday's raids against missile sites, supply areas and gun positions.

"The number of antiaircraft guns within 35 miles of the Demilitarized Zone had increased almost 40 per cent since Aug. 1, 1971," the communique said.

The command reported a "growning frequency of hostiles action against our aircraft" in the North Vietnamese panhandle.

Brezhnev On Tour

BELGRADE (UPI) — Leonid I. Brezhnev arrived today to start three months of diplomatic travels by the Kremlin leadership. The Communist party chief was met by President Tito with hugs and kisses.

Tito and Brezhnev exchanged handshakes, bear-hugs as the Soviet leader stepped down from his Ilyushin-62 jetliner in brilliant weather.

Terror Continues

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Sniping and bombing attacks last night and today wounded two British soldiers and two policemen and damaged several buildings, including the U.S. consulate, an army spokesman said.

The Northern Ireland government last night issued a statement reaffirming its policy of "containment of terror" in the province. It came on the eve of a two-day emergency debate on Northern Ireland in the British Parliament.

Today's recall of Parliament in London was the first since the June, 1968, Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia. It was requested by the opposition Labor party.

Thieu Asked To Call Off Vote

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese Senate said today President Nguyen Van Thieu's position as the only candidate in the Oct. 3 presidential elections was "against the will of the people." It asked him to call off the election so new balloting with more candidates could be organized.

The senate, in a special session, passed a declaration that said if Thieu ignores their request for a new election "it will bring a more critical situation...and the country will collapse."

The resolution was passed by a vote of 28 to 3, with 28 senators absent. A number of those voting for the resolution were considered pro-Thieu senators.

Thieu was taking no chances. In his first campaign trip today he flew to Pleiku in the Central Highlands where he shook hands with Boy Scouts, sipped rice wine from giant blue ceramic jugs and donned a red and black handwoven native shirt made by a group of Montagnard women.

He also told them to vote for him and ignored the senate action in Saigon.

It appeared unlikely that Thieu would heed the plea. He has said he would resign from office if he did not receive votes from at least 50 per cent of the estimated seven million eligible voters, but has turned down similar requests from opponents that he resign and reorganize new elections.

Thieu became the only candidate when his two major opponents, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh, dropped out, charging the president with rigging the elections.

His single candidacy has caused a wave of opposition and there have been a number of demonstrations, including one yesterday in which some 300 students burned Thieu in effigy.

The senate resolution, passed in an open session, said Thieu's position as the only candidate "is against the will of the people and has exceeded limits fixed by laws." It added that if he ignores the senate and continues with his one-man campaign "it will bring a more critical situation and constitutes a threat to the country; the executive will lose its leadership and the country will collapse."

The declaration was read to the senate by Speaker Nguyen Van Huyen, a political ally of Thieu after three hours of debate.

It said the senate was calling on Thieu and his vice presidential running mate, former Prime Minister Tran Van Huong, "to respond to the right demands of the Vietnamese people and to respect the law of the nation."

A number of the senators who voted for the declaration are considered pro-Thieu.

Aviation Fuel Blaze Burns Out

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—The last tank of aviation fuel set afire by Viet Cong mortars and commandos last Monday burned itself out Tuesday night.

Cambodian troops found the bodies of three guards killed in the Viet Cong attack, military sources said. It brought to eight the total of known dead in the Communist assault on tank farms on the capital's northern edge.

Several other guards kidnaped by the Commandos were still missing, the sources said.

Explosions and fires destroyed or heavily damaged 22 storage tanks belonging to the Esso and Shell Oil companies, the sources said. Government officials said that 40 per cent of the civilian gasoline, diesel and fuel oil supplies on hand at the two tank farms and closed to 40 per cent of storage facilities were destroyed.

In all, 1.75 million gallons of fuel burned, including 325,000 gallons of high octane aviation fuel used by the country's civil airlines. The airlines said there was no plan to cut back the vital intercity cargo and passenger flights despite the heavy losses of fuel.

Chicago Seven Defendant Will Teach Course

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Chicago Seven defendant Tom Hayden has been hired to teach a political science course on Vietnam and the protest movement at Immaculate Heart College, a Roman Catholic school for women.

"He is controversial and the subject matter is controversial but this in no way lessens its validity as an undertaking of higher education," said Dr. Mary Jean Pew, chairman of the college's History and Government Department.

Hayden will teach the course one night a week for the next 15 weeks. One of the books scheduled to be used is the Pentagon Papers, the school said.

Reed Trustees Wanting Detailed Program Report

Trustees of the Reed School District, after hearing a detailed report of sixth, seventh and eighth grade programs at Reedlands Woods and Del Mar schools, decided last night they wanted to know more about the programs.

According to Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello, the board set an adjourned meeting for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. to discuss the programs at greater length. The discussion was part of a regular review of district programs by the board.

Other items to be discussed at the Tuesday meeting will include six requests for transfers into the district and committee reports.

The Reed School District board also:

CERTIFICATED — Approved hiring of three teachers: Terry Spence, Bel Aire School, at an annual salary of $7,911; Ann Paras, part-time teacher for the educationally handicapped at Bel Aire at $3,574 a year, and Robert Cooney, Reedland Woods, at $9,543 a year.

GIFT — Accepted, with gratitude, a gift of two clarinets from Mrs. George Bitter of Tiburon.

AIDES — Voted to employ Millie McMillan and Virginia Hotz as teachers aides at Del Mar at salaries of $2.60 an hour.

ENROLLMENT — Learned from the superintendent that district enrollment, as of Sept. 20, was 1,887, seven less than projected.

HOUSING

John Simmons sees a constant stream of students. "We had 100 a day coming in by Aug. 15 and now it's more like 200 a day," he said.

Some students, aware of the housing shortage, came prepared with a full array of camping equipment to tide them over until a permanent home could be found. In the meantime, work progresses on construction of campus housing for 400 students, but it won't be ready for occupancy until next fall. Rates in the housing may be as low as $120 per month for room and meals in the common dining hall.

The "No Vacancy Sign" is posted throughout Rohnert Park and Cotati. Luxury apartments featuring swimming pools have been filled since spring despite rents of up to $275 or $300 per month. Even more primitive quarters ranging from semi-renovated chicken coops to garages are reportedly expensive and hard to come by.

Simmons agrees with students that most rental prices are way out of line. "We have students clamoring for places where rooms rent for $100 a month with shared bathrooms and no kitchen priviliges," he said.

"It's just a plain old-fashioned rip off," Simmons said. "I'm angry and frustrated."

Many students reported finding apartments within their price range of $100 to $150 per month, but could not meet the landlord's requirement of three-months rent in advance plus a cleaning deposit.

"Half of our students this year are from Los Angeles and Southern California and they simply have no place to stay," Simmons said. Many students from Marin and Sonoma have been forced to commute from home when they would have preferred to start life on their own.

Like Mrs. Davis, Simmons says the students he sees are not choosy about their living accommodations. "Their incomes are very low and they're willing to experiment with new lifestyles," he said, noting it's not unlike what some of their parents went through in the depression years of the 1930s.

Simmons has also found that many prospective landlords are afraid to rent to students. "We get unbelievable responses from some of them," he said. "Some won't even talk to us."

In the short time he's been on campus, Simmons has often played the role of mediator in student-landlord disputes. "Many of our students are living away from home for the first time and don't know what's expected of them," he said.

"I generally tell landlords to put it on the line and tell them what they expect of them," he said. "If they don't want drinking or noise or dope they should make it clear."

He said most students leave their housing in better condition than they found it. "People must learn you can't judge by appearances, but only behavior," he said.

There's a pressing need for low cost housing," Simmons said, adding he believed local officials and developers have been remiss in their duties. "What we need is someone to do some innovative building."

Rohnert Park and Cotati officials and developers strongly opposed construction of on-campus housing, saying it represented unfair competition to developers. Despite heavy lobbying in Sacramento, the state approved funding of the buildings through revenue bonds.

Eugene McAdams, temporary secretary of the newly formed Sonoma County Housing Authority, sees no relief in sight for the students.

"Our program will not materially effect the students, he said, explaining that funds will support only 400 low-income housing units to be spread throughout the county.

He said the authority has no plans for construction of a public housing project designed for students or members of other low-income groups.

In the meantime students are living out of their cars and some of the luckier ones have found friends who'll allow them to "crash" for a while.

"I'm not sure how long some of the students can continue to live on that kind of basis," he said, adding he's sure some students will have to leave college because of the lack of housing and jobs."

BEACH

units, Arrigoni joined the majority.

Baptiste, the lone dissenter, argued that the amount of the beach to be dedicated for public use should be decided in the court trial.

Nine Inverness residents, calling themselves the Inverness Waterfront Committee, is suing Marks, claiming that the public has acquired rights of access and recreation on all of Chicken Ranch Beach because it has used the beach historically.

Robert M. Brown, attorney for the committee, told the supervisor he would have preferred they not make the compromise settlement, but his group would press the suit with or without county backing.

Richard V. Godino, assistant county counsel, said there is a "strong possibility" that the county and the waterfront committee could have won the suit and have acquired the entire Chicken Ranch Beach north of Golden Hinde Boatel.

With the county withdrawing from the suit and accepting a compromise, Godino said the suit by the waterfront committee would be weakened.

"You're not going to get the whole beach anyway," argued Marks' attorney, Wallace S. Myers. "We are giving you all the beach except 350 feet."

Both the Marin Conservation League and Inverness Improvement Association urged the supervisors to reject the compromise and wait for the trial outcome.

County Planning Commissioner John F. West, an Inverness property owner, got up to speak but was gaveled down by Chairman Louis H. Baar.

Trio To Give Recital At Dominican

Dominican College will present a public lecture-recital by a Beethoven string trio composed of Charles Meacham, violin; Jean Mitchell, cello; and Lucien Mitchell, viola, at 8 p.m. on Sept. 30 in Caleruega Hall on the San Rafael campus.

The trio will play Beethoven's string trio Opus 3 in E Flat Major, which will be analyzed in a lecture by Meacham. For comparative purposes the trio will play excerpts from Mozart's Divertimento in E flat, K. 563 and Wallingford Riegger's "Duett."

While traveling in Europe this summer Meacham did research in England for his Beethoven lecture.

The lecture-recital format is rare for the trio that has been playing together for about 18 years. All are members of the Marin Symphony Orchestra, and the Mitchells are musicians with the San Francisco Symphony.

Meacham resigned from the position of principal of the San Francisco Symphony's second violin section several years ago to become a member of the music faculty at the College of Marin.

Woman In Guilty Plea To Charges

Clara Ann Moran, 20, of Corte Madera, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to charges of Burglary and forgery.

She is to be sentenced Oct. 18.

Four additional charges of forgery were dismissed by Judge E. Warren McGuire at the request of the district attorney's office following her plea.

She was arrested along with a San Francisco man June 19 when Corte Madera police said they saw the pair carrying stereo equipment from the residence of Allen Smith of 30 Golden Hind Passage.

Charges against the San Francisco man were dropped when the district attorney's office said it had determined it had insufficient evidence to convict him.

The forgery charges against Mrs. Moran stemmed from a series of bad checks she allegedly passed at various Purity Markets earlier this year.

Schedule Of Youth Concerts Announced

The Marin Symphony Association announces that its 1971-72 season of youth programs will include concerts by the Marin Youth Orchestra, the 50-member workshop for strings and the newly formed orchestral chamber group, Orchestra Piccola — all sponsored by the association.

Now in its 17th year, the Marin Youth Orchestra, which began rehearsals Sept. 20, is made up of 80 of Marin's most talented young musicians from county high schools and elementary schools.

Under the direction of conductor Hugo Rinaldi, the orchestra will perform two full symphonic programs at the new Veterans Memorial Building at the Marin Civic Center on Jan. 23 and May 7.

The 35-member Orchestra Piccola, which will start rehearsals Saturday, is comprised of the most highly trained members of the youth orchestra and is also conducted by Rinaldi. Three major concerts are scheduled with one on Feb. 4 in the new Veterans Memorial Building for members of the Marin Symphony Association only.

There will be two programs, including a "sit-in concert," for the new children's series at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

The "sit-in concert" on June 3 will bring the young audience inside the orchestra, seating a child on each side of the musicians with the 45-minute program repeated as often as necessary to accommodate many groups of children.

The workshop for strings, an ensemble and training program which prepares young string players for admission into the Marin Youth Orchestra, also began rehearsals Monday at Davidson Middle School, in San Rafael.

This season for the first time the 50-member orchestra under the direction of Robert L. Jackson will present its own concert on May 23 at Davidson.

This year the "music for minors" programs will become a part of the youth in arts programs presented by four Marin County cultural organizations to elementary and junior high school at the Veterans Memorial Building.

10-Week Series On Economics, Philosophy Set

Graduates of the Henry George School of Social Science will lead a 10-week discussion series in fundamental economics and social philosophy at five Marin County locations beginning next Monday.

Using the textbook "Progress and Poverty" by George, discussion groups will consider poverty, the relationship between population and subsistence, slums, urban sprawl, pollution and inflation. All classes will begin at 8 p.m.

Locations and starting dates are: Sept. 27, planning commission chambers of the Civic Center and room 508 of Redwood High School, Larkspur; Sept. 29, Coral Room of Marin General Hospital and room 211 of Sir Francis Drake High School; and Sept. 30, room 506 of Terra Linda High School.

Auditions For Chorus Are Set

A second audition for the Sonoma State College Childrens' Chorus will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday in Ives Hall.

Chorus Director Don Tarpley said boys with unchanged voices are especially needed. Children must be between the ages of 9 and 14, have some ability to read music and be prepared to sing a simple song.

Tarpley said plans are being made for the chorus to perform with the Sonoma State College Philharmonic in December. Further information can be received by calling the music department.

Interest On Claims Bill Advances

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation requiring the state to pay interest on unpaid claims against it by local public agencies has passed the Senate, 28-0, and gone to the Assembly.

The bill, SB 1053 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, was asked by the Marin County Board of Supervisors. The county, and many other agencies, often wait months for the state to honor claims.

Interest, at the going rate, would be paid starting on the 61st day after a claim was filed. The bill also imposes the interest on unpaid claims by the state against local public agencies.

No More Breakage

MILWAUKIE, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon bartenders will no longer have to break all their empty bottles —about 4 million a year. The Oregon Liquor Control Commission has repealed a regulation requiring the bottles be broken, to prevent their re-use.

Tam Antiunification Proposal To Reagan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to avoid another election next year to unify elementary school districts in the Tamalpais High School District has gone to the governor's desk for signature into law.

Acrimonious unification elections were held in the Tamalpais district in both 1964 and 1965, losing badly both times. But under the state Education Code, a third election must be held to coincide with next year's June primary election.

Marin school officials, citing the disruption of the past two elections, had the legislation, AB 358, introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. Voters would continue to turn down unification, they argued, because it would require up to a 62.5-cent tax increase in some districts to raise teachers' salaries to the highest level in the unified district.

The governor already has signed into law a separate bill, SB 878 by Sen. Fred W. Marler Jr., R-Redding, that eliminates the code requirement for unification elections. Marler's bill, however, is operative only after next July, thus offered no relief to the Tamalpais district's problem in June.

BART To Have A 'Civilian Look'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A line of uniforms underscoring the "civilian look" for employes on the Bay Area Rapid Transit District was unveiled at a special fashion show Tuesday for BART directors.

Dave Soblin, BART's passenger relations officer, told the directors: "We have tried to achieve a civilian look. We're trying to get away from the idea of uniforms and hash marks. It goes along with the rest of BART's modern image."

The final version of the uniforms will be approved by the general board of directors before the 75-mile rapid transit system begins service sometime next year.

Lady station attendants will have a sailor look, in dark blue with bell bottom trousers and jackets with stripes on the sleeves.

Sewerage Agency Bill To Reagan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to create a regional sewerage agency in the Bay Area yesterday won final legislative approval in a 55-0 vote by the Assembly that sent it to the governor's desk for his signature into law.

The bill, AB 2867 by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, will create a Bay Area Sewage Services Agency in the nine-county region to plan and build regional sewerage facilities. The new system will be financed by revenue bonds backed by service charges.

The agency also will be empowered to finance its bonds with a property tax up to one-half cent on each county's property tax rate.

The agency would have veto power over all proposed wastewater facilities, but would leave intact the Regional Water Quality Control Board to set and police standards.

Berlin Escape

BERLIN (UPI)—Three men fled into West Berlin today across the Communist-built death strip on the city's northern outskirts, police reported.

Panel To Probe Oil Spill Halt

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Stiffer construction standards for tankers to help guard against oil spills will be considered at Senate hearings beginning today.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, said Adm. Chester Bender, the Coast Guard commandant, would lead off testimony in hearings scheduled for three days.

Magnuson said the hearings would deal chiefly with new construction standards that would take advantage of recent engineering and technological improvements.

Hearing Slated On Bike Path Network

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to establish a statewide network of bicycle and pedestrian paths, stalled since July in an Assembly committee, has been set for hearing by the committee next Wednesday.

The hearing by the ways and means committee begins at 8 a.m. in Room 4202 of the Capitol.

The author of the bill, SB 265, Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, said he now had endorsements of the measure by a majority of the committee's 21 members.

The bill earlier passed three other committees and the Senate without opposition before it reached the ways and means committee, chaired by Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco.

Hardliner Wins In Washington

BREMERTON, Wash. (UPI) —An 18-year-old youth who took a hard line on discipline beat the school board chairman in an election here Tuesday.

William H. Lynch, a 1971 graduate of West Bremerton High School got 23 per cent of the vote, while incumbent Eldon Matlock garnered only 21 per cent in the primary.

Lynch campaigned for undercover narcotics agents and more discipline in schools.

Under a new elections law, only Lynch's name will appear on the Nov. 3 ballot because only two candidates ran in the primary.

Suit Seeks Lifting Of Building Ban

The Ross Valley Sanitary District has filed action in San Francisco Superior Court seeking that the building ban in the Ross Valley be lifted.

Dist. Mgr. Ralph C. Noah said today the district has charged the Regional Water Quality Control Board with acting "unreasonably and in excess of its jurisdiction" in ordering the ban.

The ban was imposed in July and prohibits new sewer connections until the district's sewer system is brought up to standards by eliminating the discharge of sewage into the bay.

The Ross Valley district is the third Marin County district to seek court action since the watchdog agency began cracking down on polluters.

In its petition, Noah said, the district maintains that the quality of treatment at its Greenbrae plant is good — "better than that of most dischargers into the Bay . . ."

He said the district's bypassing of untreated waste into the bay during winter months is being corrected in a long-range program.

"Immediate steps to prevent storm water incursion into the sanitary sewer system have been put into operation," Noah said.

Further, the district has doubled its staff, which has been closing off rain gutters and manholes which allow water infiltration into sewer line. The infiltration of water overloads the treatment plant and forces bypassing.

Also, Noah said, the district maintains in its petition that there is no significant increase in water quality as a result of the building ban.

Instead, he said, "the district is deprived of connection fees and assessed valuation — sources of funds to carry out the expensive water improvement program already underway."

Jail Term In Theft Of Car

Robert Carl Maier, 18, of no known address, has been sentenced to 90 days in Marin County Jail for car theft.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court also placed him on probation for 90 days and gave him credit for six days he had already spent in jail.

Maier was arrested May 9 when San Rafael Police investigated a one-car accident and found the car — a 1971 Porsche — had been stolen from Sherman Ellison of 120 Miramar Avenue, San Rafael.

Maier was ordered by Judge Wilson to make restitution to Ellison in an amount to be determined by the Marin Probation Department.

BURGLAR-FIRE ALARM WHIZ-KID FOR HIRE

I am the most advanced burglar alarm system anyone has ever created. People call me an electronics wonder. I stand guard over your home, apartment, or small business 24 hours a day and my protection is foolproof. You program me like a computer. If I see an intruder, I frighten him away . . . awake you and or silently call the police and bring them on the run too. I also will warn you at fire and smoke. I'm most attractive and, since I just plug-in, you can move me around easily. Recently, I've starred on national television (ABC, NBC and CBS Network TV shows), and in many national magazines. My name is Preventor II. Best part — I cost just a fraction of those old-fashioned wired burglar alarm systems. I want to protect your loved ones, so please give me an interview. For a no-obligation demonstration.

Heated Debate On Decentralization

Tamalpais High School District trustees last night rejected a report on how to decentralize the district amid expressions of bewilderment about the lack of details in the report.

The four-hour debate also was marked by criticism of the board by disgruntled administrators, teachers and citizens who objected to the trustees' method of handling the topic of decentralization.

Board members repeatedly questioned Supt. Wilbur D. Hawkins on how his proposed guidelines would be implemented and finally asked him to prepare a completely different report which is to outline his own objectives for the district.

That report will be reviewed at a special meeting Oct. 11.

Trustees, referring to the 26-page proposal, quoted phrases they found to be vague and asked Hawkins for the "how's of decentralization, not the why's."

In April, the board approved decentralization of the district which began this month at Sir Francis Drake High School and is expected to be in effect at Redwood and Tamalpais high schools next fall.

During the meeting, Hawkins's report was called "a lot of platitudes" by trustee Robert W. Corlett. David D. Ring, another trustee, said the proposal "lacks spark ... dies with boredom ... needs inspiration."

President Frank L. Miller said the report "has a dreariness about it" and later commented, "We can't approve this document tonight because there's really no document to approve."

Trustee Jerrold M. Ladar said he feared the board would have to give up some of its prerogatives and policy decisions if the proposal were adopted.

As the board wrestled with the report, Hawkins's only comment in defense of its lack of details was this:

"If you buy the idea of decentralization, then you don't buy the idea of encumbering people with specific objectives at the district level."

Ring, with the agreement of other trustees, asked Hawkins to prepare a report of his own goals for the district with which the board could then agree, disagree or revise.

Hawkins apparently was having difficulty understanding exactly what the board wanted him to prepare because he repeated the instructions several times before finally suggesting he would draft a few trial suggestions for trustees' approval of the format.

Although the board did not mention the district staff's unfavorable reception of Hawkins's first plan for decentralization which was proposed and rejected last spring, one audience member, Vaughn Marker of Larkspur, recalled, "What you're asking him to do now he tried earlier this year and the timid arose in their might and smote him down."

The earlier proposal also was referred to by Dr. Thomas Larch, education director at Sir Francis Drake High School, who said, "Given the history of this district over the past year, I feel you are putting the superintendent in an awkward position."

Hawkins replied, "I think I have a responsibility and certainly the right to present my views — as long as the staff understands it is always up to review and is not chiseled in stone."

Responding to an earlier statement by the board that it would like to hear what the staff's recommendations are, Mary Donovan, president of the Tamalpais Federation of Teachers Union, asked, "How can you say you want us to work with you? We will work with the superintendent to write the goals, but we will not rewrite what he has written."

She and other teachers expressed discontent at the board's bypassing the teachers for ideas on district objectives and asked to present specific recommendations at the Oct. 11 session.

Trustees who admitted they were on unfamiliar ground in the decentralization work assured teachers they did not mean to bypass them.

Many of the two dozen members of the audience spoke following the board's discussion of the report and criticized trustees for not allowing comments from the audience earlier in the meeting. Several sought, unsuccessfully, to get a commitment from the board that general audience participation would be allowed at the Oct. 11 meeting.

Hawkins's rejected 26-page report, according to a digest prepared by his staff, is based on several broad generalizations: that educational change is inevitable, that change is badly needed and that change must be planned to be effective.

It continues from that point with the "whys" of change, to which trustees objected, and offers none of the "hows" called for in the next report.

The report maintains that a "decentralized form of organization (three districts within a district) is the most promising way to bring about educational reform in an established system."

The traditional way, with a central office making all decisions for the school system, ignores the creative potential among teachers, counselors and local administrators, according to Hawkins.

To achieve decentralization, teachers and administrators must have the confidence of others in assuming leadership roles with students and the community.

They must next identify "student needs" and develop a "plan of operation" at each school. This is needed since "students vary from school to school and within each school."

Thus, for example, "each student who enters a district school will be diagnosed in the communicative skills, his deficiencies noted, his program developed and the corrections made."

During and after decentralization, the district board will retain its legal right and duty to set policy for the district, the report states.

The report does not say, however, what decision making powers are retained by the board or, other than in general terms, what decision making is made at the individual school level.

The superintendent and his staff will provide individual schools with administrative support, coordinate the development of the so-called "local school plans" and assist in auditing the quality of education provided.

The principal at each school, called an educational leader, will "incorporate the thinking and recommendations of the broad community he serves into the school's operations."

How this is done, according to the report, must be worked out when developing the "educational plan" for each school.

The teachers are listed as major participants in designing and implementing the local school plan. They must therefore be proficient in "identifying student needs" and in developing ways of meeting those needs.

How this is accomplished is again assigned to the local school plan through some form of teacher training.

Urgent Call On Housing Needs

CLEVELAND (UPI) — William N. Brown, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, says the nation's housing needs must be met or socialized housing will be necessary.

Brown made the comments Tuesday in an address to Ohio realtors.

"The nation's housing goals must be met or we'll have socialized housing in the next five years, he said. "It doesn't make sense to tear down houses which can be rehabilitated when 26,000 houses are needed by the end of this decade."

Brown asked realtors, savings and loan companies, public officials and the news media to help obtain "safe, decent housing for all Americans in all income levels."

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny will make a 24-hour stopover here Oct. 1 en route to a state visit in North Vietnam, the Foreign Ministry announced today.

Operation To Render Harmless Deadly Snakes

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Three researchers have developed an operation that renders harmless deadly snakes such as theking cobra and diamondback rattler.

The new technique has worked on 150 snakes and means zoo keepers can handle poisonous reptiles without fear of a fatal bite, said James L. Glenn, a herpetologist for the local Hogle Zoo.

"We can convert a reptile into a venemoid —a venomous snake that is no longer capable of injecting venom into its victim," Glenn said.

Glenn; Dr. Richard C. Straight, a researcher in venoms at the Salt Lake Veterans' Administration Hospital; and Dr. Clifford Snyder of the University of Utah College of Medicine, reported the new operation in a paper presented today to the annual conference of the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums.

Socialite Is Dead Of Overdose

ATHERTON (UPI) — Fuller E. (Clay) Callaway III, heir to a Georgia textile fortune and prominent Bay Area socialite, died Tuesday night, apparently from an overdose of sleeping pills.

The 39-year-old jet setter, who also was a record-setting yachtsman and ex-husband of television personality Pia Lindstrom, was found dead fully-clothed in the bedroom of his home.

Officials reported a number of sleeping pills scattered over the floor and San Mateo County Coroner Paul B. Jensen said death "was apparently from an overdose of Seconal."

A single-sheet note, written in large letters, was addressed to the victim's father, Fuller E. Callaway Jr., La Grange, Ga., manufacturer.

"To dad," the note said in part, "it looks like it's turned a full circle and turned back on you..."

A caretaker said Callaway seemed all right earlier in the day, but a half-empty bottle indicated he had been drinking shortly before his death.

The handsome socialite was divorced from his third wife, actress Annette Cash, in 1967. His second wife, Miss Lindstrom, daughter of actress Ingrid Bergman, divorced him in 1961 after 22 months of marriage. His first wife, Winda, is now Mrs. James Warren of Atherton.

Callaway skippered the yacht that broke the record in the trans-Pacific yacht race. He narrowly escaped death in 1963 when his sailing vessel, the Morning Star, struck a reef off the coast of Nicaragua and sank.

At the time, Callaway and his crew were heading for Newport, R.I., and a trans-Atlantic race to England.

Strike Threat By Professors

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The president of a union of state college professors will recommend a strike if Gov. Ronald Reagan fails to ask for a 15 per cent wage hike in his January budget message.

Art Bierman, a philosophy professor at San Francisco State college and president of the 3,000-member United Professors of California, told a Tuesday news conference:

"California professors have been treated more shabbily than other occupational groups in California the past two years. We have not received cost-of-living increases for two years running."

Bierman said the professors have been "patient and civil, hoping government would rectify the salary inequities visited on them."

Novato 'Trash Bash' Is Set For October

Novato will have two citywide cleanup days, known as a "Trash Bash," Oct. 2 and 9, the sponsoring Novato Environmental Quality Committee announced today.

The debris collection point will be Rowland and Redwood boulevards, and those who bring items that are unmanageable will be given a pass to the dump, reported Rodney Brown, city administration assistant.

Committee members reported Monday night that a feature of the cleanup campaign will be a competition between Novato and San Marin High School students along Novato Boulevard Oct. 9.

The winning team will receive a trophy and a five-gallon tree of its choice, donated by the Ignacio Nursery, Brown reported.

Committee members urged that residents whose homes or property bordered any creeks in the city include the adjacent creek area in their cleanup.

The Novato Environmental Quality Committee also

APPRECIATION — Sent a certificate of appreciation to developer Gerald Hoytt of Richmond for donating land and sharing costs of the new bridge across Novato Creek, between the Novato Downtown Center and Novato branch of the Marin County Library.

TREES — Suggested that the department of public works keep a watch on construction around trees at the Boise Cascade project at the former Oliva Ranch to assure that regulations are being observed.

12 Filipino Moslems Reported Slaughtered

MANILA (UPI)—Authorities in the Philippine province of Lanao del Norte said today gunmen killed 12 Filipino Moslems including five babies and slashed off the ears of some of the victims.

The area of the killings is 450 miles south of Manila and has been the scene of intermittent fighting between Moslem and Christian groups for months.

Zink Takes Firing Into Superior Court

A Sausalito police sergeant fired in May 1970 took his battle for reinstatement to Marin Superior Court yesterday.

Thomas H. Zink filed for a court order directing the Sausalito City Council to rescind its Sept. 7 action upholding the dismissal.

Zink, fired after 11 years on the Sausalito force, was charged at the time with arriving late for work, negligent handling of firearms, emotional instability and having the odor of alcohol on his breath.

An appeal of his firing was heard by a state hearing officer last November and December, and the officer recommended that Zink be reinstated to the police force, but demoted to patrolman.

But after three closed meetings, the council upheld the firing in a decision dated Sept. 7, but officially signed Sept. 10.

In papers filed in superior court, Zink said the council's decision is invalid because he did not get a fair trial.

He charged the city had committed a "prejudicial abuse of discretion" and that there was no evidence to support its decision.

The action was filed by San Francisco attorney James B. Leech.

Already pending in superior court is a $1,250,000 suit filed by Zink in March against Greenbrae psychiatrist Edward E. Shev.

Shev had been hired by Sausalito to conduct therapy sessions for the city's police department.

Zink claimed that Shev "negligently and carelessly examined and diagnosed" him in April 1970 and reported to Sausalito Police Chief James Wright that Zink was emotionally disturbed.

Another Creek Fuss?

Another "Tamalpais Creek incident" may be brewing in Ross where residents are refusing to let surveyors onto their properties to complete the concreting of Corte Madera Creek.

Like the residents along Tamalpais Creek in Kentfield, property owners in Ross are resisting the efforts by the Army Corps of Engineers to complete the Corte Madera Creek project from Ross Post Office to the San Anselmo line at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

"There are 38 parcels involved, all in the town of Ross," said Charles E. Murphy, county flood control engineer. "At least 12 of them are holding out, threatening to arrest any survey crews that enter their property."

At Murphy's request, the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday authorized County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to get a court order to allow the survey to continue.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. was the lone dissenter. "I am not convinced that this is the proper procedure," said Arrigoni.

It was in Kentfield, Arrigoni's district, that the Tamalpais Creek incident erupted in April of 1969. Irate residents, trying to prevent tree cutting and concrete lining of the channel, jumped in front of bulldozers to bring the project to a temporary halt.

Storm Threat

TAIPEI (UPI) — Typhoon Bess, packing 150 miles an hour center winds, is expected to hit East Taiwan late tonight or early Thursday morning, weathermen warned.

Planes In Action

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Seven helicopters and six light planes donated recently by the U.S. governmnt to Mexico went into action today over Mexico's remote hillsides to spot illicit marijuana and poppy plantations from the air.

'World's Worst Crook' Given Jail Sentence

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —Criminal Court Judge Hudson Olliff Tuesday gave Clyde Leslie Hall a six months' jail term and a title: "The world's worst crook."

Hall, 37, had been accused of planning a fake robbery with the cooperation of a service station operator, who instead warned police of the plan.

When Hall went into the service station with a gun Aug. 16, tied up the operator, and stole $2.67, police were waiting for him outside.

Olliff admonished Hall to go straight when he gets out of jail, because he just had to be "the world's worst crook."

2 Youths Deny Setting Bombs

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—A Sacramento, Calif., youth and his Oklahoma companion pleaded innocent Tuesday when they were arraigned on charges of setting off explosives in a park restroom and a car.

Marvin L. Evans, 19, Sacramento, and Phillip A. Ronistal, 21, who said he was a transient from Oklahoma, were named in complaints of malicious destruction Sunday of a woman's car and a restroom in Sugarhouse Park and also charged with possession of dangerous drugs.

Third District Judge Paul Grant set a preliminary hearing for Oct. 27 and set bail at $101,000 each.

Creekside Park Plans Approved

The Novato City Council last night approved preliminary plans for beautification of Novato Creek in the area between the Novato Downtown Center and the Novato branch of the Marin County Library.

Leroy M. Gerner, cochairman of the Novato Citizens Creek Committee, said "This will be the show spot in Novato."

The concept is to "try to leave the area in its natural state," Gerner reported.

There will be paths along each side of the creek, a ponding area at the Seventh Street end of the project, drinking fountains at each end of the bridge across the creek, benches and lighting, he said.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson presented a preliminary estimate that the proposed improvements would cost $19,525, and the annual maintenance and operation would be $4,800.

The city has budgeted $18,000 and is seeking $18,000 in federal matching funds.

The portion of the $36,000 in city and federal funds not used in the improvements is intended for right-of-way acquisition and connecting the project to Grant Avenue on the west, Mattson said.

The Novato City Council Also:

NOVATO FAIR — Bypassed a bid by Fifty Associates, owners of the Novato Fair Shopping Center, to withdraw its application to rezone a parcel between Novato Creek and South Novato Boulevard from residential to commercial. The council then initiated the rezoning on its own and set 8 p.m. Oct. 12 for a public hearing. J. Wayne Womack dissented.

TAXI PERMIT — Continued until Oct. 12 an application by Novato Cab Co. to transfer its license to D and K Enterprises, headed by Richard H. Stevens of Santa Rosa, who operates cabs in Petaluma, Santa Rosa and several other Sonoma County communities.

CIVIC CENTER — Authorized discussion with the Novato Chamber of Commerce on possible use of the residence at 853 Reichert Avenue, recently acquired by the city for civic center expansion, for a chamber office and information center. It also approved installing a sidewalk on the recently acquired Rodoni property, north of the Community House, at a cost of from $900 to $1,500, depending upon how much work is done by city employees.

NUISANCE HEARING — Set Oct. 26 at 8 p.m. for a public hearing on abatement of an abandoned house at 1432 Indian Valley Road, owned by Reno Walter Pronzini, as a nuisance.

TOWNHOUSE UNITS — Approved precise development plans for 12 townhouse units on two lots on the south side of San Marin Drive, east of San Mateo Way, by a 4-1 vote with Wayne Sartain dissenting because he felt the density was too high.

SPEED LIMIT — Set a speed limit of 35 miles an hour along Bahia Drive and the portion of Bugeia Lane between Atherton Avenue and Bahia Drive.

GARBAGE RATE — Received ntice that Redwood Sanitary Land Fill Inc. intends to raise its annual charge to the city from $360 to $1,400 after the President's price freeze is lifted, leading Sartain to suggest thinking about establishing a city dump.

SEVENTH STREET ANNEXATION — Introduced an ordinance to prezone about 22 acres west of Seventh Street extended and south of San Marin Drive for planned residential, and continued prezoning of 33 acres east of Seventh Street extended pending county action on zoning in the area, now agricultural.

DIABLO TRIANGLE — Adopted an ordinance rezoning the J. C. Youngberg and Joseph DeBorba parcels at the southwest corner of Diablo Avenue and South Novato Boulevard from general commercial to planned commercial.

REZONING — Rezoned a 13,000-square-foot parcel at Nave and Marin Valley drives from limited roadside to retail business as requested by Kenneth Rozenberg, who plans to construct a 150-seat theater at the site.

THEATER PERMITS — Adopted an ordinance requiring a use permit for theaters in a retail business zone, where they previously were allowed without a permit.

PARADE — Granted the Novato 4-H Club a permit for a parade Oct. 9 from 10 a.m. to noon from the Lee Brothers market parking lot at Seventh Street and Grant Avenue, north on Seventh to Vallejo Avenue, east on Vallejo to First Street, south on First to Grant Avenue and west on Grant back to the Lee Brothers parking lot.

PREZONING — Introduced an ordinance to prezone nine parcels along Center Road between St. Francis Avenue and Eucalyptus Avenue for single family homes with 10,000 square foot lots.

TRAFFIC — Asked the traffic safety committee for a report on the impact of changing parking along south side of Grant Avenue from diagonal to parallel.

RENAISSANCE FAIRE — Commented that there had been few traffic problems resulting from the Renaissance Pleasure Faire at Black Point.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until Oct. 12 in memory of Robin C. Cannon, husband of former city councilman Lucille H. Cannon. He died Friday after a long illness.

Fairfax City Council In Closed Meeting

Fairfax City Council will hold a closed special meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow to continue reviewing charges against an employee in what the city administrator has previously described as a very serious matter.

The special session in the council chamber at the Fairfax Women's Club will be the third to be conducted in the case, details of which have been withheld.

Burglars Loot A Model Home

Officers said that three chairs, three tables, two couches, drapes, bedspreads and minor items were taken.

Man Held In Burglary Case

A 25-year-old Sausalito man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of burglary after he was arrested in a Sausalito home. A second man found in the residence by police leaped from a second floor window and escaped.

Police said Patrick Michael Quinn of Gate 6 was arrested after officers were notified of a burglary in progress at the Alfred S. Wilsey home, 89 Cazneau Avenue, at 4:30 p.m. On arriving at the house, an officer noticed the front door open.

The policeman heard a male voice and also heard a window being opened, then observed a white male, medium height and build, with dark hair and dark clothing, leap from the window and flee over a hillside.

Police said Quinn was apprehended as he attempted to run from the residence.

Quinn was being held in lieu of $3,500 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Is Belvedere Going To The Dogs?

By MARY BURNS

Belvedere dog lovers and haters barked out their complaints last night about the city's cavorting canines in a two-hour public hearing on dog control.

The Marin Humane Society was jostled between complaining citizens who said its officers have been too zealous promiscuously gathering dogs off owners' front yards and city councilmen who felt that the society has been too easy-going.

Numerous citizens testified to being bitten by loose dogs, having property destroyed by dog waste and being bothered by night barking.

Irving Lipschultz of 19 Cove Drive claimed he was accosted by the same dog five times and said he now carries an iron bar and mace pellets to protect himself while he jogs.

A retired biology teacher, Bernhardt E. Baumeister of 213 San Rafael Avenue raised his pants leg to reveal a two-year-old injury suffered when a dog ran under the pedals of his bicycle.

Baumeister also complained about dog defecation in his yard. "It seems that some owners would like for their dogs to excrete as far away as possible from their yards," Baumeister said, drawing applause from his agreeing neighbors.

The third complaint was about noisy dogs in the area. One man claimed he solved this problem by awakening a disturbing dog's owner at 2 a.m. every morning until the dog had been silenced. A woman told the council her neighbors had moved to Belvedere from Chicago and were so disturbed by noise "that they almost moved back."

John Gill, director of operations for the Humane Society, was thoroughly scolded by the audience.

Robert Hopps of 86 Beach Road told Gill that the humane society was a policing agent concerned with collecting revenue. He said the society had been "hustling business" by picking up innocent dogs.

Joseph Barish of 156 Bay View Avenue told the audience "we don't want to turn over the government of our dog-population to the humane society."

The flood of criticism caused surprised Councilman Merrit K. Ruddock to comment that he had been under the impression that the humane society was hardly earning its pay in Belvedere and was "amazed to find out from the citizenry that the humane society is a police organization, a fascist organization and is sweeping up dogs off people's door steps."

Councilman Alan Steinau echoed Ruddock's reaction. "With the coming of this meeting, you seem to have increased your service to Belvedere," Steinau said. "August was your most active month."

Mayor Thomas S. Price told Gill that the council did not intend for humane society officeres to collect every dog unattended but rather to concentrate on offending dogs.

"You're really tying our hands," Gill responded explaining that every dog was "a potential biter" and that officers could not visually differentiate between "the friendly pooch across the street" and the vicious dog.

The standing-room-only audience of more than 50 persons was mostly in favor of stronger ordinances. However Robert L. Goetz of 93 West Shore Road, an anti-dog law advocate, presented a petition with 40 signatures asking that the council revoke the city's leash law. (The mayor explained that the city has no leash law.)

Few members of the audience suggested viable changes in the city's ordinance. One man recommended that after a dog bites the first time he be put on probation and banished should he bite a second time.

Barish asked the council to consider the current interest in jogging and bicycling when it reworks the dog ordinance.

Belvedere's current dog laws limit the number of dogs in a single dwelling, prohibit dogs from running unattended in public places and state that if three residents complain in writing that a dog is a nuisance the humane society may take action to remove it.

The council took no action but assured the audience that the dog ordinance will be reviewed at its Oct. 4 meeting.

Tower Shot Could Have Felled Jackson

The Marin pathologist who performed an autopsy on George Jackson held out the possibility today that the San Quentin inmate could have been killed from a prison gun tower, despite the fact the fatal bullet entered his lower back and exited through his head.

Although declining to be pinned down on the issue, saying he was a pathologist and not a criminal investigator, Dr. John Manwaring remarked that Jackson "could have" been slain in the manner in which prison officials say the militant convict met his death.

"Whether he could have been shot from the tower down or whether the bullet glanced up or whether he was falling down or what . . . it could have happened," Manwaring said. "All I can say (for certain) is the entry went through the back and out the top of the head."

The pathologist, whose final autopsy report was issued yesterday, disclosed the fatal bullet did not change direction when it entered Jackson's lower back. "I could have put a probe just straight up," he said.

Manwaring's final report refuted a preliminary statement that said Jackson was shot in the head as he sprinted for a prison wall during an Aug. 21 escape attempt in which three guards and two other inmates also died.

The earlier report had said the bullet entered Jackson's head and emerged from the back.

Meanwhile, prison officials today said San Quentin's official reconstruction of the incident was not contrary to the autopsy report. Warden Louis S. Nelson said Jackson first was hit in the foot and knocked down, then fatally shot as he began running in a crouched position.

"Jackson was struck by a bullet fragment and was knocked down and he got up and was running in a crouched, bent-over position," Nelson said after the autopsy was released.

Nelson said Jackson ran out of the adjustment center and "was trying to shoot down that guard on the railing so he would have a clear shot over the wall. The officer on the wall dropped down on his belly and fired."

Other prisoners who were with Jackson have maintained the 30-year-old "Soledad Brother" was "murdered" by guards. Supporters of the black revolutionary say they do not believe the prison version of the incident and maintain Jackson was "set up" to be killed because of his status as a symbol of prison revolution.

At a recent hearing of two surviving "Soledad brothers," defendant John Clutchette shouted, "they shot George in the back and when he wasn't dead they came up and shot him in the head."

Nelson said that Jackson was caught in a cross-fire and "It sure as hell would be possible" for a bullet fired from the gun rail to hit the convict in the back and exit out the top of his skull.

Marin County Coroner Donovan O. Cooke filed the final autopsy by Manwaring. It concluded the bulled entered Jackson's middle back, broke two ribs, traveled up the spine through the brain and exited through the top of the skull.

"My primary task is to determine what killed a person," said Cooke — not how the fatal bullets were fired.

He said the preliminary report, issued two days after the killing, was so labeled and referred to the "apparent cause." He said it was often hard to tell where a bullet enters or exits a body.

Jackson's attorney, John Thorne, said the revised autopsy showed the need for an independent investigation of the bloodiest prison outbreak in San Quentin's history.

"It is interesting to see the changes in the story now that the facts have changed," Thorne said. "By the time we get the full facts the prison officials will still be coming out with new theories to make their original story stick."

Arraignment On Drug Charges

Barrie Lee Weissman, 20, of 556 Scenic Avenue, San Anselmo, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a felony charge of cultivating marijuana and a misdemeanor charge of possessing narcotics paraphernalia.

He is to plead to the charges Monday.

Weissman was arrested Friday after a neighbor told police about some "weird looking" plants on Weissman's roof. Police found five marijuana plants.

Short School Day Is Due In Fairfax

The Fairfax School District board last night approved shortening a school day each week so administrators and teachers can meet to implement long-range educational goals.

Supt. H. Reginald Hammond, said students would be sent home one hour earlier on one day each week from Oct. 1 to the end of the semester in January. Time will be taken off each period on the shortened day so the last period can be worked in, he said.

Speculation In China On Mao's Death

HONG KONG (UPI)—Diplomatic sources with contacts in Peking said today there appeared to be some type of crisis in Communist China.

They said there was no indication exactly what was wrong, but speculated the most likely explanation was the illness or even death of Mao Tse-tung, the 77-year-old Communist party leader who for decades has ruled the nation with an iron hand.

In Paris, the Communist Chinese embassy denied reports in the French press Mao was either ill or dying. "Chairman Mao is in excellent health," an embassy spokesman said. "The reports in the newspapers that Mao Tse-tung is ill are lies."

However, the spokesman did confirm reports the Oct. 1 national day celebrations had been canceled. He said this was because it had been decided to modify the way the national fete was celebrated, but give no details.

Hong Kong is a British crown colony on the Chinese mainland and is the major listening post of Sinologists seeking information on what goes on in China.

Although they described some of the evidenceas "circumstantial," the sources said "there are, nevertheless, some definite signs of a crisis-type situation there."

They said the possible emergency was indicated by a series of "unusual" events in Peking in recent days:

—The decision by Chinese authorities to call off the mass rally and parade traditionally held to celebrate Oct. 1, the national day. News dispatches from Peking first reported the cancellation.

—The grounding of all domestic aircraft, including military planes, during the past few days. A traveller who arrived in Hong Kong Tuesday from China said he was forced to wait for two days because all flights were halted.

Recycled Paper Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, requiring that state and local governments purchase recycled paper for their business was approved 27-0 by the Senate Monday and sent to the Assembly.

Sausalito District Must Provide Learning Center Program Funds

The Sausalito School District will have to provide federally funded remedial reading and mathematics programs to children in the Marin City Learning Center, according to a consultant for special programs for the Marin County Schools Office.

The center, a private school set up by parents dissatisfied with education in the Sausalito district, has about 15 youngsters eligible for assistance under the Title One Program, or about 16 per cent of the 96 children in the district who qualify for the funds. The federal money is used to provide math and reading help to children from poor families.

Just what kind of services the district will have to provide for the learning center students, or how much of the federal money will go to the center portion of the program has not been determined, consultant Gene E. Turtle said.

But Turtle said the federal act establishing Title One mandates that equal services must be given to children in both private and public schools. According to the consultant, the district possibly could have to spend up to 50 per cent of its $41,485 title one funds to insure learning center children an equal share of the program.

The usual procedure in Sausalito, according to Turtle, is for the district to hire aides to work with the youngsters who need special help.

The school board voted Monday night to hire five of the 10 aides it had originally approved for the program. The remaining money will be reserved to be reallocated for services to the learning center, according to Turtle.

The consultant said he is studying the situation with an eye to setting up a revised Title One Program which takes the newly established learning center into account. Only when his study is completed will the district know exactly how much of the federal monies it will have to spend for the learning center.

The district will still administer the program, he said.

The board also approved a revised Title One advisory committee of parents and staff members who will work to set up the revised program.

Fire Ants Pose More Problems

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Quarantine regulations have been extended to 17 new counties found infested with imported fire ants, the Agriculture Department said today.

The ants are a threat to urban as well as rural areas. Heavy infestations can make parks and recreation areas virtually unusable. The ants often inflict painful stings on man and animals and the large mounds they build can damage farm machinery.

The department hoped to slow the spread by restricting the movement of articles that carry the ants.

COLLEGE OF MARIN STUDENT

Israeli Arab Views Middle East

By FRANK FARRARA

Arabs in the Old City of Jerusalem now under Israeli rule are happy, according to Nayef S. Jaber, who left there to become a student at the College of Marin.

Formerly under Jordanian rule, the 22-year-old Jaber of Jerusalem declared: "I am proud to say I'm not a Jordanian. My mother always said, 'You're Palestinian, not Jordanian.'"

"There is Palestine and there is government," he said the other day in an interview at his Novato apartment, making it plain that the nation and government were two different thing's.

Before Israel gained the territory in the six-day war, only a few had wealth and the remainder had little, Jaber said. Now, life is better for the workers and the rich alike, he asserted.

In Israel there is democracy and "you can speak and write in newspapers," as compared to Jordan "where if you walk 100 meters, you are checked."

There is no discrimination against Palestinians in Israel, some serve in the Israeli army and "all fields are open," Jaber said.

Jaber said as far as he's concerned the Palestinian guerrillas "are finished," and have been trying to seek power, but "don't know the right way." The guerrillas "can't hurt Israel," he said.

Jaber said he wasn't concerned about the threat of Egypt to Israel. The Egyptians aren't "thinking seriously," and "generally are stupid," except for students who want to change the system in the United Arab Republic.

"The tragedy for the people of Palestine came from Arab governments," Jaber said.

He described the Syrians as "bloody people, who don't like us."

During the six-day war in 1967, Jaber worked with the Red Cross, aiding "the two sides and the civilians," he said.

Jaber recently served 30 months with the Israeli police, which he considers the "best police force in the world." Officers are respected and known as "a friend who helps everyone," he said.

Jaber and a friend, Mahmoud M. Shaheen, 24, a restaurant operator, chose the College of Marin on advice of an acquaintance, Norman Dhlin, a San Francisco State College professor, who teaches parttime at the College of Marin.

Dhlin went to Shaheen's restaurant in the Old City of Jerusalem and convinced them to attend the College of Marin. "The professor said it would be perfect and doesn't cost as much as other schools," Jaber said. Both Jaber and Shaheen are studying to become mechanical engineers, and are looking for part-time work.

"Do you know of anyone who needs a guard?" Jaber asked.

The future for Palestinians is with Israel, and Jordan "is finished," Jaber said. In Jordan, the "law doesn't work" and the "commanders" want to take "over the power," he said.

He described the Arab government as uneasy and said that Amman is a "different place."

When the pair first arrived they were guests of Theresa Solnit, wife of Albert N. Solnit, former chief of advance planning for Marin County, who left to take a post in Israel.

Sweltering in their top floor at 6 Romar Court, Novato, the other day with the temperature at about 100 degrees, they agreed it was "like the Negev," a semi-desert region of Israel.

Correct Cost

The Independent-Journal in a story yesterday erred in reporting the cost of the new Veterans Memorial Building at $4.1 million. The building actually cost $3,159,000, according to Marin County Auditor Michael Mitchell, with another $794,000 allocated to development of the surrounding county fairgrounds.

Hollywood Classics Set At College

The third annual Festival of Film Classics will begin Monday at Sonoma State College with Douglas Fairbanks in "The Thief of Bagdad."

Films will be shown on Mondays at 7:30 p.m. in Stevenson Hall through Dec. 13. The films have been collected by Richard Tuck of Petaluma, a graduate student who teaches at Rancho Cotate High School.

The complete film schedule includes:

Oct. 18 — Mary Pickford short subjects, "She."

Nov. 1 — "Phantom of the Opera" with Lon Chaney, "Waxworks."

Nov. 8 — "The Grand Duchess and the Waiter" with Adolph Menjou and a series of shorts with Laurel and Hardy, W.C. Fields and Abbott and Costello.

Nov. 15 — "Variety," and "Metropolis," a 1926 science fiction film.

Nov. 22 — "Way Down East" with Lillian Gish.

Nov. 29 — "Potemkin" and "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari."

Dec. 6 — "Nosferatu," the original version of "Dracula"; and "Sunrise" with Janet Gaynor.

41 Gonorrhea Cases Reported Last Week

Forty-one cases of gonorrhea and 32 cases of strep infections were reported in Marin County during the week ending Sept. 18, Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, has announced.

Other communicable diseases reported were eight cases of infectious hepatitis, five cases of syphilis and one case of measles.

Semifinalists Named

Twenty-four young scholars from Marin and one from Southern Sonoma today were named semifinalists in the 1971-72 National Merit Scholarship competition.

ATTRACTIVE APPETIZERS that are taste favorites when the company comes over to visit. Cheese is one of the best of appetizers, as it can be fixed ahead of time and allow the host or hostess to join the conversation.

EASY DOES IT

Cheese Makes Entertaining Simple

Entertaining is fun when you can enjoy your own party and not be tied down to the preparation of food. The casual get-together with attractively served snacks is the easiest way to manage to visit with friends.

Cheese in all its forms provides hearty as well as easy to serve foods. These crisp cheese balls can be made days ahead of time and frozen. When it comes time for your party or when guests drop in unexpectedly take them out and bake for 15 minutes. They are ready to serve and attractive, especially when rolled in chopped almonds or pecans.

Another party treat that's a breeze to fix is a ham 'n cheese spread. And it's versatile too. You can serve it in a bowl surrounded by a variety of crackers and sliced cheeses. For a more formal occasion, spread it on bread which has been cut into different shapes. To serve it hot use as a filling for grilled sandwiches.

With recipes like these you can have as much fun as your guests when you entertain.

CRISP CHEESE BALLS

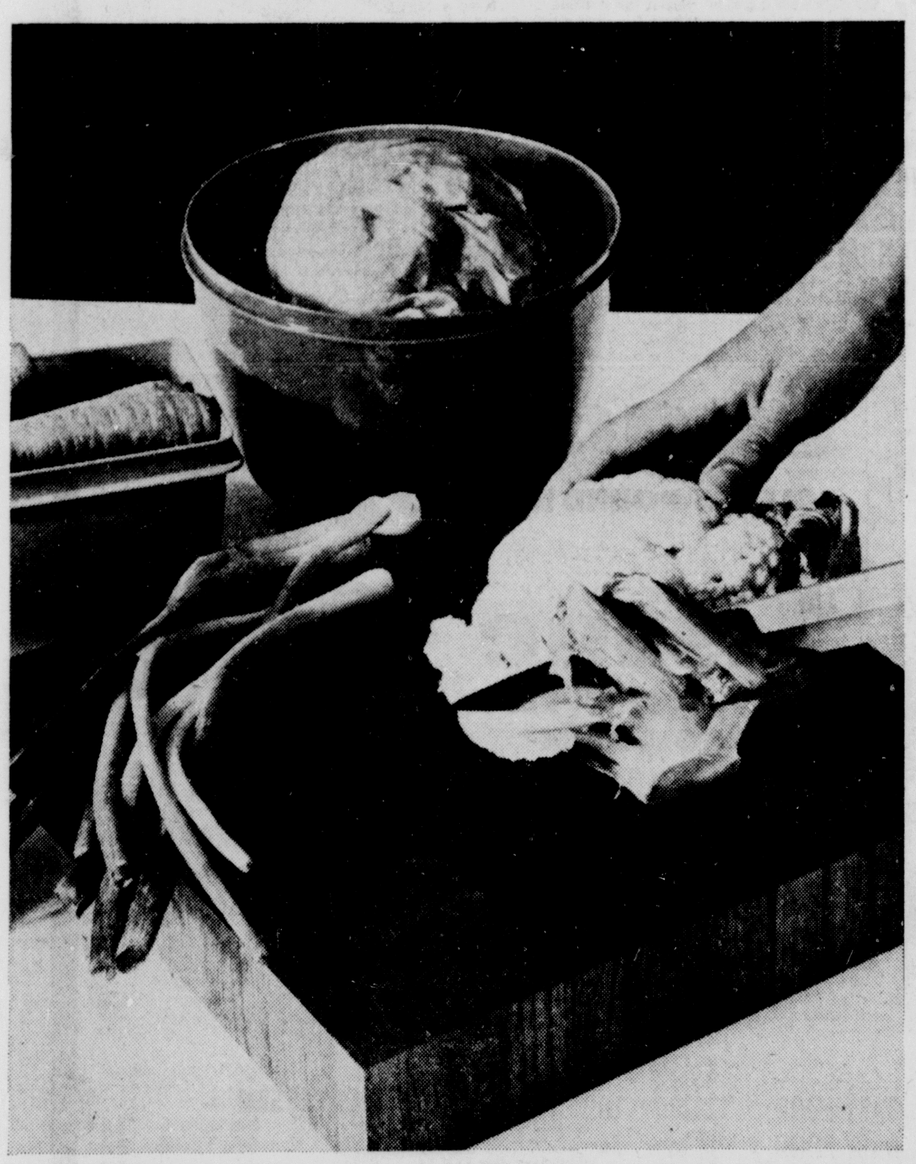
½ cup (1 stick) butter
1½ cups (6 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese at room temperature
1 cup regular all-purpose flour
1/16 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 egg white, beaten
1 cup finely chopped almonds or pecans

In a small mixing bowl cream butter; gradually add cheese and continue to beat until smooth. Gradually beat in flour and pepper, a small amount at a time, until a soft dough; chill several hours for ease in handling. Form into ¾-inch balls. Dip in egg white, then roll in nuts. Place on buttered baking sheets; bake in a preheated 350 degree oven 12-15 minutes. Yield: 4-5 dozen.

HAM 'N CHEESE SPREAD

½ pound cooked ham
6 small dill pickles
6 ounces Swiss cheese
3 hard-cooked eggs
½ cup dairy sour cream
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Grind ham, pickles, cheese and eggs together. In a bowl blend ground mixture with sour cream, mustard and Worcestershire sauce. Serve as a spread. Good also as an open-face sandwich or a filling for a grilled sandwich. Makes about three cups.



ONCE YOU'VE spent good money for foods, preserve them to the best freshness possible by proper storage and refrigeration. Preparing vegetables for storage and placing them in lock-tight food keepers keeps them fresher and more flavorful.

Refrigerator Reorganization Can Add Up To Supermart Savings

Chances are your refrigerator could be a little more organized. How many times have you cleaned out the refrigerator, only to find last week's leftovers jammed behind the catsup bottle? Or hunted for 10 minutes to find that jar of olives?

Today's refrigerators actually are geared to make systematic storage easier for the homemaker, with drawers designed for keeping fruits and vegetables moist and fresh, racks or bins for the handy storage of eggs, inner-door shelves that keep bottles from tipping over, extra-cold compartments for storing meat, and not-so-cold compartments for butter and cheese.

But even with all that help, the most compartmented refrigerator still calls for a bit of organizational know-how.

For instance, do you always store the same thing in the same spot? If you do, you can put your finger on just what you want instantly — and you won't waste time searching for it. One way to organize those bottles and jars is with a turntable that puts the item you want in front of you with a flick of the finger.

Don't keep dibs and dabs of food unless you're sure you'll use them soon. If you do decide to keep leftovers, make sure they'll stay fresh for several days by storing them in lock-tight containers. Sometimes leftovers have more appeal to the family if they're frozen for several weeks and served in a different way; and you avoid piles of leftovers stacked in the refrigerator.

If your family loves cheese and you keep several kinds on hand, wrap each cheese separately, then put them all together in a food keeper.

Don't clutter up the refrigerator with extra jars, bottles or cans of unopened foods. These should go on the kitchen shelf. But some items, like mayonnaise and salad dressings, must be stored in the refrigerator after they're opened.

LEAVE "BREATHING space" around food on shelves — don't pack it in. Foods need ample space in order for the cold air to circulate around them.

Various types of food require different preparation techniques to stay fresh and maintain peak flavor in the refrigerator.

For example, most fresh

Chicken Dish Is A Timesaver

After a frantic business day, people appreciate a pleasant dinner — particularly when it hasn't been reheated five to six times, pending their arrival home.

Almond chicken and rice gives you a fresh-cooked entree that's hearty, satisfying and time-saving, since most of the work is done in advance.

All ingredients can be cut, chopped and measured in advance. The foundation for the dish — rice — can be cooked well in advance of dinnertime. Rice holds well, but if meetings stretch on and on, you can simply reheat the rice with broth or water just before serving. Use one to two tablespoons liquid for each cup of cooked rice.

With all ingredients ready it's just a matter of sauteeing the chicken and vegetables and then allowing them to steam for three minutes, after which you thicken the mixture and serve with snow peas (Chinese pea pods), and rice.

ALMOND CHICKEN AND RICE

1 pound chicken breasts
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 can (1 lb.) fancy Chinese vegetables; drain, reserve liquid
1 cup thinly sliced celery
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons soy sauce
⅓ cup chicken broth
½ cup blanched almonds
1 cup well-drained pineapple tidbits
3 cups hot cooked rice
½ cup thinly sliced green onions

Bone, skin, and cut chicken in small thin strips. Saute in oil and garlic salt until browned. Add Chinese vegetables, celery, and one-third cup of reserved liquid. Cover pan and steam about three minutes or until celery is barely tender. Blend cornstarch, sugar, soy sauce, and broth. Stir into chicken vegetable mixture with half of the almonds. Cook until thickened and clear, stirring constantly. Add pineapple. Serve over beds of rice. Sprinkle with onions and remaining almonds. Makes four cups chicken mixture or 6 servings.

A DISH that can be ready and waiting until a latecomer arrives is almond chicken and rice. Its ingredients can be prepared and then quickly combined when the diners are all assembled.

Tomato Broil

Tomatoes, always a late summer favorite, are excellent broiled and served with a steak dinner. Sprinkle the tomato halves with dry Sauterne, salt, pepper and fresh dill. Broil for a few minutes until heated through. Top each half with a dollop of mayonnaise and return to broiler to brown top.

Change Of Pace From Potatoes

Want something to go with meat that is just a little different? Surprise your family with this delicious change from potatoes — Mashed Baked Bananas. The sweet, subtle flavor of this tropical fruit goes so well with a wide variety of meats and vegetables.

Home economists tell us that although baked bananas taste rich and sweet they are not high in calories

MASHED BAKED BANANAS

3 bananas, peeled and mashed
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
Cinnamon or mace
2 tablespoon slivered blanched almonds (optional)

Spoon bananas into small baking dish. Dot with butter or margarine. Shake cinnamon or mace over top. Sprinkle with almonds. Bake in 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Makes four servings.

Add Country Taste To Pork Chops

There's pure country-kitchen inspiration in this recipe for Tomato-Topped Chops. Pork chops are breaded with a combination of pancake mix, garlic salt and oregano. (Pancake mix also makes a savory coating for chicken or fish.)

Transferred to a baking dish and covered with onions and tomato sauce, the chops are baked 'til tender.

TOMATO-TOPPED CHOPS
Makes 4 servings

¾ cup pancake mix
1 tablespoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon oregano
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon water
8 lean pork chops, ¾-inch thick
2 medium onions, sliced ¼-inch thick
2 8-oz. cans tomato sauce

Heat oven to moderate (350 degrees.) Place pancake mix, garlic salt and oregano in paper bag; shake to combine. Combine egg and water. Dip pork chops in egg wash, then shake, one at a time, in bag.

Brown pork chops in large skillet in hot shortening. Transfer to glass baking dish; top with onions and tomato sauce. Cover and bake in preheated oven (350 degrees) one hour or until tender.

Nurseries

A new technique which medical authorities believe holds great promise in the management of problem babies is intensive care nurseries.

"Satisfies strapping appetites...

That's what I like about LAMB."

"After a full day spent outdoors on the job, my husband expects a satisfying supper. So I serve lamb often. Lamb's the robust meat . . . with a full measure of satisfying flavor in every bite. He says lamb appeases his appetite better than other meats. Try it – see what you think."

MEXICAN LAMB CHOPS (makes 4 servings)

4 to 6 lamb shoulder chops, about 1-inch thick
Salt and pepper to taste
1 can (12 ounces) whole kernel corn
Water
1 chicken bouillon cube
1 clove garlic, crushed
½ cup sliced green pepper
¼ cup diced canned pimientos

Sprinkle lamb with salt and pepper. Broil 3 to 4 inches from source of heat 5 to 7 minutes on each side, or until lamb is as done as you like it. Meanwhile, drain corn; reserve liquid. Add enough water to corn liquid to make 1 cup. Combine corn liquid, bouillon cube and garlic, and heat to boiling. Add corn, green pepper and pimientos. Cover and cook 5 to 7 minutes or until green pepper is tender. Remove garlic clove. Serve the Mexicali corn with lamb.

AMERICAN Lamb in the circle of good taste

Wine Does Wonders To Any Wild Game

If you have a hunter in the family, or if you enjoy game purchased at a nearby specialty store, use wine when preparing it. Wine brings out the flavors of pheasant, venison and other game and helps to smooth out the "gamey" taste. Here are some tips on cooking wild game with wine:

Because venison can be a tougher meat, marinating in a wine mixture before roasting tenderizes while adding flavor appeal. A good marinade is: 1 cup water, 3 cups Burgundy wine, 2 teaspoons mustard seeds, 2 bay leaves, 1 teaspoon each thyme, salt and pepper, 2 cloves crushed garlic and 2 onions, sliced. Marinate 24 hours at least, turning often.

VENISON steaks from the hind leg of the deer are more tender and can be broiled. Home economists recommend marinating the steaks in Burgundy wine to cover for several hours. Remove steaks, pat dry and coat with bread crumbs. Broil 10 minutes on each side.

THE CONNOISSEUR'S delight, pheasant, is easy to prepare with this oven method. Quarter pheasant and flour lightly. Place in roasting pan and sprinkle with marjoram and parsley. Dot with ½ cup butter. Top with 4 small onions, 1 stalk celery and ½ cup each beef consomme and Burgundy wine. Cover and bake at 325-degrees for 2 hours.

PHEASANT can also be pan-fryed. Flour pieces and brown in butter. Add 2 cups sauteed mushrooms, 1 cup dry Sauterne, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 3 or 4 chopped green onions and salt and pepper to taste. Cover and cook for 1 hour or until tenderm

RABBIT is a delicacy when prepared properly. Marinate rabbit pieces in White Catawba or dry Sauterne wine overnight. Place rabbit pieces over hot coals and baste with a mixture of 1 cup wine (from marinade), 1 cup chicken broth, 2 cloves garlic and 1 teaspoon oregano. The rabbit takes about 1 hour to cook either outside on the grill or inside in thebroiler.

WILD GOOSE should be roasted, covered tightly, with liquid (such as Burgundy wine) added to the pan. Seasonings to use are bay leaves, garlic, cloves, paprika, salt and pepper. Goose pieces cooked in this manner require about 1½ hours roasting time.

Oriental Fried Foods Easy To Fix

There is a very simple way to give a crisp oriental type coating to fried foods. It consists of dipping first in beaten egg which has been diluted with water, then in corn starch and again in the egg mixture When foods coated in this way are fried in hot corn oil, the coating puffs, crisps and browns to perfection. A coating such as this is especially good on chicken.

ORIENTAL FRIED CHICKEN

1 broiler-fryer, cut in serving pieces
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
2 eggs
1 tablespoon water
1 cup corn starch
Corn oil for frying

Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Beat eggs and water until well mixed. Dip chicken into egg mixture, then into corn starch, coating evenly. Dip into egg mixture again; drain off excess. Pour corn oil into wok or large deep frypan to a depth of about one-quarter inch. Heat over medium heat to 375 degrees. Carefully put chicken into hot oil to avoid spattering. Cook, turning once, 25 to 30 minutes or until light golden brown and tender. Drain on absorbent paper. Makes four servings.

fruits, with the exception of berries and cherries, should be washed and dried before storing. Berries and cherries should be sorted and stored in their original basket or in a shallow bowl and placed in the crisper or on the shelf. Wash just before serving. Most fresh fruits can be stored uncovered, but should be used rather quickly because they are extremely perishable.

Of course, all cut fruits and those with stronger odors, like pineapple, should be wrapped. Canned and dried fruits should be stored in lock-tight containers for short term storage.

SALAD VEGETABLES, including lettuce, parsley and celery, should be trimmed, washed and kept moist and cool in the vegetable bin or placed in a salad keeper. Lettuce placed on a plastic lettuce holder in a salad keeper will retain the moisture and stay fresh longer than in a vegetable bin.

Asparagus, broccoli, spinach, green beans, cucumbers and other greens should be trimmed and washed in cold water and stored in the crisper, too. Ripe tomatoes can be stored uncovered on a refrigerator shelf or in the crisper. Leave green peas and lima beans in the pod until ready to cook, and sweet corn in its husk. These vegetables need to be refrigerated, but not covered.

Other vegetables, like potatoes, onions and winter squash, do not require refrigeration but should be stored in a cool, dry spot.

RAW MEATS AND POULTRY should be kept in the coldest part of the refrigerator at a temperature close to freezing (30-35°F.) If your refrigerator has a special meat-storage compartment, be sure to use it.

These products benefit from some air circulation, so they should be covered loosely. Take off bulky store wrappings and cover with wax paper, foil or the inner wrapping from the butcher. Prepackaged meat can be left in its original film wrapper because it has "breathing" properties.

Fish should be stored in a food keeper to prevent the transfer of odors to other foods in the refrigerator.

Keep bread in a bread box or frozen; storing in the refrigerator will dry it out. Put bread in the refrigerator only to prevent molding in warm, damp weather.

Eggs shouldn't be washed before refrigerating.

MOST REFRIGERATORS today have individual egg holders on the inner door. If your refrigerator doesn't have them, place eggs in an uncovered bowl or leave them in their own carton, always with the small end of the egg down. If you're storing egg whites, cover them tightly. Egg yolks can also be refrigerated, but enough water to cover the yolks should be added before they are stored in an air-tight container.

Many refrigerators have compartments to keep butter at spreading consistency. Only enough butter for two or three days use should be stored there. Keep butter tightly covered all the time because it picks up odors from other foods very easily.

WORKING WITH children is her favorite activity, even with her own small ones, says Lynn Harriman Moody, drama and dance teacher. Here she encourages self-expression in her daughter and son Erica, 1, and Myles, 3, in their Ross home. Now teaching in Marin again, Lynn has taught ghetto youngsters and a class of adults and toured the U.S. with the Bishop's Company of repertory theater.

CHILDREN AND ARTS

A Reentry Into Favorite Field

By BARBARA HOSMER

Lynn Harriman Moody of Ross has come full circle in what she calls "getting back" into her favorite career area. As a teacher for Marion Hayes Cain's Magic Circle to expose and involve children with the arts, Lynn Moody is back at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, where she used to do choreography for Mrs. Cain's Junior Theatre workshops when she was 14.

Now she is using all of her wide background in dance, drama, speech and teaching techniques with the Magic Circle class each Tuesday.

Having been a dancer, an actress and a ghetto teacher, Lynn says she has always enjoyed working with children best.

"THE OBJECT is not to become an actor or actress but to come closer to your own self and express your reactions about life," she explains about what happens in her classes, although they may be simply labeled "drama."

This can happen in a small group of children — or adults — Lynn has found.

"People need an outlet for expression now," she says, pointing out that they are constantly being bombarded with words, noise, facts, stimulus of all kinds from society and need to react.

"Sesame Street," she said, has made its point — "now it doesn't have to be so gimmicky. It's time for it to grow," she said, discussing its method of teaching children. She said that such television teaching has its limitations and that in live groups of children or adults education comes through involvement of each.

"The schools would like that to happen," Lynn said, and added that the Magic Circle idea is being taken into schools by its director, Marion Hayes Cain of San Anselmo.

WHAT HAPPENS in the circle? Some eight to 10 children meet together for a period of time, take a seed of thought and a seed of action and let them grow together in the direction that the group wants to go, explains Lynn.

Speech work is important for expression and the parents like their children to have that; concentration solely on an idea or problem, such as the improvisation theater groups do, teaches a person to concentrate and has a healthy effect on people, Lynn believes.

"You learn to look for the key to a problem. It has a good effect on studying," she said.

Body movement is the way you get to know your instrument and movement involves the whole self, Lynn explains. "We tighten up as we get older and need it even more."

She said the concept of the circle isn't meant just to appeal to the child who's dramatic, but helps the shy one be more expressive and the aggressive one become toned down.

LYNN'S BACKGROUND is as varied as the elements the children use in her classes.

She spent 11 years dancing with Ann Halprin's Creative Dance classes and later Dancer's Workshop in Marin, was an exchange student to Sweden at an art folks school and majored in speech and drama at Dominican College. She taught drama to children at the college's Saturday arts program and at San Domenico School.

She also directed a summer arts project at a home for disturbed children with the American Friends Service Committee.

And for two years Lynn Harriman toured the United States and Canada with The Bishop's Company, a national repertory drama company, playing some 60 different roles. She also conducted workshops for religious arts festivals in New York and Michigan during that time.

Then she began a career of teaching drama with ghetto youngsters, first with teen-age gang members at the Henry Street Settlement in the Lower East Side of New York City, and then as project director of the "Come On In" creative arts program for Hunters Point in San Francisco.

"The special pilot project began just as the war on poverty had been announced, and parents were a little more eager to support it. The project ended just when the riots began," Lynn said. The project, which reached some 250 children, evolved into "Girls Club" and is sponsored by the Junior League.

"We got an old church building and used San Francisco State students and had all kinds of arts going — dance, drama, pottery, woodshop," Lynn explained. "We had to start from scratch in teaching sensitivity a little at a time," referring to technique of singling a certain part of the environment to see and describing it.

"LATER WHEN I was teaching at San Domenico, what I learned in the ghetto I found applied to all teaching," Lynn said. While at the Henry Street Settlement she managed to bring the teen-agers to the point where they put on elaborate drama performances, teaching that each youngster was being depended upon to be there and the group needed him, she said. If he didn't show up, we'd send somebody out to find him, she said.

Later she taught improvisional classes with a group made up of a variety of adults for the San Francisco Recreational Department.

Lynn and her husband live in Ross with their children Myles, 3, and Erica, 1, and she took a few years off to devote to the family. Now she enjoys her once-a-week re-entry into teaching children.

"It gives me plenty of time to prepare," she comments.

AUSTRALIAN VISITOR

No Quick Changes In Her Parliament

By ERIK INGRAM

When Joyce Steele entered parliament in her native South Australia she had visions of revolutionizing the world. That ended shortly.

"Everyone thinks that way to begin with, but you soon learn you're just a small cog in a very large wheel," she said Saturday while visiting at the Bayside Acres home of a friend.

BUT WHILE SHE failed to revolutionize the world, she did succeed in revolutionizing state politics. She is the first woman to become a member of parliament from the State of South Australia, which she described as "the first state to give women the vote (1894) and the last state to let them serve in parliament,"

Mrs. Steele left Marin Monday on her return trip to Australia and the rigors of being a member of the Liberal Party in a 47-seat parliament dominated by the Labor Party. During her 15-week stay in the United States she toured most of the East Coast, the South and California with her son, Christopher.

She was elected in 1958 from a middle class section of Adelaide, the capitol of the industrial state, and has successfully battled for her seat four times since.

"WOMEN SHOULD have the same opportunity as men, providing they have the same ability," she said. "I've been one of the lucky ones. I've worked and been accepted by the men."

Besides being the first woman member of parliament, she also broke the barrier into the prestigious minister class as Minister of Education. No other woman in the country had held such a position.

But it wasn't herself that the 62-year-old legislator wanted to discuss, it was the U.S. and the things she saw.

"The diversity of America, its cities and scenery, that's what impresses you first," she said. "And the National Park Service . . . I'd love to be in a position at the federal level to start something like that in Australia."

PRESERVATION OF natural areas, she said, are left up to the five states in Australia and they, like those in the U.S., are having money problems.

But, she continued, "your cities are a wreck . . . They're too large."

To Mrs. Steele, the freeways and strip development of auto agencies, motels and gas stations outside most U.S. communities are "nightmarish."

"I hope, but I'm doubtful, that Australia will not develop that way," she added. "We can learn a lot from the U.S. We should be able to benefit from what has been tried here."

Speaker Bows Toward Goals Of Liberation

Psychotherapist Nina Lathrop of San Francisco last night recounted traditional psychological theory about women and ended with a bow toward the goals of the women's liberation movement.

Using a questioning attitude toward traditional psychological views of women, Mrs. Lathrop came out more strongly in agreement with changes women in the new Feminist movement are attempting to make when she answered audience questions following her lecture at the College of Marin.

"Women have been made vulnerable throughout history because they have always been subject to pregnancy and rape. The effecting of equality of rights for women may be possible now only because technological development has made pregnancy and childbirth a matter of choice," she said.

"This may change family life in the Western world. . . I myself have not been all that taken with the Western family," she added drily.

"The nuclear family and the uncles and cousins family are not the answer either. Perhaps there are newer and better forms to come — relationships we have not tried yet. For those of you who are for the changes, whatever they may be, more power to you."

Mrs. Lathrop added that women must be helped to think of themselves as complete persons, not as the adjunct of someone else.

She agreed that Freud was a sexist, as the Feminist movement has charged, but added to remember that he came out of a completely sexist society in which the male and female roles were thought to be ordained by God.

Speaking on possible innate sex differences that are behaviorial, the psychotherapist cited a study being conducted at Mt. Zion Hospital in San Francisco in which babies aged 2 to 4 days are being studied.

The study, she said, is not conclusive to show marked and immediate differences in behavior between the sexes because there is so much overlap (similarity) in the boys' and girls' behavior.

But, she said, the study is showing that 3-day-old babies do respond to different ways they are handled.

"How young does a child have to be to respond to signals parents send out — is there in infancy already an expectation of what girls and boys are supposed to do?" she asked, examining the point that perhaps non-physical sex differences are created by the culture.

"I wonder what it would be like if girls were brought up differently than they are," she mused.

The series on "Women: Past, Present, Future" will continue next Wednesday with a talk on Cross Cultural Perspective of Women by anthropologist Dr. Margaret Mead

To Begin Tonight

Parent Effectiveness Training will be taught at Community Congregational Church in Tiburon beginning tonight at 7:30 p.m. Dr. Al Carr and Dr. Jack Danielson, both school psychologists for Dixie School District, will conduct eight sessions on consecutive Wednesdays. Enrollment is filled.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Mother Of Four Just Hates To Get Up In The Morning

DEAR HELEN:

This problem won't seem like much to you, but it may ruin my marriage. I can't get up in the morning.

I'm supposed to see my husband off for work at 6 a.m. I set the alarm — and sleep right through. He doesn't hear it either, so he's often late, and he almost never gets breakfast.

He calls me lazy, throws things around, says he's going to lose his job but still, no matter how I concentrate, I just can't force myself to face the day at 5 a.m.

We have four small children and I'm carrying a baby now; also, we have a big house to care for.

What am I going to do? — HELP PLEASE

DEAR HELP:

Put breakfast things out the night before, put the alarm clock across the room (set on extra loud) so that your husband must stir himself to turn it off — and stop feeling guilty. A mother of four and one-half needs sleep when she can get it, and a man who doesn't give her a rain check on early morning meals is so inconsiderate he'd make a miserable breakfast companion.

(And you can tell him I said so .... On second thought, you'd better not!) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Thanks in great part to you, our goal of obtaining a much needed kidney machine for our hospital is within reach before the Dec. 31 deadline. Response to our appeal for Betty Crocker Coupons has been unbelievable. They have poured in from all over the country since someone (would you believe — we don't know who?) wrote to HHU, telling of our project.

We now need just 50,000 more coupons, and the kidney machine will be a reality. As your readers know, General Mills has given us until Dec. 31, 1971, to get them in.

Helen, we don't know how to thank you and your readers for all you've done. Could we add just one final plea: if anyone has Betty Crocker coupons or can collect them — please, please send them to us before the middle of December. With deepest gratitude: Ethel Hughes, Saddle River Reformed Church, 500 Saddle River Road, Upper Saddle River, N.J., 07458.

DEAR READERS:

I'll add my thanks to Ethel's. Keep those coupons coming — there are only 50,000 more to go ... and that life-saving kidney machine is greatly needed.

P.S. Another project which needs Betty Crocker coupons (and has a deadline of November, 1972) is one conducted by the Girl Scouts of Secaucus, N.J., to get a much-needed, (and expensive) part for a hospital heart machine.

Thanks for any help you can give these two projects. Coupons for the latter can be sent to: Edna Namendorf, 809 Cedar Ave., Secaucus, N.J., 07094. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm unmarried, but have two children. Now I'm in love with Bill, who treats me and my children wonderfully — better than their blood father ever did.

In May, Bill married a girl who has lots of money and a new car. He still stees me, and says he'll come back to marry me when he gets what he wants from her. She is buying him a motorcycle and guitar, but he comes over whenever he can. I knew him first. Do you think I'll get him last? — WANTS A HUSBAND NAMED BILL

DEAR WHNB:

Look for Pete ... or Joe ... or Hank ... or ... anyone but Bill — who evidently only goes to the highest bidder. — H.

What Government Didn't Say About Soaps And Detergents

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Uncle Sam is not doing any better than Arthur Godfrey as an adviser to housewives on how to clean the family wash. Last week's statement by three federal agencies only added to the confusion already existing about the role of phosphate detergents in laundering and pollution.

In effect, the statement sided with the detergent industry, which has been campaigning hard to counteract the widespread criticism of phosphate detergents as contributors to water pollution.

The off-the-cuff statement of the U.S. Surgeon General, Dr. Jesse L. Steinfeld, was just what the industry wanted to hear, "My advice to the housewife would be to use a phosphate detergent. It is safe for the household."

FOR MANY months, the makers of phosphate detergents, which include almost all detergent products, have been telling the public that all the Brand X's that contain no phosphate may be dangerous to human health.

They based their claims on the fact that most of the nonphosphate detergents contain silicates, notably metasilicate, which are extremely irritating to the skin and mucous membranes and may be fatal if swallowed.

It is also a fact that metasilicate in a product such as Ecolo G is more caustic and potentially more harmful than regular phosphate detergent. But phosphate detergent can also cause problems if spilled into the eye or swallowed accidentally by a curious youngster.

The three government agencies — the Council on Environmental Quality, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare — also threw cold water on another phosphate substitute called NTA, for nitrilotriacetic acid.

About a year ago, there was a sudden rush to NTA by some detergent manufacturers because it appeared to be less polluting than phosphate, which has been linked to eutrophication, a process that prematurely ages bodies of water. Then, a few months later, lab tests showed signs that NTA might cause cancer.

LAST WEEK'S government statement simply confirmed an earlier statement on NTA that it may cause more problems than it solves and therefore should not be used in detergents. Very few products, however, have any NTA now.

With two of the most promising substitutes for phosphates having been effectively dismissed, the government appeared to reverse an earlier stand against phosphates. It said it would provide financial assistance to communities seeking to neutralize phosphates in sewage treatment plants.

Government officials acknowledged that phosphates cause pollution but said in effect that there is no way at present to avoid using them. What they did not say was that there are ways for concerned citizens to cut down on them or avoid them completely without exposing themselves or their families to dangerous hazards.

One simple answer is to use soap flakes or powder in communities where the water is soft (from zero to three grains). If you are not sure of the water quality, a few trials should tell the story. If the water is too hard, soap curds will leave a film on the clothes.

If this does not work, add washing soda to soften the water, and be prepared to accept "glamorous gray" rather than "whiter than white" in your clothes. Whiteness is not necessarily the same as cleanliness.

IF THIS still does not work, try a low-phosphate detergent. Then, if necessary, try stronger products. But before doing so, consider the help you can get from other cleaning aids.

One is to try soaking soiled items in plain water overnight. This can do miracles the next day when the washing process is begun. Plain water, of course, is itself a powerful cleansing agent. In one lab test, plain water scored better than a popular detergent in cleaning dirty diapers.

Use of ammonia or bleach can also help in the cleaning process. Liquid chlorine bleach is an economical whitener, disinfectant, deodorant and stain remover, but it can damage silk, wool and mohair

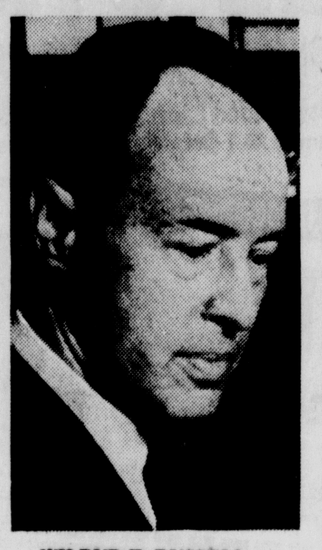
Trio Will Present Concert On Sunday



WILBUR F. RUSSELL
To play Sunday

Organist Wilbur F. Russell, flutist Clive Hawthorne and violinist Stephen Golden will present a concert Sunday at 4:30 p.m. at the Methodist Church of Mill Valley.

Russell, who is director of music at the First Presbyterian Church and associate professor at San Francisco Theological Seminary, both in San Anselmo, assists Ludwig Altman at San Francisco's Temple Emanu-El and is pianist with the Kensington Trio.

He will perform on the church's new Baldwin organ works by Antonio Soler, C.P.E. Bach, N. Vruhns, Franck, Ginastera and J.S. Bach.

Known as the musical barber, Hawthorne has had an extensive background in chamber ensemble music. Between customers at his shop in Fairfax he joins other customers in playing chamber music at the back of the shop, where there is a piano.

Also a member of the Kensington Trio, Golden is a student at the San Francisco Theological Seminary. He toured Europe at the age of 16 as a member of a chamber ensemble under the late renowned George Ezell of the Cleveland Symphony.

Golden and Hawthorne will join Russell in the Adagio from C.P.E. Bach's Trio in B Flat for two instruments and keyboard and Jacques Ibert's Two Interludes from the contemporary period.

Judge Robert A. Smallman sentenced the pair after they pleaded guilty to the charge.

An additional misdemeanor charge of possessing marijuana against Alexander was dismissed at the request of the district attorney's office following his plea.

The case of a codefendant, Ronald Dean Dilello, 25, of San Rafael, was continued to March 15 for possible dismissal, according to the district attorney's office.

The trio was arrested July 5 when San Rafael police went to an apartment at 355 Canal Street because of neighbors' complaints of noise. Officers said they smelled burning marijuana when they went to the door of the apartment.

Apollo 15 Explorers Will Thank Crewmen

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)— The three Apollo 15 moon explorers will return to their launch site next Wednesday to thank ground crewmen who started the record-breaking expedition July 26.

David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin will speak to several thousand moon project workers, community leaders and school children in the towering hangar where their moon rocket was assembled.

Change Will Be Topic Of 10-Week Seminar

Accelerated change and how it affects people, specifically Marin residents, will be the theme of a 10-week seminar sponsored by the Marin Jewish Community Center.

Registration for the course, to be held from 8 to 10 p.m. on alternate Tuesdays beginning Oct. 19, now is under way at the center.

The first three classes will deal with, "Marvelous Marin? Sick Suburbs or Utopia," and will be led by Sol Silver, acting director for advanced planning in the county.

"New Roles for Men and Women," the second group of classes will be presented by Dr. Joseph Gutstadt, psychiatrist.

The final series will concern "New Politics: Revolution, Rhetoric and Reality," and will be led by Robert Politzer, architect.

The courses will be held at the Edna Maguire School in Mill Valley.

Catholic Priest Sent To Jail For Sermon

SAO PAULO (UPI)—A military court sentenced a Roman Catholic priest to 20 months in jail Tuesday night for delivering a sermon saying "Brazil never became independent... we left the Portuguese dominion to enter the dominion of the Americans."

According to the prosecution, the Rev. Helio Soares do Amaral had violated the nation's national security laws with his sermon.

Like It Or Not, Juan Has To Pitch In Astrodome

HOUSTON (UPI) — The tail-spinning San Francisco Giants are going so bad these days that it even looks dark when their stopper is scheduled to pitch.

The Giants lost their 13th game in their last 16 starts to the Houston Astros 3-1 Tuesday their 1 1-2-game lead in the National League West race.

The Giants will send their ace, Juan Marichal (15-11) against the Astros tonight, but Marichal hasn't won a game in the Astrodome since July 28, 1968. San Francisco has won only five of its last 26 games in the Dome.

Marichal, who has a 4-4 career mark in the Astrodome, said he doesn't like the air conditioning in the domed stadium.

"I already feel stopped up, like I got a cold," Marichal said after the series opener. "I get a bad headache, a backache and sometimes it's a stiff neck so bad I can't turn my head.

"I remember once after leaving here and going to St. Louis, I was playing cards in Willie Mays' room and I got the sneezes so bad I pulled a rib muscle sneezing," Marichal said. "I got the sneezes from catching cold here. I couldn't pitch right for 44 days after getting the pulled muscle so you see why I don't like this place so much."

Giant Manager Charlie Fox said balderdash.

"He could stand on his ear, but he's pitching tomorrow night," Fox said.

Jack Billingham, 6-0 in his career against the Giants and 31-31 in his career overall, stood the Giants on their collective ears Tuesday night with a five-hitter. The only run came on Willie McCovey's 17th homer that tied the game at 1-1 in the top of the seventh.

Rookie Larry Howard, who grew up in Atwater, Calif., 100 miles east of San Francisco, beat the Giants with a two-run homer over the center field fence in the last of the seventh. It came after a double by Jim Wynn and a sacrifice.

"When I was a kid I used to listen to the Giants every day," Howard said. "They were my favorite team. I just loved the Giants and hated the Dodgers—like a true Giant fan."

The Giants didn't even talk to Howard when he turned pro out of high school, but that doesn't bother him. He signed as a free agent with Houston in 1963 and spent almost nine seasons in the Astro farm system.

"That was my first game-winning homer," Howard said. "It was a belt high fast ball and I never hit a ball any harder."

Fox said the Giants aren't folding. He said the other teams are playing better against them.

"I don't think we're tightening up," Fox said. "I didn't see a guy mishandle a ball out there. Their guy pitched a helluva game. The other teams are playing great ball against us.

"We're just not hitting the ball, period," Fox said, pointing to his team's main problem. "I'm going to have to change up (the lineup) to get some runs."

One change will be Fran Healy catching instead of Dick Dietz, but Fox wouldn't reveal any other changes. Dietz was beaned on the left templein the seventh inning and suffered a cut which took four stitches to close.

Dietz was taken to a hospital for X-rays and Fox said he did not know how long he would be sidelined.

The Houston pitcher tonight will be James Rodney Richard, the hard-throwing rookie who struck out 15 Giants last week in winning his major league debut in San Francisco.

FIGHT NIGHT

Athletics Lose Pair

OAKLAND (UPI) —Chuck Tanner, the Chicago White Sox manager, says it was a changeup curve that hit Mike Epstein of the A's and Oakland manager Dick Williams says it was a fast ball and it was thrown with intent.

The two skippers were poles apart on the pitch that touched off a big fight in the ninth inning of Tuesday night's doubleheader — opener between the A's and White Sox. A quick poll of baseball writers in the press box showed unanimity with Tanner.

Bart Johnson, the young and often wild White Sox rookie right-hander, was the man in the middle, and the one who touched off the fireworks. When the smoke had cleared Johnson went to a hospital for examination of his neck and left wrist and the White Sox went to bed with a 5-1 and 6-2 sweep of the A's.

Johnson, leading 5-0 in the bottom of the eighth, first low-bridged Reggie Jackson with an inside fastball and after he struck him out, Johnson hit Epstein with what appeared to be an inside changeup curve.

Epstein threw his bat in the direction of the mound while trotting to first and also let Johnson know how he felt about being hit.

In the top of the ninth, A's pitcher Rollie Fingers hit Ed Herrmann and that prompted plate umpire Larry McCoy to call Tanner and Williams for a conference. McCoy told the two managers that he didn't want "any more of that stuff (bean balls)."

Johnson was the next batter and Fingers sent his first pitch on a line toward Bart's head. Johnson put up his bat and bunted it toward first. Epstein picked up the ball and was ready to tag Johnson out, except the Chicago pitcher stopped and started backpedalling toward the plate. Epstein was so incensed at being upstaged that he flattened Johnson by tagging him with the ball on the jaw.

Johnson squared around to make a fight of it but Epstein beat him to the punch and sent him spinning on his heels. Before another blow could be struck players from both benches came out to pull the participants apart. Epstein suffered a bruise under his left eye and was ejected and Johnson, who had given up only three hits and struck out 12 in eight innings, had to quit because of his injuries, neither believed to be serious.

"People forget that Johnson is only a rookie and that he tends to be pretty wild at times," said Tanner. "I can't believe he had any reason to throw at anyone considering the big lead and the circumstances. I think Epstein simply lost his head. He hasn't been going good lately and he had to take his frustralion out on someone."

Tanner explained further that he has had to take Johnson out of three of his last four appearances because of wildness.

Williams didn't see it that way at all.

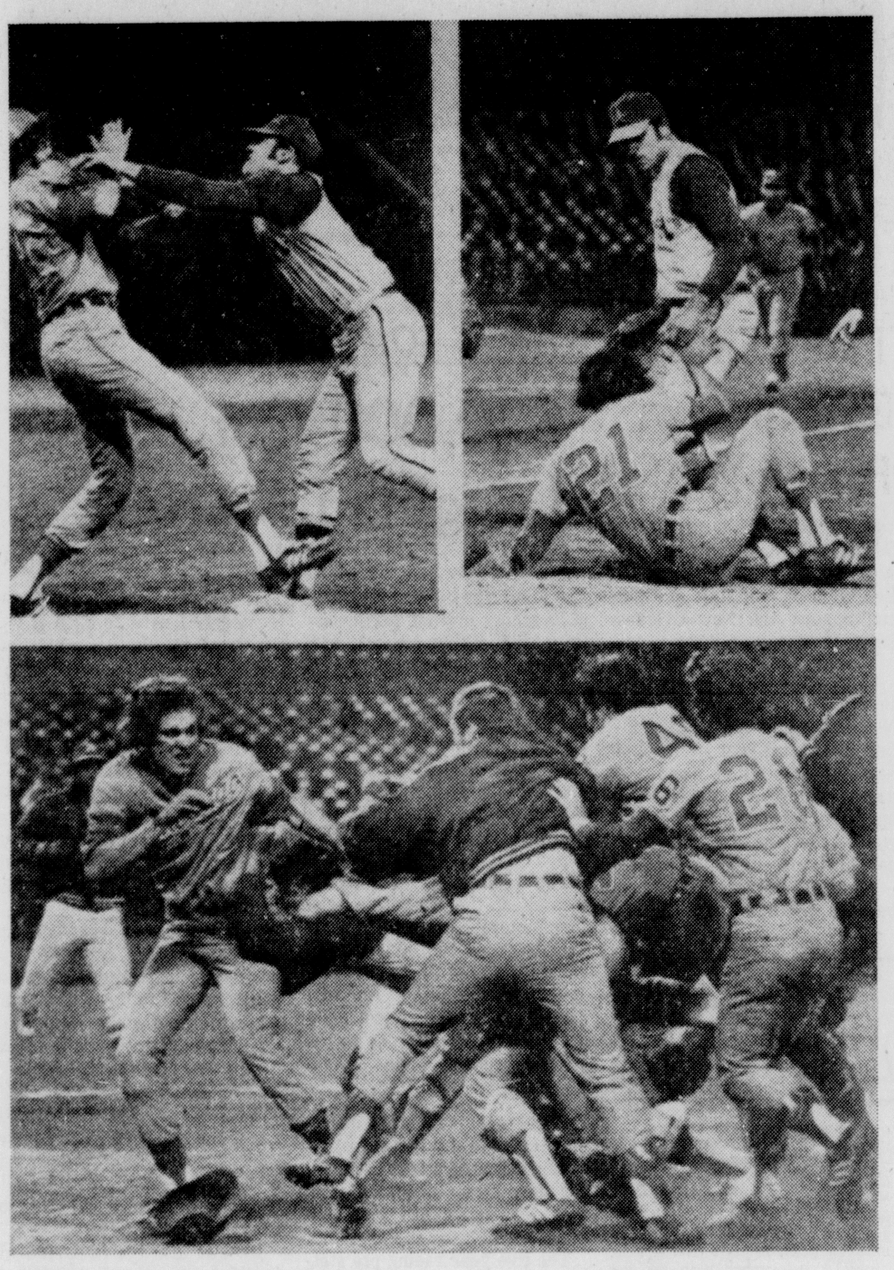
"There is something wrong with that guy (Johnson)," said Williams. "That's the third beanball fight he has had this year, two of them with us. I believe he was throwing at our guys on purpose although I don't know why."

Carlos May and Rick McKinney each drove in two runs in the opener as Johnson, with ninth inning help from Steve Kealey, won his 12th game in 22 decisions. Chuck Dobson took the loss, his fifth compared to 15 victories.

Pat Kelly, who had one rbi in the opener, added three more in the nightcap as the White Sox, who now have beaten the A's 10 times in 17 games this year, broke the game open with a four-run fifth inning rally. Lefty Tommy John and Vicente Romo added 10 more strikeouts with John gaining credit for his 13th victory in 28 decisions. John Odom was touched for all six White Sox runs in four plus innings and took his 12th defeat compared to 10 victories.

For the A's, Sal Bando hit his 23rd homer and Joe Rudi, with one hit in the opener and three in the nightcap, extended his hitting streak to 12 games.

Vida Blue shoots for his 24th victory as the two clubs wind up their season's work against each other tonight. It'll be Blue's fifth attempt at no 24 although he is slated to pitch only five innings. Tom Bradley pitches for the White Sox.



SWINGING A's — Oakland first baseman Mike Epstein, apparently still fuming after being hit with a pitch from Chicago's Bart Johnson in the bottom of the eighth yesterday, shoved Johnson (TL) to the ground in tagging him out after the latter bunted down the first base line in the ninth. The "Swinging A" and Johnson subsequently exchanged blows until both benches emptied onto the field, seemingly on Epstein. The A's won the fight but lost the doubleheader 5-1, 6-2 at the Coliseum. Lakers Cut 1969 Top Pick Willie McCarter

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Willie McCarter, the Los Angeles Lakers' No. 1 draft choice from Drake two years ago, was placed on waivers Tuesday.

McCarter, a 6-foot-3 guard, appeared in 76 games for the Lakers last season, hitting on almost 42 per cent of his shots.

Madden — Chargers' Defense Improved

OAKLAND (UPI) —Oakland Raiders coach John Madden says the San Diego Chargers have changed from an offensive-minded team to a tough defensive club.

Despite being upset 20-6 by the New England Patriots last week, the Raiders have been installed as 3 1-2-point favorites over the Chargers at San Diego Sunday.

"They've changed their defensive people," said Madden. "They've got a new defensive coach (Phil Bengtson) and they're doing things differently.

"Steve DeLong, at defensive end, is the only guy we know on that front four. They've got (Ron) East and (John) Tanner on the left side, and Andy Rice is the tackle on the right side."

Despite the shuffling, Madden was impressed with the way the San Diego defense handled Kansas City 21-14.

As for the Raiders, Madden says he plans to make major changes. But he noted tackle Ron Mix and running back Charlie Smith will miss the Charger game because of lingering injuries.

Senators Leaving Washington In '72

Owners Okay Move To Texas

BOSTON (UPI)—The Washington Senators have suddenly become the Dallas-Ft. Worth-Arlington, Texas team in one of the major league baseball's most surprising franchise shifts.

American League owners, apparently ignoring the warnings of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, baseball lawyers, and congressmen, gave overwhelming approval on a 10-2 vote shortly before midnight Tuesday to let owner Bob Short move his financially ailing franchise effective next season.

The league placed some stipulations on the Texas group to make the shift "conditional" but Arlington officials had already offered to meet the stipulations in their presentation.

In choosing to let Short continue his ownership of the club and operate under a $1-a-year basic lease in Texas, the league turned down two offers to purchase the club and keep it in Washington.

The prime offer came from food store chain owner Joseph Danzansky who said he and two others offered to match Short's original purchase price by paying $7.9 million for 90 per cent of the stock.

Kuhn, in what was literally an 11th hour move, suggested that the offer be boosted to $7.9 million for 80 per cent of the stock. He left the closed-door hearing late in the evening and the announcement of the shift came shortly after his suggestion was obviously turned down.

The next thing anyone knew, and with only the Baltimore Orioles and Chicago White Sox dissenting, Short and the Senators were on their way to Texas.

Short said he would begin shifting operations to the Dallas-Fort Worth area on Oct. 1 and would "set up in a tent if necessary" if office space was not immediately available.

Danzansky labelled the loss of its major league franchise as a "tragedy for Washington" but Arlington Mayor Thomas Vandergriff said it was the "answer for 13 years of work" in attempting to "give the Southwest the major league franchise it has long deserved."

Vandergriff explained that the $1-a-year lease figure would apply only until 1 million home attendance was reached and said the stipulations called for expansion of the 21,000-seat municipally-owned Turnpike Stadium to 35,000 seats by next April and 45,000 by April of 1973.

The stadium has been the home of the Dallas-Fort Worth Spurs of the Dixie Association, a Baltimore Oriole affiliate and one of the few minor league franchises which has consistently shown a profit. In addition, the stadium is used by the University of Texas Arlington branch.

Although Short had insisted publicly as late as last week that he didn't expect to own the Senators when the league meeting ended, he emerged from 13 hours of nearly continuous discussions still the owner of 90 per cent of the Senators stock.

Short admitted that he would seek new investment in the team in Texas but insisted he would not turn the ball club into a publicly held corporation where "every stockholder knows more than the president and the president doesn't know anything."

Short described the terms of his new lease as putting him in a "more favorable position than any major league operator I know of" and admitted that the Texas radio and television revenue potential was "greater than anything we've been able to obtain in Washington."

Noting that James Lemon still holds 10 per cent of the Senators stock and that manager Ted Williams has an option to buy 10 per cent of Short's stock, the club owner said he "certainly expected" to have Williams as his manager in Texas.

Kuhn, describing the decision as a "sad day" for Washington, admitted under questioning that he presumes Congress "might very easily touch on" the Senators shift in current hearings and future probes.

"The league could not see a possibility for successful operation in Washington," the commissioner added.

Cronin said the league had not yet had time to consider the question of playing some Baltimore home games in Washington as was suggested a day earlier by President Nixon. But he admitted there had been some discussion about it though declining to say whether Baltimore's opposition to the franchise move was connected with the suggestion.

Plunkett Is Instant Hero For New England Fans

NEW YORK (UPI) —The people of New England have themselves a new boy.

His name is Jim Plunkett, he's already being merchandised as a combination Paul Revere, Pancho Villa, Joe Namath, and inasmuch as the big thing today is identification, the football fans of New England now are identifying with a big, black-haired 23-year-old Mexican-American whom whey believe can finally bring them a winner.

Jim Plunkett supported all this unbounded faith in him against the Oakland Raiders Sunday when he pitched a pair of touchdown passes during a hot third period performance and powered the New England Patriots to a 20-6 upset win in their home opener.

When it was all over, the 55,405 in brand new Schaefer Stadium at Foxboro, Mass., stood up and let Plunkett know how they felt about him.

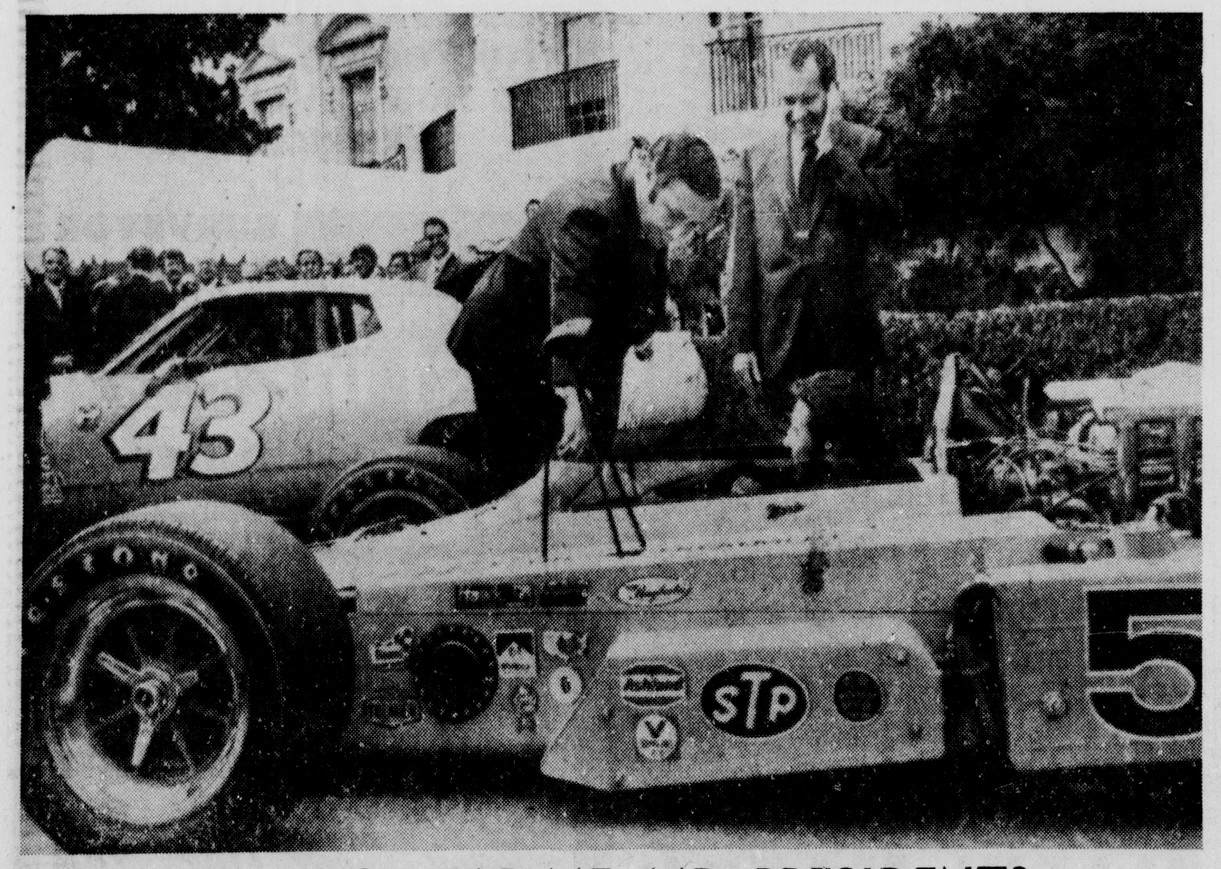
That ball game is finished and head coach John Mazur must prepare the Patriots for their next one with Detroit on Sunday, but none of the cheering for Plunkett has died down. If anything, it has increased and not only around Boston, either.

Some already are comparing Plunkett to Namath although comparisons like these really are an injustice to both. All they do is make Plunkett wince and Namath laugh, the same way Sandy Koufax used to laugh privately everytime they came up with "a new Koufax."

Jim Plunkett, who certainly looks like the goods, is a remarkable young quarterback. He could be the best of the new lot but there's still so much he has to learn and nobody knows that better than he does. He made mistakes against Oakland, the way any rookie quarterback will, and he knows that, too.

"I was very conservative the first half," he says. "I tried to keep the ball on the ground. Maybe too much. But I didn't want to make any mistakes. That's the thing I was concerned about, making mistakes like throwing an interception or calling a bad play close to our end zone where they might get good field position. I think that's why I was so conservative. But the second half we had to throw the ball. We were behind by a touchdown and I opened up a little bit more. Our running game started to go and that's what helped our passing game."

"I'm not as good as I'd like to be or will be," says the 6-3, 210-pound rookie. "That takes time."



CAN YOU EAR ME, MR. PRESIDENT?

President Nixon shielded his ear from the roar of the "STP Special" racing car during a White House reception yesterday honoring representatives of the auto racing world. Andy Granatelli, STP Corporation president, explained the workings of the car, while driver Mario Andretti sat inside the vehicle. (UPI Telephoto)

A Vote For Williams For Rookie Of Year

HOUSTON — Chris Speier looked like the runaway rookie candidate of the year in the National League during the first half of the baseball season. The 21-year-old shortstop of the Giants not only was turning the DP with his double play partner Tito Fuentes but hitting a solid .265.

The only blemish on Speier's first half record was a statistical red mark of 18 errors prior to the All-Star break. The fact that half the errors were due to Speier's aggressiveness in trying to get too many outs on one play was a mitigating circumstance.

SPEIER AND Fuentes continued to turn the DP after the All-Star break but the rookie's errors soared while his batting average dipped. As the Giants started their final nine-game road trip, Speier's errors had climbed to 32 and his batting average dropped to .235.

It would take something sensational from Speier in the final games to get him back in the running for rookie honors. Even if he turned out to be the hero who won the pennant for the Giants with a dramatic home run or spectacular glove play, his overall season record must be rated second to that of Atlanta's talented rookie Earl Williams.

WILLIAMS' 33 homers and .275 batting average can't be ignored in any balloting based on justice and merit. His RBIs by season end should be between 90 and 100. And, as Atlanta's No. 1 catcher, Williams has done a most remarkable job in view of the fact that he never caught in the minors.

Williams, a high school whiz in his native Montclair, N.J., was 18 when the Braves signed him in 1966 as a pitcher. He was a 6-3, 200-pounder who could fire the ball. Then the Braves discovered he could hit, too.

He was converted into a first baseman, then a third baseman and finally last spring into a catcher. Paul Richards, general manager of the Braves who was a catcher himself, doesn't take any bows for making a catcher out of Williams.

"IT WAS A desperation move," says Richards. "We had nobody else who could do the job. Williams is an intelligent young man. He was ready to accept the challenge. I am not the only one who believes Williams is going to be a better catcher than Johnny Bench. Remember, Williams never previously caught in the minors.

"Until a couple of months ago Speier was the leading rookie candidate but Williams is far ahead of Speier now or anyone else you want to name, incuding Phidelphia's Willie Montanez."

AFTER HE hit 33 homers, drove in 107 runs and batted .340 at Greenwood in the Western Carolinas League in 1969, Williams was called up by the Braves. But he was sent out to Shreveport in the Texas League for more experience following 1970 spring training. He hit .318 at Shreveport, including 19 homers.

The Braves were convinced he was ready for major league competition when they called him up this spring. They were right.

Pac-8 Has Balance— Ralston

OAKLAND (UPI) —Stanford coach John Ralston figures the Pacific-8 Conference is so well balanced this year that a team could win the championship with two losses.

"In the past, losing to USC usually meant you were out of it, but this season there's so much balance, a team could win the championship with two losses," Ralston told Northern California football writers Tuesday.

He referred to Saturday's Pacific-8 Conference opener between his Indians and the Oregon Ducks at Stanford as "a real classic, but I don't think a loss would kill either team."

Oregon coach Jerry Frei, meanwhile, as is an opposing coach's custom, heaped mounds of sugar on Stanford and its quarterback, Don Bunce. Frei spoke to the writers via a telephone hookup.

"I'm more impressed with this year's Stanford team because there are some weapons not evident last season," said Frei. "I think Bunce is every bit as good a quarterback as Jim Plunkett.

"Bunce's ability to run and pass makes him more difficult to defense. Stanford's offense has hardly gone downhill with Bunce."

Ralston noted that Oregon has a potent offense, rolling up a school-record 615 yards in a 36-29 victory over Utah. Ralston said this was accomplished after the Ducks lost their three linebackers with injuries.

"I really don't think we've had a top test in our first two games with Missouri and Army," said Ralston. "But it will come Saturday because I rate Oregon up there with USC and Washington as the best teams in the conference."

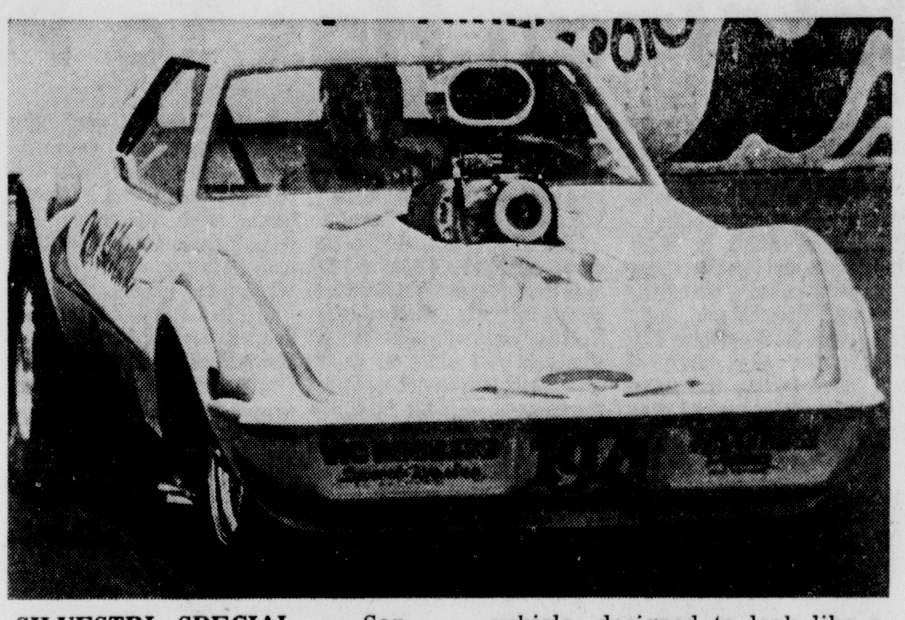
Meanwhile, Cal coach Ray Willsey said his Bears aren't looking ahead to the Ohio State game Oct. 2 and neglecting this Saturday's game with San Jose State at Berkeley. Fresno State upset the Spartans 14-7 Saturday.

"We're in no position to overlook anybody," said Willsey whose Bears are 1-1. "We know San Jose State is a better team than it showed at Fresno and the Spartans traditionally make it tough on us in Berkeley."

Spartan coach Dewey King called the Fresno State loss "a horrendous affiar." He promised the Spartans would bounce back "and give a good account of ourselves against California."

Defensive tackle Sherm White of Cal was named defensive player of the week by the writers while offensive honors went to Stanford receiver Miles Moore who caught two touchdown passes in a 38-3 rout of Army.

Running back Aaron Rudolph of San Francisco State, who rushed for 166 yards and two TDs in a win over USF, picked up offensive honors in the college division. USF linebacker Bob Unruh was selected the top defensive player.



SILVESTRI SPECIAL — San Rafael's Ken Silvestri (above) thoroughly tested his not so funny car valued at $20,000. The vehicle, designed to look like a Corvette, costs an estimated $50 to operate per day, according to the 28-year-old owner.

Tight Ends Battling For No. 1

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Coach Dick Nolan says he isn't sure whether Ted Kwalick or Bob Windsor will start at tight end against the New Orleans Saints Sunday.

"Ted is the better receiver ... Bob is the better blocker," said Nolan. Kwalick, a 6-4, 215-pounder in his third year from Penn State, started last Sunday's game against Atlanta. It was only the second time he has started for the 49ers and he caught six passes for 97 yards.

"I don't feel good about it because we lost," said Kwalick.

WHAT'S SO FUNNY?

$20,000 Car No Laughing Matter

By RON LENT

A funny car costing $20,000 is no laughing matter, particularly to the auto's creator, San Rafael's Ken Silvestri.

The 28-year-old Silvestri has been racing nearly 13 years. During that span, he has accumulated 62 first place trophies and a lot of memories, climaxed by the construction of his latest dream. The car, which will launch a national "drag" campaign following its display at the California Custom Motorcycle and Car Show Sept. 24-26 at the Oakland Coliseum, is based on a 1971 Corvette. The vehicle hit test speeds of 170 miles per hour in 8.5 seconds on drag runs with a 1,200-horsepower engine on regular pump gas.

"That (gas) is the main difference between my car and other funny cars. The others use nitro for gas. I don't because it is more expensive and more explosive," Silvestri explained.

The five year racing pro stated that the auto is a funny car with oversized rear wheels and fiber-glass shell. It has the same frame, body, design and suspension. Because of the gas differential, his car costs $10,000 less than a typical funny car "and it normally only takes $50 a day to operate. That's less than the usual funny car." And it also has an automatic transmission.

Possibly his first vehicle could be construed as a funny car, if only by comparison to today's standards; it was a 1940 Ford coupe. He added, "as a teen-ager, I used to race it on the street, mostly."

Silvestri met a lot of people that way, mostly policemen.

However, in 1962, Silvestri turned in his tickets for a track. "That's when I built my 1937 Chevy," he said, regarding his recent jousts in Double-A gas super charge competition. "But the car," he mused, "outdated itself. I went through 17 engines on it."

The precocious race driver won his first go in his initial try during the 1963 season. For the next three years, he accumulated experience while maintaining amateur status but turned pro in 1966 "for the challenge." The following year, he dropped a 327 super charged engine and ran it one season. "When I blew that motor," he recalled, "I turned to the 427 Chevy motor.

"I was the first in the area to convert to it."

He was also the first student to take over the instructional responsibilities of his high school auto shop class at George Washington in San Francisco. "I taught the shop for two years," he remembered fondly.

However, those days are gone; now Silvestri has his own shop in San Rafael. From this locale, he develops racing cars for others and works on his own, such as his car show entrant. After racing it three times since mid-August, netting a pair of thirds and a second, Silvestri has been improving the structure by changing cam shafts, tires and transmission.

His sponsors must believe in this young man, a veteran of the Cotate, Sacramento, Sears Point, Half Moon Bay, Fremont, Vacaville and Los Angeles circuits, for they backed their faith with money to help Silvestri build his $20,000 car.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

May Still Picks Dodgers To Win

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Lee May picks the Dodgers to win but he's doing his best to make it difficult for them.

"It seems to me that the Dodgers, with their pitching, have the best chance," the Cincinnati Reds' slugger said Tuesday night, "especially since Willie McCovey is hurting."

May made those comments after he drove in five runs with a double and a homer as the Reds clobbered Los Angeles 9-3, and foiled its bid to pick up a game on the Giants, who lost to Houston 3-1 despite a homer by McCovey.

The Giants, who've lost 13 of their last 17, still lead by 1 1-2 games in the Western Division. The Giants have eight games left and the Dodgers seven.

May, who now has 38 homers but had been struggling this month before this game, knocked out loser Claude Osteen with his homer in the four-run fourth and he kayoed reliever Doyle Alexander with a double in the four-run fifth. Don Gullett, 16-6, picked up the victory.

Rookie Larry Howard hit a two-run homer in the seventh to snap a 1-1 deadlock and Jack Billingham pitched a five-hitter to get the victory as Houston beat the Giants.

Manager Charlie Fox batted Willie Mays in the leadoff spot for the fourth time this year and he went 1-for-4 but it wasn't enough to pep up the Giants' sagging offense.

In other games, St. Louis topped Pittsburgh 6-4, Atlanta beat San Diego 5-2, Chicago blanked New York 3-0 and Philadelphia edged Montreal 5-4 but lost the second game 4-3.

In the American League, Baltimore blanked New York 50, Boston nipped Detroit 3-2, Kansas City topped California 6-2, Milwaukee edged Minnesota 4-2, Washington routed Cleveland 9-1 and Chicago swept a doubleheader from Oakland 5-1 and 6-2.

St. Louis delayed Pittsburgh's pennant clinching in the Eastern Division as Jose Cruz' two-homer in the seventh inning gave the Cards the victory over the Pirates. Moe Drabowsky pitched three hitless innings of relief to gain the victory.

Hank Aaron continues to get better with age. He's 37 now but he cracked his 46th homer for his personal high in one season as Atlanta downed San Diego. Aaron now has 638 homers in his career and he's just eight homers behind the 40-year-old Mays. Aaron now seems a cinch to crack Babe Ruth's career mark of 714.

Rookie Burt Hooton, who beat New York on a three-hitter last week for his first major league victory, pitched a two-hitter to give Chicago the victory over the Mets for his second major league triumph. Ron Santo homered off Tom Seaver, who took the loss and is now 18-10.

Two-run doubles in the five-run seventh inning by Roger Freed and winning pitcher Billy Champion handed Philadelphia the first game victory over Montreal. But Bob Bailey drove in all four runs with a homer and a double to give the Expos the second game triumph.

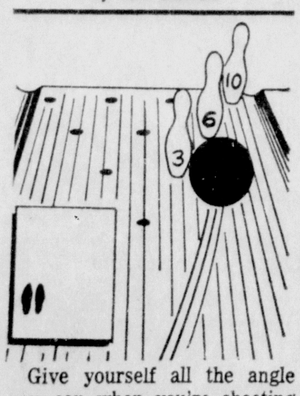
BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



Give yourself all the angle you can when you're shooting at the 3-6-10 — it's tough. Move to the extreme lefthand corner before you start your approach, brushing against the ball return if there is one on that side. The purpose is to give your ball a chance to deflect off the 3-pin and then get the 6 and 10.

If your ball comes at the 3-pin head-on, instead of on an angle from the left, it is more likely to be driven straight back into the pit, leaving the 6 and 10 untouched.

Jabbar Keys Buck Triumph

DALLAS (UPI)—Lew Alcindor, who says he wants to be called by his Muslim name of Kareem Jabbar, scored 31 points Tuesday night in pacing the Milwaukee Bucks to a 106-103 exhibition victory over Dallas in the First game ever between teams of the rival NBA and ABA.

Milwaukee had to rally in the final 11 seconds to defeat the surprising Chaparrals, coached by Tom Nissalke—who last year was Milwaukee's assistant coach.

The Chaps had a 103-102 lead until McCoy McLemore pumped in a 15-foot jump shot. Lucius Allen added two free throws with one second left to round out the scoring.

Surprisingly Dallas was in the game all the way against the defending NBA champs. Dallas trailed by only two at the end of the first quarter and by only four at the half.

The Chaps took the lead when rookie guard Gene Phillips caught fire in the fourth quarter and hit six of six field goal attempts.

Steve Jones led the Chaps in scoring with 19 points.

The clubs used NBA rules during the first half and ABA rules, including a red, white and blue basketball, in the second half.

Football

CLEVELAND (UPI) —A federal grand jury today was to convene for the third consecutive day to investigate possible anti-trust violations by the National Football League.

Jack Christiansen, former head coach of the San Francisco 49ers, testified before the jury Tuesday and said he knew of no cases within the NFL in which players were blacklisted.

During his appearance behind closed doors, Christiansen said Bernie Parrish, former defensive back with the Cleveland Browns, was mentioned. Parrish had contacted a player on the 49ers' squad, according to Christiansen, for help in getting a contract with the West Coast team. Christiansen added he was never contacted by Parrish and said the 49ers were not interested in Parrish because they did not think he was needed.

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Bears Tuesday announced the trade of linebacker Leroy Caffey to the Dallas Cowboys for an undisclosed choice in the next draft.

Caffey, obtained by the Bears last year from Green Bay where he had played six years, was a regular last season but appeared to have lost his job this season to Ross Brupbacher.

Baseball

BOSTON (UPI)—In his 21 years in office, Mayor Thomas Vandergriff has rarely been at a loss for words. But he was shocked into silence for a while late Tuesday night.

Vandergriff, who headed the Texas delegation seeking to obtain the Washington Senator baseball team, was informed by Charles O. Finley in a hotel lobby that his group had succeeded in luring Bob Short's baseball team to Arlington.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Night Boating's Fun If You Know Rules

Many small boat owners resist taking their boats out after dark, and I think it's because night boating requires just a little extra know-how and understanding of the rules. Yet boating at night can be very exciting — everything is so calm and quiet after a hectic day.

Motorboats and sailboats must carry navigation lights from sunrise to sunset. The law says they are not a daytime requirement, but failure to have lights at night can bring a $500 fine.

Most boaters know . . . some rather vaguely . . . that navigation lights consist of a red light on the port side (left) and a green light on the starboard side (right). But this is not enough. To understand navigation lights thoroughly every boater should get a copy of the "Coast Guard Recreational Boating Guide." It's booklet CG-340 for 45 cents from the U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

The fact that lights and night navigation concerns many boaters is indicated by some of the questions they ask:

Q. Isn't there a new rule about sailboat lights?

A. Yes. It became effective about three years ago with the revision in International Rules of the Road. Sailboats over 40 feet may now (it's optional) display a red over green light at the masthead as well as the red and green side lights. It's explained in he Coast Guard booklet.

Q. What lights does a canoe require at night?

A. Canoes and rowboats (unpowered craft) do not require navigation lights, but a white light must be shown if there is danger of collision. A flashlight will do . . . and no one would go out without a flashlight, or would they?

Q. Can I turn off all lights while at anchor?

A. Yes, if your boat is under 65 feet long and is in a recognized, anchorage area. But, if it is anchored in a navigable waterway, it must show a white light visible all around the horizon (360 degrees), bright enough to be visible for two miles if in international waters or Western rivers (Mississippi waters), but only for a mile on inland waters or the Great Lakes.

Q. Can you water ski at night if you carry a flashlight?

A. Water skiing is banned by law in practically all states from one hour after sunset to sunrise, even if you're lit up like a Christmas tree. Check your state boating law.

Q. I'm told that fishing at night without a light is illegal. Is it?

A. You can fish all night in total darkness if you like. But the moment another boat approaches and there is danger of a collision, the law requires you to show a white light such as a flashlight.

Q. What's the basic reasoning behind the red and green navigation light system?

A. If you can see another boat's green light, it's a "go" signal, you have the right of way. But if you see only his red light — this means he's approaching from your right and the Rules of the Road give him right of way — it's a stop signal for you. If you can see only his stern white light, it means you are overtaking him and it's a warning to keep out of his way.

Q. Do ocean liners follow the same rules for navigation lights?

A. Basically, yes. But there's much more to it, and if you plan to operate in the company of big mercantile ships, dredges, barges, tug boats or pilot boats, you had better get a good text book. They all carry different identifying lights.

Q. The channel into my dock is hard to see at night. Any suggestions?

A. Most hardware stores well a fluorescent reflective tape (kids put it on their bicycles). Put strips of it on stakes to mark your channel. Put some on corners of docks and other points to be marked. The tape glows in the beam from a flashlight and readily guides you in.

Ross Soccer Program To Start

There will be a lot of soccer being played in Ross this fall.

Playing in the newly formed Marin Youth Soccer Association will be youngsters in third through sixth grades. There are 10 teams and about 100 boys involved in the program.

The association will kick off its activities Friday night at 7:30 with soccer films at the Ross School multi-purpose room. The films will be on a game between Pele and his Santos of Brazil teammates against International of Milan, Italy. Cost is $1 for adults and 25 cents for children.

Another main attraction for the boys will be a clinic put on by University of San Francisco players on the Ross Common Saturday, Oct. 2, 10 a.m.

The third and fourth grade league opens its schedule Sept. 27 and the fifth and sixth grade league opens its slate on Sept. 28.

Thomas Rejoins Cowboys

DALLAS (UPI)—Former Dallas Cowboys' running back Duane Thomas has dropped the former from his name.

Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle reinstated Thomas to the defending NFC champs and the controversial runner was told to report to the team today.

It is not known yet exactly when Thomas will be placed on the active roster but it is expected to be sometime after Oct. 3, the date the Cowboys open their home season against the Washington Redskins.

A decision on whether that game will be played in the Cowboys' new Texas Stadium in suburban Irving or in the Cotton Bowl also is expected at any time.

"Thomas has been reinstated by the commissioner," Cowboys' President Tex Schramm announced Tuesday. "He will report. The extent of what he can do will be determined by Dr. Marvin Knight."

Thomas has an inflammation in his leg but the full extent of the injury is not known.

The Cowboys have 10 days to decide whether Thomas will be placed on the 40-man active roster or on the seven-man Taxi squad. Coach Tom Landry, whom Thomas called a "plastic man" during his salary dispute with the club, said he did not know when Thomas would be activated.

The team is expected to try to find another trade for Thomas during the next 10 days. But such attempts have proved unsuccessful in the past.

Thomas' status will also depend on how healthy Calvin Hill, the Cowboys' No. 1 running back at the present, can stay during the next 10 days.

Landry will also want to see if Hill can untrack the Cowboys this weekend against the Philadelphia Eagles, a team that has been rough on the Cowboys of late. The Cowboys won both games played between the two teams last year, but they were close, 17-7 and 21-17. And in that second game, the Eagles held Dallas to a total of 38 yards rushing, a Cowboy modern day low.

In another move Tuesday, the Cowboys obtained linebacker Lee Roy Caffey from the Chicago Bears in return for an undisclosed draft choice. Caffey is in his ninth season. His best years were with Green Bay in 1965, 1966 and 1967 and he was an all-pro selection in 1965.

Smith Gets Stiff Test In Tennis

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —U.S. Open champion Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., encountered unexpected trouble from Ross Case before subduing the 4th ranked Australian 6-3, 7-6, Tuesday night in a feature men's singles match of the $73,000 Pacific Southwest Open tennis championship.

Smith, No. 1 seeded in the tournament, overcame a 3-2 deficit by winning the last four games to capture the first set.

The lanky Pasadenan outpointed his rival 5-1 in the tiebreaker period to win the second set and the match.

Earlier in the day, Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia and Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., second and third seeded, swept to straight set wins.

Other seeded players also won easily. Frank Froehling, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., defeated Tom Edlefsen, Los Angeles, 7-6, 6-4; Roger Taylor of England downed Steven Faulk, Covington, La., 6-2, 6-2, and Pancho Gonzales needed only 43 minutes to whip Milan Holecek, Czechoslovakia, 6-2, 6-2.

Redwood Bank Tennis Tourney Finals Sold Out

BERKELEY (UPI) —Meet director Barry MacKay says all tickets have been sold for the finals of the $50,000 Redwood Bank International Open Tennis tournament Oct. 3 at the Berkeley Tennis Club.

But he said tickets are still available for earlier rounds, Sept. 25 through Oct. 2, at both Berkeley and the Golden Gateway Club in downtown San Francisco.

LOOK WANTED MORE PUNCH

Ralston Explains McClure Article

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Stanford coach John Ralston thinks that ex-lineman Tim McClure was misquoted in his magazine article blasting the Indians.

"The people that know Tim know the ultimate article isn't what he wrote, and we have other far more important things to worry about than that," Ralston told the Northern California football writers Tuesday.

Look's story under McClure's byline included charges of drugs being taken at halftime of the Rose Bowl game, discrimination against long hair and dictatorial practices by the coaches.

McClure has denied the most controversial parts of the article, which he said was intended more as an attack on the harsher aspects of the whole collegiate grid scene and not just on Coach Ralston, whom McClure said he likes.

"I'm disappointed in the thoughts Tim has toward intercollegiate football," Ralston said, "although let me stress again that Tim was misquoted often."

Stanford publicist Bob Murphy said he heard rumors of the story last spring and got in touch with the magazine's sports editor, Jared Lebow.

"He told me the story as he had it didn't have enough meat in it, and he was coming out to get more punch to it from McClure," Murphy said.

He said some of the players read it last spring and "didn't think it was terribly inflammatory at all."

Ralston said that "coaches live in glass houses; I've been called an SOB before, but usually by the alumni; I guess I owe Tim an apology if I offended him."

Stanford officials have denied assertions of pill-popping at halftime of the Jan. 1 Rose Bowl game although McClure's article said it was done without knowledge of the coaches or trainer.

McClure later said the drug taking was added to the original article after "some people from Look flew out and taped the conversation about drugs with me . . . It wasn't supposed to be in at all."

He said the drug intake was limited "to a few guys, but it was there."

McClure asserted that "the original (article) degenerated into a negativistic statement of bitterness and frustration."

But he decided to let the article be printed over his name, he said, because it might get people to take a more jaundiced look at the college football scene.

Softball Victory

Suburban Auto of San Rafael secured a San Francisco "A" League playoff with the Aristocrats Tuesday by whipping them, 5-1, yesterday. Winning pitcher Joe Nystrom scattered three hits while striking out 10.

49ers Picked By 13, Raiders 3½ Point Choice

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI)—Despite dropping their openers, the San Francisco 49ers, Oakland Raiders and Los Angeles Rams were listed as favorites Tuesday to win their next games.

Harrah's Tahoe Racebook figures the 49ers as 13-point choices over New Orleans, Oakland 3 1-2 over San Diego and Los Angeles 3 1-2 over Atlanta.

Other pro odds: Kansas City over Houston by 7 1-2; Washington over the New York Giants by 2 1-2; Miami over Buffalo by 6 1-2; Detroit over New England by 11; Dallas over Philadelphia by 13 1-2; Cincinnati over Pittsburgh by 3 1-2; Minnesota over Chicago by 14 1-2; Baltimore over Cleveland by 5 1-2; Green Bay over Denver by 3 and St. Louis over the New York Jets by 5 1-2.

Close Softball Games In Recreation League

MacArthur's Pub trimmed Morwear Paints, 7-6, and Bourbon Shop tipped All Catholic All-Stars, 11-10, in San Rafael Recreation Department softball last night on Albert Field.

Dave Urquhart belted two home runs in pacing Bourbon Shop's come-from-behind triumph. Bob Schmidt had four safeties and three runs batted in for MacArthurs.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A Double Against A Resourceful Declarer Can Be Very Disastrous

A careful declarer should find the right line of play in today's hand even if no bell rings to warn him of danger. The fact remains that most bridge players give an undoubled hand only a second or two of thought. The trouble with doubling a resourceful declarer is that you ring the bell, warning him to play the hand carefully. So if you're thinking of doubling a good player when your tricks are on the doubtful side, the word to the wise is: Don't.

ROUTINE LEAD

If West had made a routine diamond lead, South would have had an easy time. South would win with the ace of diamonds and lead the king of clubs. Even if West refuses that trick (the best defense), South crossruffs spades and clubs, making an overtrick.

West actually led the ace of trumps and then a low trump to dummy's king. Declarer returned a club to the king, and West shrewdly refused the trick. (If West takes the ace of clubs, South takes the ace of spades, ruffs a spade in dummy and discards two spades on high clubs.)

When West refused the ace of clubs, South had only nine sure tricks: five normal trump tricks, one ruff in dummy, one spade, one diamond and one club. How should he play for his 10th trick?

HELP FROM ENEMY

The double and the opening lead warned South to expect the high spades behind him. He therefore cashed the ace of diamonds and led the queen of spades. (A low spade would allow East to win and get out safely by returning a spade.)

West had to win with the king of spades and get out with his diamond. South ruffed, ruffed a low spade in dummy and returned the queen of clubs, discarding a spade.

A BLACK CARD

West had to take the ace of clubs and had to return a black card, for lack of anything else. spade return would give South a free finesse with the ace-ten; and a club return would yield a trick to dummy's jack. Either way, West had to give declarer his 10th trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 6
♥ - K 10 9
♦ - 7 3 2
♣ - Q J 7 6 4 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs. Partner will think that you are using the Stayman Convention, asking him to bid a major suit of four or more cards. No matter what partner bids, you will go on to three clubs. He will then know that you are showing a "club bust," and he will pass.

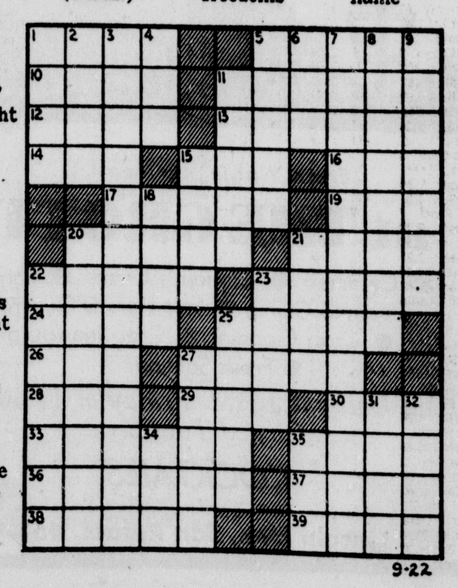
Yesterday's Answer



ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 22, the 265th day of 1971 with 100 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

On this date in history:

In 1692 the last executions for witchcraft were carried out at Salem, Mass. Nineteen persons were hanged and one crushed to death that year.

In 1959 the Chicago White Sox won the American League baseball pennant for the first time in 40 years. They lost the 1959 World Series to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

A thought for the day: Rudyard Kipling said, "Meddling with another man's folly is always thankless work."

Insurance Firm Bound To Recover

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Why is it that there is so little said about insurance stocks? I hold Philadelphia Life Insurance bought at over $30. It dropped in price when the market went down and has never recovered. I am puzzled whether to keep it or sell. Is this stock worth keeping? — E.T.

A. The insurance industry has been the subject of several articles — which you apparently have not seen — in the financial media in recent weeks. The concensus of these brokerage, analyst and investment advisory reports favor the industry for gradual growth at a reasonable price-earnings multiple. Recent interest stems from the outstanding market performance particularly apparent in the multi-line companies. Another contributing factor in the bullish stance for the group is the narrowing credibility gap as to earnings.

Your shares, purchased at the height of a bull market, are now selling 35 per cent below their peak, having rebounded 110 per cent from the 1970 low. The Dow Industrial average now 9 per cent below its former peak has rebounded only 45 per cent since the 1970 low point. Fundamentally there is no reason to believe that Philadelphia Life (OTC) will not continue its recovery.

In the first half of 1971 adjusted earnings gained 18 per cent year-to-year with premium income and investment income contributing equally to the increase. For the full year company should push earnings into new high ground perhaps in the $1.40 a share area. Hold Philadelphia Life for further recovery.

Testing Gear To Be Produced

PALO ALTO (BW) — Alza Corp. has agreed to lease, with an option to purchase, a 22,000-square foot facility in Palo Alto which will be used for pilot and first stage production of its initial products.

The company will begin building the equipment needed to produce ocusert systems in quantities to meet U.S. Food & Drug Administration clinical testing requirements. Within six months, the company expects to be producing 500,000 ocusert systems annually in the new Palo Alto facility, near the company's headquarters.

The pilot production lines will be capable of producing 3.5 million ocusert systems per year. It would be operating only at that level after the product has cleared the FDA and while other commercial production facilities were under construction.

Stock Market Down In Moderate Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) —Prices declined in moderate turnover on the New York Stock Exchange today.

Economic news for August had a bearish look, but much of it developed before President Nixon imposed his 90-day wage-price-rent freeze at mid-month. The cost of living for Americans rose three-tenths of one per cent in August (a bigger increase than in July), and the Commerce Department reported a drop in new orders for durable goods in the same period.

Among the most active Amex issues were Tesoro Petroleum down fractionally on 43,000 shares, Tesoro warrants off more than a point on a volume of more than 20,000, and Asamera Oil down slightly.

American Firms In Ulster Say Rioting Doesn't Trouble Them

By LeROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI)—The 35 American manufacturing firms in Northern Ireland seem to be experiencing relatively little trouble because of the Belfast rioting.

"We have had a little absenteeism on the night shift because workers don't want to leave their families at night in these troubled times," said a spokesman for Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., which has a big tire factory at Craigavon in County Armagh.

"We have no reports of disruptions at all," said International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. Its Standard Electric subsidiary has a works at Monkstown in County Antrim.

DuPone Co. has a synthetic rubber and plastic plant at Londonderry, a hot spot in the present commotion and there have been no problems there.

The Irish Republican Army has been intimidating Roman Catholic workers at some British owned plants in Northern Ireland, ordering them to stay off the job to harass the government of Prime Minister Brian Faulkner. But the IRA has made no effort to keep Catholic workers from their jobs in American owned plants.

"I've heard absolutely nothing of harassment of American or other foreign firms in Northern Ireland," said Jack O'Brien, director of the Irish Northern Aid Committee in New York. "Our enemy is England not America or) Germany."

A spokesman for Dublin's consulate in New York said he had heard of no harassment of foreign firms in Ulserter.

Although American firms with factories in Northern Ireland leave hiring policies up to local managers, they apparently have not been accused of religious discrimination on jobs. The Northern Ireland Development Office said a few smaller American firms in the country had made an overt effort to balance hiring along religious lines but that the bigger American subsidiaries simply ignored the religion in hiring. It was learned that DuPont's Londonderry plant has more Catholics than Protestant workers. This is not surprising since Londonderry's population is largely Catholic.

American investment in Northern Ireland has been growing fast in recent years, but the 35 American factories employ only about 5 per cent of the six counties' 520,000 workers.

Nine American companies have located in Ulster or expanded their facilities there to the tune of $84 million in new investments since the civil disorder started in August, 1969.

These firms include Monsanto, ITT, Ford Motor Co.'s Autolite division, National Distillers' Bridgeport Brass division, Textron's Fafnir bearing division, Norton Abrasives, Plastic Capacitators, Globe Union and V.F. Corp.'s Berkshire International subsidiary.

Other American firms with factories in the troubled areas are Kent Plastics Corp. of Evansville, Ind., Brunswick Corp.'s Sherwood Medical division of St. Louis, AMF, Inc., Essex International, Inc., of Ft. Wayne, Ind., Fruehauf Corp. of Detroit, H.J. Heinz Co. of Pittsburgh, Nichols & Co. of Boston, Camco, Inc., of Houston, Norton Co. of Worcester, Mass., St. Joe Paper Co. of Jacksonville, Fla., and TRW, Inc., of Cleveland.

Christmas Toys To Make Trip

OAKLAND (BW) — An assortment of unusual toys and dolls will make a 6,500-mile trip by air from Hong Kong to Seattle for distribution to retailers throughout the country for the coming Christmas season.

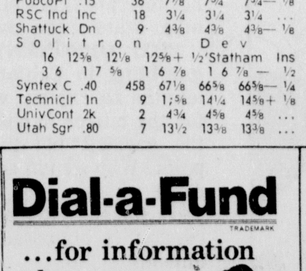
The dolls — named Love, Peace, Flower, Soul and Adam — together with toy motorcycles named Scream 'N Demon, operated by remote control; and packs of mannequins of a GI Joe adventure team will be flown via World Airways, the world's largest charter airline.

Shipment will be made in world's stretch DC-8 aircraft during a 10-week period in September, October and November.

Bank Clearings In Marin Up In August

Bank clearings for Marin County for August continued above last year's figures for the same month.

The Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco reported unadjusted debits at $230,478,000, compared with $213,070,000 a year earlier. Unadjusted deposits were $128,591,000, compared to a year ago figure of $108,840,000.



"Our problem boils down to small profits and big pollution."

Agenda Too Short, Or Supplement Too Long?

Marin County school trustees have been shaken up by a memorandum from Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino, warning that the skeleton agendas furnished the public by many districts are illegal in light of an appellate court decision in the case of Carlson vs. Paradise Unified School District.

Godino didn't mention, of course, the vast difference between what is furnished the public and what is furnished the school board in the way of printed background information in many districts. Taht has no bearing on the legality. But it may be an indication of just how devoted school board and administration are to letting the public in on what they're doing.

Let's take an example.

TAMALPAIS HIGH SCHOOL District is not among those given to skeleton agendas. For its Sept 13 meeting, for instance, the public was furnished with an agenda of two single-spaced typewritten pages which pretty well spelled out the matters the board was to consider.

Accompanying this two-page agenda for the board members (and press), however, were 220 similarly single-spaced pages of additional material.

Of these, 57 pages consisted of resumes of things that had come up at previous meetings. These consisted of 25 pages of minutes of three previous meetings, 28 pages of budget summaries, one page of supplemental book list, and three pages listing class offerings.

SINCE THE BUDGET had been adopted the previous month, the 28 pages of budget summaries were resumes of material included previously in similarly large packages.

Minutes of three meetings up for approval would seem to indicate the superintendent's staff during the summer was unable to cope with getting the minutes out on time.

The remainder of the 220 pages consisted of the following:

Graduate follow-up survey, 50 pages; citizen advisory committee memorandum, three pages; recommendations on institutional memberships, 26 pages; lawsuit against district, one page; grievance procedure, four pages; rental agreement, six pages; home-school transportation contract, nine pages; Tamalpais High School walkways, 19 pages; building program, 13 pages; special reserve fund bills, 13 pages; regular bills and salaries, eight pages; personnel actions, five pages; superintendent's report, one page.

The superintendent was not that brief. The page merely said he would give a verbal report and mentioned the subjects. A digest of his report doubt will show up along with the minutes at the next meeting.

SCHOOL BOARD members need to be kept informed. We have often heard them ask superintendents for more information on matters that came up at meetings. But 220 pages?

It is perhaps worth noting that the 26 pages on institutional memberships included letters and promotional material from the organizations involved (such as the Association of California School Administrators and California School Boards Assocation), all duplicated on the Tam district's equipment at Tam district taxpayers' cost. That made up all but two of the 26 pages.

Question No. 1: If two pages is enough information for public, does the board need 222 pages?

Question No. 2: Does anyone on the board read all this stuff?

Question No. 3: Is turning out such a volume — often over and over again, as in the case of the budgets — a justifiable public expense?

"And remember the cute little stories in the textbooks about me. 'The Happy Yellow School Bus'?"

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

The Late George Scott 'Man For All Seasons'

I want to take this opportunity to thank you for the excellent writeup which you published in your issue of Sept. 13 concerning my beloved husband, George R. Scott. You did not give him a good time during his years in Marin County. I was hurt by your articles but he thrived on them. He often told me that the more damaging things that the San Rafael Independent printed about him, the more people knew what he really did — for labor first of all; for management because he believed as I do that we have to have good relations between these two. Then too, he did an awful lot for charity and the downtrodden. In other words, he was in my opinion a man for all seasons. The day he passed away, he was becoming vague somewhat but he looked at me and laughed out loud, saying, "Well, did they have a big story about me in the San Rafael Independent?"

Police, Fire Forces Draw Appreciation

I would like to see "bouquets" to the San Rafael Fire Department and the San Rafael Police Department for their fine public service.

Twice during the past week we have been made vitally aware of their efficiency, when they each responded to a call for assistance.

Most of us take the wailing of sirens for granted until we become personally involved in the need for their services. In both cases, one a fire, the other a medical emergency could fall in the category of "saving life and property".

Man Gives Thoughts On Women's Liberation

"Liberation." Today this word seems to be an open topic, with its pros and cons. When subjects like these arise I think it is best to think them over and reason them out.

This word Liberation, one could write a book about its meanings in relation to others. Like the artist painting a sunset, he must catch each sunbeam to have a perfect picture. So one has to be broad-minded and weigh each avenue of its meaning to do justice to all concerned.

Some think a woman's place is in the home and not in the business world. Yet sometimes due to the change of events the woman may be forced to go into the business world to care for her family. Then too, if they have something to offer to make a better and more pleasent business world, I am sure they will be welcome. I am sure if a woman is paying taxes and is qualified, she is entitled to her place in the world, regardless of race, color or creed.

In closing I would like to add these words: Liberation must be for all, not a chosen few. When the door is closed on Liberation, then in comes domination, and that we all know destroys whatever is good and beautiful, as friendships, families and even nations. Liberation and love make a wonderful family.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

President Likely To Take Congressmen Along To Peking

WASHINGTON — Unless new circumstances change his plan, President Nixon is preparing to take representatives of both parties in Congress on his mission to Peking.

He has already taken preliminary soundings, has consulted with some of the legislative leaders on how best to determine who should go.

The President is fully aware that there is no single action he could take which would do as much to improve his working relations with Congress in the delicate area of foreign policy as to invite trusted members of Congress to be observers at the Peking talks.

It is now evident that Nixon intends to do so.

CONGRESS WANTS to be in when important decisions are being made, not merely when things go wrong.

If the President does not move in this direction, he runs the risk of gravely impairing diplomatic initiatives increasingly open to him.

It is profoundly to the good that he is enlisting the active co-operation of Congress during the Chinese summit instead of waiting till the end and then hoping to persuade Congress how wise the administration had been.

IT IS ALTOGETHER likely that Nixon had been planning to invite appropriate congressmen to accompany him to the Chinese summit before this column began advocating it several weeks ago.

No one could know better than the President what a galvanic boon it would be to bring Congress and the White House back into a trusted, responsive relationship after the divisive clashes over Vietnam had so long torn them apart.

The blunt truth is that members of Congress are eagerly waiting for Nixon to let it be known that there will be congressional representatives on the delegation to Peking. It now seems clearly certain that the invitation will be forthcoming and I am convinced that it will prove to be an immeasurable source of strength to the President himself.

OBVIOUSLY THE CHOICE of members of Congress to go to Peking is a delicate matter. One way to resolve it would be for the Presdent to invite the official leadership of both houses — Senators Mike Mansfield and Hugh Scott, Speaker Carl Albert and Rep. Gerald Ford. Another way would be to invite the chairmen and the ranking Republican members of the Senate and House Foreign Relations Committees.

This would mean that Nixon would be taking to Peking the severest critic of the administration's foreign policy generally, Sen. William Fulbright.

But what of it? Why not take Mr. Fulbright? He isn't going to disappear by not being taken to Peking. I am not advocating who the President should invite, but it could be very helpful to Nixon to have a man of Fulbright's viewpoint available in Peking.

Senator Fulbright supports the initiative Nixon has taken to bring about the Peking summit. He says in answer to a question I put to him: "I approve of the President's change in attitude toward China, carrying out his announced policy of negotiation rather than confrontation, and I am very hopeful that he and his assistants will keep us informed."

FULBRIGHT STEPS BACK from offering any suggestion about who should go to Peking. He puts it this way:

"I am personally reluctant to publicly urge the President to take specific members of Congress with him as this is a decision which I feel should essentially be the President's personal preference and I, therefore, don't want to be in a position of suggesting specific members."

For the United States to deal with the diplomatic opportunities and dangers which loom ahead, the President and Congress need each other's cooperation as never before. There could be no better place to start than at the Peking summit.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Baird On Birth Control: Criminal — Or Hero?

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — Bill Baird spends most of his time on the road lecturing on birth control. He often illustrates his lectures, mostly to college and housewives' audiences, with pills, diaphragms and cans of contraceptive foam.

As a result, he also spends a lot of time in court and in jail. Seven times in four states, he has been arrested for some variation on the basic horrendous crime of telling women how to avoid having unwanted children.

As a most recent example, the forces of law and enlightenment in Huntington, N.Y., preserved community order by hauling him in last month for corrupting the morals of a 14-month-old baby which attended one of Baird's talks in its mother's arms. The mother was arrested, too: her hard luck for being unable to locate a baby sitter that evening.

BAIRD'S TRIAL on that one comes up next week. Before subjecting themselves to the embarrassment of having to prosecute the case against Baird, however, the authorities have dropped the part about corrupting the 14-month-old. In the baby's place they have substituted a 14-year-old girl whose alleged presence among the 100 persons at the lecture was turned up by assiduous detective work in the name of the great state of New York. Aside from the chance that questioning the younger victim of Baird's scandalous conduct might have proved tedious, there was the additional fact that the baby slept through it all.

So now the prosecution is set to wreak justice upon him for corrupting the 14-year-old, who of course is at a prime age for moral corruption, plus illegally displaying contraceptives (all druggists will be fitted for handcuffs in the line to the right), plus obstructing government operations, whatever that means.

As preposterous as all that is, it is not the most important pending case in which Baird is a principal. The one with the most far-reaching implications for birth-control laws all over the country already has reached the Supreme Court, and arguments on it will begin promptly after the trial on Long Island. This case was appealed from Massachusetts, where the birth-control advocate was sentenced to three months in prison for giving a can of contraceptive foam to a 22-year-old unmarried student as part of a Boston University lecture — all intentionally done to test that state's laws. Those laws, even though revised five years ago, nevertheless forbid dissemination of birth-control devices except by prescription, and even information about them, except to married persons.

THE BASIC, even more restrictive Massachusetts statutes on the subject are 124 years old — passed back when Zachary Taylor was fighting the battle of Buena Vista, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was first publishing "Evangeline," Pius IX had just become Pope, the first woman medical graduate was still three years from graduation, and Margaret Sanger's birth was still 36 years in the future.

They are lumped together, in Massachusetts' usage, as the "crimes against chastity" laws. Contemplate that — laws still on the books, albeit on the home grounds of our most famous witchcraft trials, which purport to deal with something called "crimes against chastity." In September, 1971!

In the period between the passage of those laws and the arrest of Bill Baird at Boston University, the population of Massachusetts has more than sextupled. A race of Americans once slaved, has become free. New nations by the dozens have been created out of darkness. Literacy has replaced ignorance as the norm in most of the world. Man has devised means to control virtually every ailment except cancer and the common cold.

He has devised a contraceptive pill, and he has perfected safe methods of abortion (Baird himself having helped some 12,000 women obtain abortions without a single patient death). Despite the pessimism with which we regularly forecast a polluted, overcrowded future, there is hope for man ahead if he somehow can match his technical achievements with social progress.

A promising nudge in that direction will be provided by the Supreme Court if it does what common sense, education and the Constitution of the United States indicate it should do — if it strikes from the books the archaic birth-control statutes of Massachusetts and thus in turn those of every other state, and thereby certifies Bill Baird in his true role in our country. He is a valuable public servant, perhaps a hero — not a criminal.

Why Not Tahoe Gambling On This Side Of Line?

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE (Capitol) — It is not difficult to ascertain what happens in the transition of gambling from care-free sport to multi-million dollar business.

In the early 1930s some 40 years ago, the first gambling casinos started at Stateline. They weren't casinos in the modern sense of the word — they were back rooms of business establishments.

One of the first of these Stateline casinos started in a Quonset hut and has now grown to a multi-storied building housing a casino on the grand scale, several restaurants and a modern hotel. (It wasn't quite as modern as it might have been — when it opened, the plumbing wouldn't work.)

This first large hotel, which many conservationists feel is a blot on the Tahoe landscape, has been joined by others, and by a host of smaller motels on both the California and Nevada sides of the lake. These are needed to house the small army of casino employees — dealers, restaurant employees, pit bosses, entertainers, and others who make a living from the bad luck of the gambling public — which increases year by year.

ALL OF WHICH is neither new nor startling, but merely marks the passage of time from one generation to the next, and reflects the changes in the public's attitude toward gambling.
bling.

It does bring up the question of how soon (or whether) the California public will demand the legalization of all gambling in this state. This may not be too many years ahead, as the state is living in a hyprocritical atmosphere under the present circumstances.
cumstances.

It is hypocritical because it denies the portion of the public which wishes to gamble, the right to do so legally.

Many years have elapsed since gambling, by popular accord, has been written off the "sin" list. If the people who still consider it sinful to wager their money can tolerate gambling in Nevada, there would seem to be no reason why they could not tolerate it in California, or in any other state of the union.

THE OPPONENTS of legalized gambling in California go to great lengths to explain why it isn't good for the citizen to have easy access to the casinos, but this is beside the point. Why should government determine what is good and what is not good for the citizen? In a democracy, he is supposed to do this for himself.

Greedy politicians have long had their eyes on gambling revenue, which is only one reason why, if it were legal in California, taxes might be a little more reasonable.

And gambling is "big business". One realizes that it is such when the casinos start selling used cards, which they formerly donated to organizations, and start cutting down the odds at black-jack.

Consistency, Thou Art No Jewel For Office Holders

By ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Emanuel Celler, R-N.Y., who has been around Congress longer than anyone, has a favorite response when he is chided for changing his mind on some issue.

"Consistency," says the sage of Brooklyn, "is like a stagnant pool. It breeds vipers in the mind."

Another successful officeholder who didn't have snakes in the head was Sen. Everett M. Dirksen. He changed his mind on public questions many times and when a newspaper worked up a scorecard on his turnabouts, his reaction was more amusement than outrage.

STILL, MANY POLITICANS live in horror of inconsistency. To them, a man who changes his mind has shown himself to be without conviction or principle and opened himself to ridicule and very probably defeat in the next election. The prospect of simply declaring that the facts of a situation have changed or that he was wrong in the first place is enough to unhinge most conventional public officials.

There is, however, a less painful way for a politician to do a turnabout than simply admitting he had changed his mind.

The method may stem, in spirit at least, from the advice supposedly given Franklin D. Roosevelt in the 1936 campaign. He was to appear in Pittsburgh and was concerned that he might be asked to explain his speech in the same city four years earlier in which he promised to cut government spending and balance the budget.

"Just deny you were ever in Pittsburgh," an aide proposed.

Out of this seems to have stemmed the system of changing the name of whatever it is you were against before but are for now. Sometimes these exercises in saving face are so transparent as to seem ridiculous, but they seem to be regarded as one of the most valuable tools of the American political trade.

Whether the common folk will believe stinkweed has become sweet clover just because the gardener says so is another question.

President Nixon has found the name change method particularly useful. In 1968 and since, he has staunchly opposed "the guaranteed annual income" as a solution for really hopeless welfare cases. But he is trying to get Congress to pass a "Family Assistance Plan," which boils down to a guaranteed annual income for a very large portion of the people who need public assistance.

The President also found a change of name helpful when he ordered wage and price increases halted for three months. He got the authority for his action from a 1970 standby wage and price control law pushed through Congress by the Democrats.

At the time, Nixon said he abhored wage and price controls and would never use them. And, as the nation learned Aug. 14, he did not impose controls, but ordered a "freeze."

THERE IS A SIMILAR phenomenon taking place in foreign policy. Not too long ago, American leaders were referring to the government of the most populous country in Asia as Communist or Red China, and shuddering visibly at the least whisper of a suggestion that Peking be admitted to the United Nations.

Now that the Mao government has become touchable, it is being referred to as "Mainland China," the "People's Republic of China" or, as heard recently from a top White House aide "The PRC."

That, of course, is a reminder that the new name method of softening a policy change is nonpartisan. It was under the Democrats back in FDR's days that the "Bolsheviks" became the Soviet Union and under Lyndon Johnson that "socialized medicine" became Medicare.

If there is a lesson in this, it should be thatpoliticans are mortal and fallible, and that their opinions are, and frequently should be, subject to change.

The question for the citizen to ask is not whether the politician changed his mind, but why.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Sept. 22, 1961

Premier Nikita S. Khruschev said Soviet Russia was ready to negotiate with the United States "at any time, at any place, and at any level."

The United States formally ended its long opposition to United Nations General Assembly debate on admission of Red China to the U.N.

20 YEARS AGO

A citizens committee in Novato was circulating petitions for an election on incorporation as a city.

Three enemy aircraft raided Seoul, capital of South Korea.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Daly City Showdown On Teacher Bargaining

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The first real showdown over teachers' collective bargaining rights in California public schools has come in Daly City. It may have far-reaching effects on the state's education system.

Jefferson Elementary School District Classroom Teachers Association (a California Teachers Association chapter) was joined by the district local of the California Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, in a strike at opening of the fall school term. When pupils showed up for opening day, more than half the district's 429 teachers were absent. Many of them were walking picket and advising children it would be unsafe to go to school.

The district board was not caught napping. Substitute teachers — all fully certificated, according to Vinton Stratton, associate superintendent — were hired to provide almost complete classroom staffing.

Then, at a special meeting Sept. 16, the board voted unanimously to fire all teachers not on the job the next day. Accordingly, notices were served on 226 teachers on Sept. 17 that they were suspended and would be discharged at the end of 30 days.

The action was taken under Section 13408 of the Education Code, which, as amended last year by a bill introduced by Assemblyman John L.E. (Bud) Collier, R-South Pasadena, includes "willful refusal to perform regular assignments without reasonable cause" as ground for dismissal.

THE DALY CITY walkout was not over pay, fringe benefits, class sizes, or any other usual grievance of teacher groups. It was over the issue of a "master agreement," which is a California Teachers Association euphemism for a collective bargaining contract.

Last year, CTA put on a drive to get such contracts in 300 California school districts. It got them in seven districts. Jefferson Elementary was one of the seven.

These "master agreements" provide that the certificated employees' council, as set up under the Winton Act, has a voice in all school board decisions affecting teachers, and that no district policy may be changed without the council's approval. They also set up a grievance procedure which provides that only through the council may any grievance be dealt with.

The Winton Act specifies that the certificated employees' council is made up of representatives appointed by each teacher organization in the same ratio its membership holds to the total certificated employees in the district.

In most districts, this means that CTA has a majority of the council, since nearly all California public school teachers belong to CTA.

Controlling the council through its majority membership, the CTA local becomes in effect the exclusive bargaining agent under the so-called "master agreement."

THE "MASTER AGREEMENT" signed after a strike last year in Los Angeles Unified School District was ruled illegal by Los Angeles Superior Court, which held that neither certificated employees' council nor school board has authority to enter into a collective bargaining contract. Several other such agreements subsequently were challenged in court and held invalid.

Thereupon, Jefferson Elementary District trustees refused to renew the "master agreement" for this year, declaring they could not be parties to an illegal contract. So the teachers went on strike.

Almost at the same time the Jefferson board was voting to fire the striking teachers, Don Morrison, a San Diego teacher who is the new president of the National Education Association (CTA's parent organization) was telling a gathering in Santa Barbara that the Daly City strikers would have full NEA support.

"If we lose this, we won't have a safe agreement with any board of education in the state," he said.

So that's how the land lies.

New Election Code For Philippines

By VICENTE MALIWANAG

MANILA (UPI)—Gone are the days of political gimmickry in the Philippines when millions of T-shirts, ballpens, unbrellas, fans and even rosaries were distributed free by campaigning candidates.

"That's all over now," said Jaime N. Ferrer, chairman of the Commission on Elections (COMELEC), a constitutional body charged with the task of supervising not only the elections but also the political activities of candidates.

On Nov. 8, an estimated 11 million voters (out of a population fo 37.5 million) will elect eight members of the 24 member Philippine senate, 66 provincial governors and vice governors, 55 city mayors, 1,500 town mayors and a host of other local officials.

A new election code was passed by congress this year and signed into law by President Ferdinand E. Marcos. It provides for a series of reforms that include banning of political gimmicks, limiting political advertisement, shortening voting hours (polls will close at 3 p.m., instead of 6 p.m.) to enable counting to begin during the day instead of nighttime and empowering the Comelec to postpone or suspend elections when necessary.

In particular, T-shirts emblazoned with such legends as "Vote for Lopez" will be missed, mainly by newspaper vendors and shoeshine boys who counted on each campaign to keep them clothed.

Ferrer said the new law also authorizes the canvassing of votes —the official compilation of precenct-by-precinct returns —on the same day as the elections, instead of 15 days afterwards to minimize tampering of results. In addition, he said the board of canvassers will henceforth be made up of teachers, district supervisors, municipal treasurers and municipal health officers instead of the previous partisan group of mayors, vice mayors and councilors.

Ferrer said these were all "tremendous improvements" in Philippine electoral processes which had been marked in the past by overspending, cheating, and outright terrorism so much so that there has been a loud outcry against the use of "guns, goons and gold" during elections.

The 45-year-old Ferrer said he still expects some irregularities and even violence in next November's elections but that the new law is an encouraging deterrent.

He said he plans to enlist 50,000 university ROTC cadets as peace-keeping volunteers on election day with an option to marshal the army, navy, air force and constabulary (national police) forces as well.

"It is paradoxical but one of our biggest problems is how to police the police, particularly in the remote areas where they are the only law enforcement agency available and prone to be part of a local politician's private army," he said.

Ferrer said some of the political hotspots would be Ilocos Sur Province in northern Luzon, a perennial trouble area where political arguments are often settled by guns, in Manila's neighboring province of Cavite, in three southern provinces troubled by MoslemChristian strife, and in two other provinces where the Maoist Communist New Peoples Army is on the upsurge north of Manila.

With elections still seven weeks away, the unofficial count on political violence based on published reports is more than 20 dead and more than 100 wounded, including casualties in the Aug. 21 grenade attack at an opposition political rally in downtown Manila. In the last two previous election campaigns, 60 were killed in 1967 and 97 in 1969.

Ferrer said he would still like to see more electoral reforms. He has proposed to the 1971 Philippine constitutional convention several amendments.

These would eliminate political dynasties by limiting local officials to two terms and disqualifying their close relatives from seeking the same office, reducing the voting age from 21 to 18 years, synchronizing elections every three years, holding elections during summer instead of during the typhoon season, and compulsory voters registration and election.

By K. C. THALER

BUDAPEST (UPI)—Hungary has no drug problem, and long hair, beards and jeans are rarely seen. But the girls have taken to hotpants as they did miniskirts, showing that Hungary's younger generation is not altogether out of pace with the West.

The authorities say the drug problem that plagues Western society is non-existent here. And they say they are confident they can keep it that way because young people have not shown any inclination towards drugs or alcohol.

The regime in this Communist bloc country tries to offer alternative means of relaxation and leisure to their youth in political and sports clubs. There also are dancing places where rock 'n roll is popular.

In general, with the advent of more consumer goods, life in Hungary has become more relaxed. Stores are more plentiful, the choice of goods wider and quality has also been improving.

The gaps are still wide but "everything is relative," as one informant put it. There is plenty of food and more colorful dress is evident nearly everywhere. The latest most striking phenomenona is the advent of the automobile in notable numbers. The government is for the first time facing the problems of traffic congestion.

These are merely outward symptoms of improving life in the country. But many shortages remain, as well as many restrictions. Even though Hungarians now have the right to a passport, this does not mean that everybody can leave the country as he chooses.

But, fear, the great undermining factor of the past has gone, according to all available signs, and according to best available information people do not shy away from foreigners. They converse freely. On the other hand, Western newspapers are still unavailable to the general public. But they are obtainable in some of the big hotels for the benefit of tourists, who have begun to flood this country.

The authorities say they are bracing for vastly increased tourist trade. A Hilton hotel is to be constructed in Budapest, following the opening of an Intercontinental on the bank of the Danube.

Much of the positive impulse has come from the successful economic experiment by the government, which has abandoned the traditional hard line pattern of centralized government planning in favor of initiative and profits.

Whereas in the past, the central authority planned everything, from power stations to suspenders, now the individual enterprise and its managers have the power to make their own plays from production to distribution and they must think in terms of profit making. Together with their workers, they share some of these profits which find their way to acquisition of houses, apartments and above all cars.

Jobs are available but wages are low and prices relatively high.

A typist earning a monthly salary between $40 -$60 would have to spend the income of a whole week for a pair of shoes costing between $10-$20.

Likewise, a worker earning $80 a month would have to spend his entire monthly earnings for a cheap readymade suit.

But many do several jobs to supplement their wages and earnings and there are also the socialized big earners who may make up to 10 times the earnings of a worker, among them doctors with private practice or those who manage to organize some small business or trade of their own.

Education is free, so is the health service. Rents are basically low, even though they have been rising lately.

Ask any Hungarian how, with a low salary, he can manage to look reasonably well dressed, eat well and have his wine, the answer will be a smile and shrug of the shoulder.

Woman Ordered To Pay Back Welfare Money

Sandra Sellers, 28, of San Rafael, has been ordered to repay $500 she illegally obtained in welfare payments from Marin County.

Judge David R. Baty, sitting in Municipal Court, also placed her on probation for two years after she pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of welfare fraud.

Judge Baty, who usually sits in Western Marin Judicial Court, dismissed one felony count of welfare fraud against her and reduced another to a misdemeanor.

She was accused of receiving welfare payments after failing to inform the county Department of Social Services of a $3,100 inheritance last December.

San Rafael Man Pleads Guilty To Burglary

George Edward Myers, 24, of San Rafael, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglary.

He is to be sentenced Oct. 12.

Following his plea, Judge E. Warren McGuire dismissed an additional count of burglary and a charge of possessing stolen property against Myers at the request of the district attorney's office.

Myers was arrested July 28 when San Rafael police found him at the home of William Savage of 4 Knight Drive.

He was accused of burglarizing Savage's home as well as a car parked in front of the residence and having gloves from the car in his possession when he was arrested.

Equipment Is Taken At Creek

Construction equipment valued at $600 has been stolen from a contracting firm working on the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

Marin County Sheriff's deputies said yesterday the equipment was stolen in a burglary during the first week of September of a tool shed belonging to Elmer J. Sleethy Construction Co. of El Cerrito.

The shed was located near the creek, adjacent to Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Kentfield, deputies said.

Case Of Reenlisting Into Service Twice

MARIETTA, Ga. (UPI)—Sgt. W. E. Meserve, a flight engineer, re-enlisted twice on the same day while flying aboard a C-141 Lockheed Star Lifter between Okinawa and Alaska.

Shortly after Meserve was sworn in the first time, the aircraft crossed the international dateline, which meant that the previous enlistment was still in effect. He promptly repeated the ceremony so the proper date would show on official papers.

Veterans Lose Appeal On Moving Doughboy Statue

The doughboy statue, which formerly stood in front of the old San Rafael courthouse, will be placed at the north of the Veterans Memorial Building at Marin Civic Center, the Marin County Board of Supervisors declared yesterday. (Another supervisors story, page 1)

Several veterans organizations yesterday failed to win their request that the statue be placed next to the Veterans Memorial Building itself, not to the north of the parking area, well away from the building.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella said relocation of the statue is already in process.

Supervisor John F. McInnis noted that former Supervisor William A. Gnoss had been named to a committee of one to pick the site for the doughboy statue. He said no criticism had been voiced when the site was picked last year.

Supervisors decied it is too late to change the location now.

Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

YOUTH COMMISSION — Appointed to the Marin County Youth Commission Anne Duggan, Terra Linda High School senior; and Brian Perkins, San Rafael High School sophomore.

MOTORCYCLE COMMITTEE — Named George V. Paraspolo of 158 Crescent Road, Corte Madera, to the Motorcycle Ad Hoc Committee. He replaces Dorothy Everett of Woodacre, who resigned because of illness.

FLOOD CONTROL — Appointed John A. Allen of 33 Corrillo Drive, San Rafael, to the San Rafael Meadows Flood Control Zone. He replaces Clifford Den Otter, who resigned in March.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE — Named John Kenward of 12 Palm Avenue, Larkspur, to fill a vacancy on the Family and Children's Services Advisory Committee.

TIRES —Voted 4 to 1 to buy 1,375 Armstrong tires from Novato Tire and Battery Co. of Novato for $38,185. Louis H. Baar, the lone dissenter, said he believes Armstrong tires are inferior and would not use them himself.

TWO-WAY RADIO — Bought 10 two-way portable radios for use by the sheriff's department from Kaar Electronics Corporation of Mountain View for $8,020. Kaar submitted the lowest of five bids.

LAWSUIT — Hired engineer Michael F. King of San Rafael as special consultant at a maximum cost of $2,000 to develop engineering data needed by the county in defending against a $1.57 million lawsuit brought by Robert E. McKee Co., builder of the Hall of Justice. McKee contends he was damaged because the county's specifications were vague and forced him to do extra work.

COMMENDATION — Voted a resolution of commendation for Lothar Salin, former chairman of the Marin County Parks and Recration Commission, who resigned last February after six years on the commission. Louis H. Baar abstained from voting, explaining he did not reappoint Salin to the commission and therefore would be a hypocrite if he voted to commend the man.

INTEREST — Agreed that Marin's flood control zones be allowed to retain interest earned on fund accumulations in excess of $100,000, interest on the first $100,000 continuing to go to the county to compensate for legal and accounting services provided by the county.

FENCES — On hearing a complaint by David Young of 370 Crown Road, Kentfield, that a fence planned by his neighbor, H. W. Orear Jr. of 380 Crown Road, would violate deed restrictions in Kent Woodlands subdivision, rejected Orear's plea to erect an eight-foot-high fence and told him to stay within the six-foot limit.

FLEA MARKET — Ordered the 2-month-old flea market off Donahue Street at the entrance to Marin City be screened by an appropriate fence within two months. Arlene Atkinson, representing People's Community Market, failed to overcome neighborhood insistence on the fence.

Keep Carrier Home

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Antiwar groups conducting a four-day straw vote on whether the attack aircraft carrier Constellation should return to Vietnam duty reported that balloting is running 6 to 1 against the warship leaving San Diego harbor.

Parents, Teachers Criticize Busing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Chinese and white parents picketed San Francisco's Board of Education Tuesday while a teacher's union leveled a broadside against the busing of elementary school children to integrate classrooms.

About 300 parents, many marching with their children, carried signs protesting busing and calling on the school district to modify integration plans for the 50,000 children assigned to the city's 97 schools.

"This is just to let the school system know we're alive and kicking," said Bob Jacobs, co-chairman of Walk (We All Love Kids).

The American Federation of Teachers local attacked School Supt. Thomas A. Shaheen and called the integration by busing program "a hasty patchwork, an excuse for the district's failure to face its responsibilities for the past several years."

The AFT, in a union bulletin, charged the school district officials with "negligence," saying they ignored integration until the last possible moment and then "threw together a plan."

25 Acres Deannexed By Owner's Request

On the request of a property owner, the Richardson Bay Sanitary District board agreed last night to deannex 25 acres of land from the district, board Secty. Beverly Wheeler reported.

Owner Henry Avey told the board he wishes to sell the property, located between Tiburon Boulevard, Gilmartin Drive and Upland Ridge, to a developer. He wished to leave the district, he said, because it cannot provide the 500 sewer connections which will be needed for development. The number of sewer connections the district can permit is severely curtailed by an order from the San Francisco Bay Area Regional Water Quality Control Board, Mrs. Wheeler said.

Avey said he hopes to annex the property to the Tiburon Sanitary District which he said has connections available.

Also last night, the sanitary board appointed Jules Winkelman to the board, replacing George Szabo, who has moved to Argentina.

A contract for construction of an interceptor sewer for the Bel Aire area was awarded to R.D. Ramirez Inc. of South San Francisco, whose low bid for the work was $32,987.

Board Votes Funding For Program

Funds to provide a special teaching program at Wolfe Grade School were approved last night by the Kentfield School District board.

According to Supt. Anthony G. Bachich, the board's appropriation of $6,000 will be added to state and private grants which total about $30,000.

Bachich said the new staffing project — which uses the concept of team teaching — is months away from completion and was presented last night as a progress report.

The report, drafted by about 40 parents and teachers, is basically a skeleton of the staffing plan, with greater detail to be supplied at later meetings. About $20,000 of grant funds will be used to train student teachers from Dominican College in San Rafael.

The Kentfield School District Board also:

FIELD TRIP — Authorized a four-day trip for four teachers and about 60 students to the Mother Lode country for study of early California towns.

STUDY COURSE — Adopted the county course of study as a listing of minimum requirements in the district.

COURT COST — Authorized payment of $1,619 to the state for dismissal hearing costs incurred in teacher Joanne Pocta's successful fight to remain employed.

PERSONNEL — Approved hiring Elizabeth Cabana as a physical education instructor at Adaline E. Kent School at a salary of $8,785 per year; Victoria Boyer as an intermediate grades teacher at Kent School at a salary of $10,250 per year; Kathleen Von Seggern as an intermediate grades teacher at Wolfe Grade School at a salary of $9,515 per year, and four teachers aides at Kent School — one at a pay scale of $2.58 per hour and the other three at $2.45 per hour.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignations of Sandra Harlan, teacher at Wolfe Grade School, who is out of the country, and Wolfe Grade custodian Dennis Hoell.

Child Center Grant Application Backed

The Marin County Board of Education has authorized its staff to apply for federal and state funds for operation of a child care center for student mothers at the College of Marin.

According to Byron W. Mauzy, deputy superintendent of schools, the board's action Monday must be ratified by the college district board before application is made.

The child care center, to be cosponsored by the county schools office, the college district, and the student body, would operate on a budget of about $30,000 per year.

It would be housed in the old chemistry building at the college and would accommodate about 25 children each class hour. He said students have estimated about 165 children of student mothers would use the center each week.

The Marin County Board of Education also:

BREAKFAST — Agreed to continue operation for at least another week of the Sausalito School District's breakfast program in Marin City. During the first week of school, a total of four children participated in the program, designed to accommodate about 30.

PERSONNEL — Approved hiring Frank Benson of San Francisco as a part-time psychologist at $11,550 per year; Jeanne Coulter of Novato as a teacher of multihandicapped children at $8,379; Karl Kurk of San Mateo as a part-time teacher of food services at $7,497; Muriel Lynch of Kentfield as a part-time teacher of auto mechanics at $2,265; and Roger Falge, formerly employed in the Tamalpais High School District, as an administrative assistant at $16,748 per year.

An American inventor, Elisha Gray, found a way to transmit the human voice over wires and filed notice of a patent application but Alexander Graham Bell's patent had already been granted.

Group Told Cooperation Is A Must

Parents and teachers attending the San Anselmo School District board meeting last night were told greater community involvement and cooperation in education is a must.

The meeting, consisting of three speakers each from the State Department of Education, the California Teachers Association and the California School Boards Association, was attended by about 120 persons, W. Kenneth Lowry, district superintendent, said.

He said the discussion centered on the traditional and future roles of parents, teachers, administrators and trustees in education.

It was the first of four such panel discussions. The next will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Red Hill School.

The board is to meet again tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at Red Hill School for its regular business agenda.

Among items to be discussed are the district's policy regarding student-to-teacher ratios and whether the teaching staff should be reduced from the current 88 positions.

Living Costs Climb During Last Month

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The cost of living rose three-tenths of one per cent in August, a higher increase than in July, the government reported today, but statisticians said the figures did not accurately test the impact of the wage-price freeze President Nixon imposed at mid-month.

The Labor Department said the price advance which was about the average rate for the year was led by a sharp 3.7 per cent increase in the price of gasoline.

Wages also increased in August, the department said, with average gross weekly earnings of rank and file workers advancing $1.43 from July to an average of $129.

The department said the cost of living survey, conducted in 56 cities, reflected price information collected both before and after the President imposed the freeze on Aug. 15.

The department cautioned that even prices sampled after the freeze could have reflected price boosts in the first two weeks of the month.

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said the consumer price statistics "reflect this year's trend to lower levels than last year's plus 5 per cent rise." He said the housewife would be "particularly pleased" that there was no rise in the food prices.

"President Nixon's recent wage price freeze assures a continuance of this improvement," Hodgson said at a news conference.

But, Hodgson emphasized that the August index could not be used as a yardstick for determining whether the price freeze was working.

"Even in later months the method of collecting data is not wholly useful for what might be called before-and-after comparisons," he said, observing that some prices are not collected on a monthly basis and some prices are not covered by the freeze.

The first cost-of-living report since Nixon took his drastic economic action came as the House Ways and Means Committee moved to trim business tax reductions he ordered into effect earlier this year without requiring congressional consent.

The consumer price index rose in August to 122.2 per cent of the 1967 average. That meant it cost $12.22 last month to buy the same goods and services that could have been obtained for $12.18 in July; $11.69 a year ago, and $10 about four years ago.

The August level was 4.5 per cent higher than a year ago.

When the figures are adjusted for seasonal variations, the August increase was 0.4 per cent, double the 0.2 per cent advance in July but lower than the increases of 0.5 per cent in June, and 0.6 per cent in May.

On the unadjusted scale, the 0.3 per cent increase compared to a 0.2 per cent increase in July and boosts of 0.6 per cent in June, 0.5 per cent in May and 0.3 per per cent in April.

Pair Arraigned On Narcotics, Theft Charges

Charles Michael Tackett, 23, of no known address, and Joseph Paul Pellolio, 26, of 26 Spring Road, San Rafael, were arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on felony charges of possessing hashish, marijuana and benzedrine, and misdemeanor counts of petty theft and possessing narcotics paraphernalia.

They are to plead to the charges Monday.

The pair was arrested Monday after the sheriff's office got a report that two men had stolen a bicycle from a carport at the residence of Patricia Ann Johietz of 31 Reed Boulevard. Apt. 14, Strawberry.

Deputies found the men in the parking lot of Denny's Restaurant in Corte Madera with the bicycle allegedly in the back of their station wagon.

In the glove compartment of the car, which deputies said was open, small quantities of the various drugs allegedly were found.

Leif Erickson Day Proclaimed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Leif Erickson will have his day Oct. 9 through a proclamation signed by President Nixon.

Nixon scheduled the day in honor of the Norse explorer Tuesday but carefully avoided taking a stand in the dispute over whether Erickson or Christopher Columbus discovered America.

"The exploits of Leif Erickson are still in large part shrouded in the mists of history and only now are we beginning to appreciate fully the magnitude of (his) explorations," Nixon wrote.

Robber Hits Clerk, Flees With Cash

A gun-wielding robber last night took $70 from the cash register at the Bourbon Shop in San Rafael and struck the clerk on the head with a pistol before making his escape, police said.

The clerk, Timothy Gabbard of 308 Glen Park Avenue, San Rafael, received stitches at Marin General Hospital following the robbery.

He told police the robber, described as a male of Oriental or Mexican descent with a small mustache and beard bought a can of beer at the shop at 373 Third Street in the Montecito Shopping Center about 9:30 p.m.

Police said the robber then pulled an automatic pistol from his belt behind his back and announced, "This is a holdup."

As Gabbard emptied the cash register, he was cautioned to keep his hands in sight, police said.

The clerk then was forced to lie down on the floor in the back room with his hands under his chest and was struck on the back of the head with the pistol before the robber fled, police reported.

Oil Pipeline In Canada Backed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., has released a Canadian study which contends a pipeline from the Alaskan North Slope across Canada to the Midwest would cost less than $2 billion, compared with the $3 to $4 billion estimated for a trans-Alaska route.

Aspin also said Tuesday the state of Alaska would earn an additional $95 million a year in royalties if oil from the North Slope is piped the Canadian route. He said the additional income would come from lower transportation costs than those for the proposed route from the slope to the Alaskan port of Valdez.

Aspin said the Interior Department should not issue a permit for the Alaskan pipeline until a study is made of a possible Canadian route.

Ferry Service To Bay Ships Ordered Halted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A ferry service to sea-going vessels in San Francisco Bay by 18 harbor pilots was ordered stopped Tuesday by the California Public Utilities Commission.

The order came after a complaint was filed by Harbor Carriers, Inc., which operates four water taxis on the bay.

Harbor Carriers said income had dropped from $16,572 a month to $2,062 since the California Inland Pilots Association began its own shore-to-ship service in 1969.

A PUC ruling said the association violated state law by operating vessels for the transportation of persons for compensation, without a commission permit.

The pilots association had begun its own service during a strike which idled Harbor Carriers' operations.

Vigil Planned For All Living Things

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A band of conservationists plans a sunrise-to-sunset vigil in Grace Cathedral Thursday dedicated to all living organisms of the world and to the land, air and water in which they live.

Sponsors of the unusual event plan services for the "great family" of the globe which will mingle religious rites, political discussion, and entertainment.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Demo Remapping Delay Ires Reagan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan, charging Democrats with dealing in secret on reapportionment, has warned he may call a special session unless their redistricting plans are made public soon.

Reagan declared in a prepared statement yesterday that the current 9-month-old session should already have been "sufficient for birth of any worthwhile legislation, including reapportionment."

The governor spoke out shortly after Republican leaders urged him to call a special session on reapportionment of legislative and congressional districts. The lawmakers must by law reapportion districts on the basis of the 1970 federal population census.

Sen. Fred Marler Jr. of Redding and Assemblyman Robert Monagan of Tracy, GOP floor leaders, voiced concern that if the lawmakers fail to redistrict by a proposed Sept. 30 adjournment, "serious constitutional questions may arise."

Since no Democratic plan has been unveiled, Reagan said he concluded "that a great deal of secret activity on reapportionment must be going on among the Democrats."

"This should be done in public instead," Reagan said.

Democrats outnumber Republicans in both the Assembly and Senate. How seats are distributed among the two parties will help determine the political complexion of the Legislature for the next 10 years.

Republican legislators have privately informed Democrats that Reagan intends to veto any reapportionment bill designed to increase the Democrats' current narrow majority in each house.

They said they wanted reapportionment handled as an issue separate from other issues such as tax reform and forecast if reapportionment could be used as an "excuse for endless delays on other issues, there will be a tendency to procrastinate on everything."

PENALTY BEATEN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill to make killing a policeman acting in the line of duty first-degree murder was voted down Tuesday by the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee.

The measure by Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, died after it failed to gain approval by one vote.

But the committee endorsed a bill making it a crime to advocate the injury or killing of a policeman.

The measure by Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai, was sent to the full Assembly on a unanimous voice vote.

BOND ISSUES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has approved a proposed constitutional amendment cutting the vote majority needed to pass a local bond issue.

The measure, by Sen. Mervyn Dymally, D-Los Angeles, lowers the requirement from two-thirds to 60 per cent. The amendment was endorsed by the Senate on a 297 vote and sent to the Assembly.

If the lower house approves it, the measure will be submitted to the voters next year.

Dymally said his bill was prompted by the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision upholding the current two-thirds approval requirement. He said many persons feel it is too hard to meet.

VENUE CHANGES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill allowing judges to order changes in the location of trials has been sent to the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The Assembly Criminal Justice Committee approved the measure by Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Watsonville, Tuesday on a voice vote.

Under present law, a change of venue can only be granted on a motion by the defense that a fair trial cannot be held in the original court.

TRIAL HELP

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly Criminal Justice Committee has endorsed legislation for the state to help out financially counties holding major criminal trials, such as in the Angela Davis and Juan Corona cases.

The measure by Sen. Fred Marler Jr., R-Redding, was sent Tuesday to the Ways and Means Committee.

It would require the state to reimburse counties for trial costs which exceed two cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

VD PROGRAM

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation establishing a state anti-venereal disease program has been passed by the Senate.

The bill, by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-Tiburon, was passed without debate on a 31-4 vote. The measure, which goes to the Assembly, appropriates $69,625 to the state Department of Public Health to conduct an information program.

Most Marin Teachers To Receive Pay Increases

Teachers in most Marin school districts will receive both step increases and salary schedule raises in their first paychecks for the new school year as result of revised rulings by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Joseph Amato of the county superintendent of schools office said today that new EOP rulings have permitted step increases incorporated into spring rehiring contracts for this school year as well as salary schedule hikes effective before the Aug. 15 wage freeze.

"As of today," said Amato, pay checks for September will include or exclude both increases as follows:

Step increase included: Bolinas-Stinson, Dixie, Fairfax, Kentfield, Lagunitas, Larkspur, Mill Valley, Nicasio, Redd, Ross, San Anselmo and Sausalito Elementary School Districts; San Rafael Elementary and High School Districts; Novato Unified District; Tamalpais High School District; Marin Community College District.

There will be no step increases in Laguna, Lincoln and Union Elementary School Districts and Shoreline Unified District.

Salary schedule increases included: Dixie, Fairfax, Kentfield, Laguna, Larkspur, Lincoln, Ross and Union Elementary Districts; San Rafael Elementary and High School Districts; Tamalpais High School District; Marin Community College District.

There will be no schedule increase in Bolinas-Stinson, Lagunitas, Mill Valley, Nicasio, Reed, San Anselmo and Sausalito Elementary Districts and Shoreline Unified District.

The Shoreline teachers voluntarily gave up step increases and asked no salary schedule hike because of the district's financial bind, resulting from loss of assessed valuation through land acquisition by the federal government for Point Reyes National Seashore and placing of much land in agricultural preserve.

Two Admitted To Hospital In Auto Accident

A 48-year-old Corte Madera woman and a companion from San Francisco were admitted last night to Marin General Hospital for injuries sustained in a two-car accident.

Hospital spokesmen said Sibyl V. Rodrigues of 1495 Casa Buena Drive, driver of one vehicle, was in serious condition today suffering broken ribs.

The passenger in her auto, Murray A. Gier, 55, of San Francisco, was listed in fair condition also suffering broken ribs.

Corte Madera police said the accident occurred when the Rodrigues auto apparently ran a red light at the intersection of Tamalpais Drive and Madera Boulevard.

Officers said she was traveling south on Madera when she collided at 6:30 p.m. with an auto driven by Albert Carl Lamperti, 30, of 124 Gloria Drive, San Rafael. He was traveling west on Tamalpais, officers said.

Meeting Is Reset For Library Board

San Rafael Library Board's October meeting, which regularly would fall on Oct. 11, will be held Oct. 20 instead to allow the board to complete its interviews of architects on library expansion plans before the regular session.

The board last night interviewed Andrew J. Ring and Tak Enomoto of the San Rafael firm of Enomoto and Ring, and John Field and David L. Paoli of the San Francisco firm of Bull, Field, Volkmann, Stockwell. Further interviews will be held next Monday and Wednesday at 7:45 p.m. in the children's room of the library.

Lagunitas Trustees Set A Town Hall Meeting

Lagunitas School District trustees will conduct a town hall session next month to garner public ideas for the district goals and objectives report which must be submitted to the state by next March.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 4 in San Geronimo Valley School, according to Supt. William E. Johnson.

Discussion of the goals and objectives consumed much of the board's time at its meeting Monday night, Johnson said. As a result, several agenda items were put over to the board's next meeting, at 7:30 p.m. next Monday in San Geronomo Valley School.

The Lagunitas School District Board also:

VACANCY — Asked the county schools office to prepare an election to fill the seat resigned for business reasons Monday by Trustee Eugene G. Di Basilio, whose term was to have expired in 1973.

NATURE STUDY — Increased from $1,200 to $1,700 the funds earmarked to develop a nature study guide for use by the district's pupils.

FIELD TRIPS — Asked district staff to prepare a proposed policy on class field trips for discussion at the board's Oct. 11 meeting.

RECYCLING — Agreed to ask the district student council to consider sponsoring recycling programs.

WAGE FREEZE — Reassured teachers the district will pay as much as the presidential wage-price freeze permits, and will not divert any unspent payroll funds to other purposes in the district.

TEACHER SUPERVISION — Deferred discussion to next Monday's meeting.

PERFORMING ARTS — Approved allocating $168 to match Parent-Teacher Association funds to send each district pupil to at least two performances of the countywide Youth In Arts program.

MUSIC PROGRAM — Approved hiring part time vocal and instrumental music teachers for the district.

The Miami area offers to travelers more than 65,000 hotel-motel rooms, the largest concentration in the world.

TONIGHT LOOK 4 (YOU'LL NEVER LOOK BETTER)

Modular Housing Attacked

Sausalito City councilmen and staff officials sharply criticized modular — prefabricated — housing last night, then asked the city planning commission to do something about the threat.

H. Eric Borgwardt, city plancing director, warned that the state has preempted many city controls on factory-built housing, which could be scattered throughout Sausalito single-family neighborhoods on single lots by speculators.

The only existing "privately owned example of modular housing in Sausalito borrows heavily from the values created by established nearby dwellings. And it can only tend to diminish the values . . ." Borgwardt told the council.

"There is no such thing as 'low cost housing' in Sausalito" due to high land prices, the official declared. He said only public agencies should develop modular housing projects.

He told the council that one answer might be to extend the powers of the city architectural advisory board and planning commission over single-family homes. He pointed out previous strong objections to the idea.

Councilman Wyman Hicks declared that "the particular home that brought us to this discussion is incredibly bad" but that Midwestern modular housing firms hire "the best architects" and are "a big industry."

William Hynes, city building inspector, showed photos of what he said were bad examples of conventional homes approved by the city architectural review panel. Sausalito, he said, was renowned for its architecture, but not due to the CAAB efforts.

Hynes expressed doubt that modular housing "is going to be that important in expensive Sausalito," and said architects would object strongly to having their residential plans "picked apart by the CAAB."

Ronald A. Martin of 41 Lincoln Drive, a neighbor of the controversial modular house, presented a letter from the Buena Vista Heights Homeowners Protective Association. It asked help from City Atty. Leland H. Jordan to determine whether the tract covenant might not bar the prefabricated building under a requirement for review of plans for any house moved into the 58-home subdivision. The city may have an interest in property in the subdivision, Jordan noted.

Councilmen asked Jordan to investigate.

The Sausalito City Council also:

PARK — Accepted a proposal by the Community Park Volunteers for no-cost improvement of a four-acre city park site between Litho and Napa streets, shoreward of Bridgeway. All labor and materials will be donated by volunteer residents and businessmen.

LOT SPLIT — Approved a lot split for the Arthur McIntosh property at 164 Santa Rosa Avenue, but ordered redesign to provide offstreet parking before a conditional use permit will be granted for a second home at the site.

PARKING — Postponed to Oct. 5, discussion of Police Chief James D. Wright's request to restrict parking at 46, 47 and 52-54 Bulkley Avenue, and to reinstate permitted parking at 482-48 Sausalito Boulevard.

SIDEWALKS — Received a proposed ordinance from Chief Wright that would make obstructing sidewalks or store entries an infraction subject to a fine up to $500 on the first offense, and a misdemeanor in repeated cases. Citizen Peter Crawford branded the proposed ordinance "just an harassment" and Councilman Stephen A. Fraser called the ordinance "so broadly" worded "it bothers me." "You've got to provide me tools to work with," Wright answered as the council postponed action.

ABATEMENT — Unanimously voted to order cleanup of trash and felled trees at the intersection of Butte Street and Highway 101.

MEMORIAL — Asked Jean Dyk, enhancement chairman of the Sausalito Women's Club, to suggest a better site for a planted area, park bench and bronze marker in tribute to the late Anita Koenig. Mrs. Dyke presented an offer from the club to place the memorial at the corner of Princess Street and Bulkley Avenue, which councilmen felt was inaccessible to the public.

DECORATIONS — Postponed action on Woman's Club offer to install hanging plants on light poles on Caledonia Street, after Norman Wohlschlaeger, public works director, predicted maintenance problems would result.

SCHOOL BUS — Approved Wohlschlaeger's revised plans for a sidewalk at San Carlos and Santa Rosa avenues for children waiting to board buses.

At School

The Marin County Bloodmobile will be at the Mount Carmel School auditorium from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday. The school is located at Buena Vista and East Blithedale avenues, Mill Valley.

Downtown Plan Is Outlined To Protect Sausalitans

Sausalito City Council members listened last night to two proposals to save part of the city's downtown for Sausalitans instead of tourists.

Norman Wohlschlaeger, director of public works, presented proposals to convert Pine, Locust and Bee streets to one-way from Caledonia Street to Bridgeway, to ban left turns from the three streets onto Bridgeway and to allow angle parking on both sides of the three streets in the one-way portions.

These, combined with possible use of the city's lot on Bee Street as parking for Sausalitans only, would add about 50 spaces for city residents going downtown to shop, Wohlschlaeger estimated.

The public works director added that the left-turn bans would reduce collision hazards at three intersections on Bridgeway.

Councilmen debated whether to allow one-hour free parking or meter the spaces, for not more than 5 cents an hour. "Meters are ugly," Councilman Robin Sweeny declared, urging a six-months test of free one-hour parking.

Councilman Stephen A. Fraser unveiled another idea he said was designed to preserve Caledonia Street for stores serving Sausalito needs rather than catering to tourism. He urged revision of the city's waterfront ordinance to prevent visitor-oriented shops from "seeping in" among Caledonia Street's hometown stores.

"I want to blow the whistle on it right now," he said.

City Atty. Leland H. Jordan, Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt and other councilmen pointed out the legal difficulties of keeping tourist-oriented shops out of the area.

William Remak of the Sausalito Artists and Merchants Association said that both proposals needed study by the store owners, because "the business community should be governed by the consent of the governed."

The city is given unique character by such things as its many fine restaurants and its five goldsmiths, he argued, even though Sausalito itself could not possibly support such enterprises. Hometown service stores on Caledonia Street, he declared, are "being held too small" by the city, and their operators will move elsewhere to achieve higher business volume.

The councilmen agreed to hold a public hearing at their Oct. 5 meeting to learn public reaction to the one-way street plans. Mayor Alexander R. Imlay asked Fraser to meet with Remak, Borgwardt, Jordan and others to study revision of the downtown zoning or stricter curbs on business licenses.

Innocent Plea To Auto Theft

Timothy Guy Tuttle, 18, of no known address, has pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court to two felony counts of car theft.

Trial was set for the week of Nov. 1.

Tuttle was arrested Aug. 30 in possession of two cars reported stolen, according to San Rafael police, who said he might have used one of several master keys found in his possession to open the car doors.

Barbed Wire Removal Told

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The founder of the "Church of Satan" has been ordered to remove the barbed wire that protects his home from curiosity seekers.

Anton LaVey and his attractive wife, Diane, said they erected a cyclone fence with barbed wire on top because of harassment. The San Francisco Board of Permit Appeals said LaVey could keep the fence but must remove the barbs.

"We've been harassed so much that I can't even count the number of times I've called police," Diane said.

The Case Of A Snake-Bite Victim

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Saving a person's life sometimes involves — in addition to the medical team — many people and agencies in the community, as in the case of a recent snake-bite victim hospitalized at the University of California's Moffitt Hospital.

One night a custom agent at San Francisco International Airport, while opening a shipment of venomous snakes from Europe (destined for a local pet shop), was bit on the finger by a deadly asp-viper. There was rapid onset of pain and swelling of his hand and he was rushed to Moffitt Hospital.

Karl Switak, supervising herpetologist at Steinhart Aquarium in Golden Gate Park, was asked to locate the particular antivenin (antitoxin) effective against the asp-viper venom. He tracked some down at the Los Angeles Zoo, and the medication was flown to San Francisco and delivered by a police patrol car. Ony five hours elapsed between the bite and the administration of anti-venin, thanks to the close cooperation between personnel of zoos, museums, airlines, and police departments of two cities.

There are about 650 million domesticated sheep in the world.

Irrigation By Seawater Studied

I-J Special Report

SAN DIEGO — Scientists in all parts of the world are working to increase the food supply. One of the boldest efforts toward this goal is the direct use of seawater to irrigate dry land.

Because of the high cost of converting ocean brine into fresh water, successful seawater irrigation would be a far more practical approach to arid region farming than current attempts to irrigate with desalinated water.

Before seawater irrigation becomes a reality, however, scientists must first figure out how to condition certain commercial plants to salty water.

Researchers Mrs. Peta Mudie and Walter Schmitt at Scripps Institution of Oceanography, University of California, last October set up a special laboratory for seawater irrigation experiments under the direction of Prof. John D. Isaacs.

So far the two researchers have successfully grown ordinary table beets in full-strength seawater, a solution containing 3.5 percent salt.

All Scripps test plants are first raised in fresh water and then gradually introduced to brine cultures when a few inches tall. This is a technique common to most seawater irrigation experiments because most plants are usually extremely salt-sensitive in the seedling stage.

Thus the table beets raised in full-strength seawater grew for the first two months in fresh water. But the fact that they could grow and continue to develop for the next two-and-a-half months in pure seawater is a dramatic statement in favor of continuing investigations into the possibilities of seawater irrigation.

Others besides Mudie and Schmitt say they have coaxed plants into accepting seawater. An early record mentions a group of 18th century Spanish monks who supposedly produced a variety of healthy crops by watering them with seawater which they let flow into irrigation channels at high tide.

In 1949, Hugo Boyko, ecological adviser to the Ministry of Agriculture of Israel, and his wife introduced vegetation on a six-acre tract of land in the Negev Desert. They raised 180 species of plants by irrigating them with salty underground water from a nearby oasis.

Mudie claims Boyko was revolutionary because he bypassed the main barrier to seawater irrigation: he planted his crops in sand, not in soil containing clay. Sand, because it is porous and almost chemically inert, doesn't cause the salt to build up and kill plants, as do clay soils.

Scripps experiments are currently underway on beets, chard, barley, and other species planted in silica sand.

While Mudie and Schmitt took an important step forward in successfully raising plants in full-strength solution, their most encouraging laboratory results were with beets grown in three-quarter-strength seawater.

Impact Of Air Pollution On Ecology System Eyed

I-J Special Report

RIVERSIDE — In a major new approach to the problem of air pollution, the impact of air pollutants on a total ecology system will be studied by research scientists at the Statewide Air Pollution Research Center at the University of California.

The first phase of the study is to organize a research program that may take as long as 10 years to complete, said Dr. O. Clifton Taylor, associate director of the center.

He said the intensive research effort would be conducted in the Lake Arrowhead area of the San Bernardino mountains. The planning phase is being developed under a $42,800 grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. Ultimately, the project is expected to be a multi-million dollar one, Taylor indicated.

"We will want to examine the effects of air pollutants on the total ecology of a forest region," Dr. Taylor said. "This would include its effects on plant and animal life, on water shed, underground water resources, the effects on land value, land use and ultimately, its effects on human population."

When the study is completed, all of the information gathered could be used to develop a computer model to test the impact of pollutants on similar ecological systems in other parts of of the United States.

Recently, more than 40 scientists form UC Riverside, UC Berkeley, UC Davis, UC Los Angeles, the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Forestry, the Pacific Southwest Forest Research Extension Station, and the Environmental Protection Agency met for an initial planning session.

"This was a productive session," Dr. Taylor said, "and we will continue to meet until we have developed an administrative organization to carry out the study, and until we have outlined carefully what the goals and objectives of the study are."

Last Year's Hemline Havoc Fades

Last year's havoc and confusion over the hemline — long or short — stirred up one of the hottest fashion controversies of the past decade.

Today it no longer is even the remotest issue. The knee? Now you see it, now you don't.

When it comes to fashion, anything goes.

Unexpectedly, out of all the chaos emerges a new fashion order — complete independence. And, with it emerges a new fashion statement. Women will never again slavishly adhere to any one fashion dictate.

This theme is echoed and reechoed in fall's styles, fabrics and colors. Each appears everywhere, at any time of day or night.

Appearing coincidentally with this new free-spirit is another trend. Revival. Revival of elegance — or the "civilized" look. Revival of the classics, and a dip into the mood of the '40s.

For new, young, alert fashion it's the layer-on-layer look — vivid colors and separates put together.

Both the classics and the elegants include two styles missing from the picture for some time — the pretty feminine dress and the suit.

Dresses move easily and softly with gores and bias cuts, pleats and lots of flare. Shirtdresses and sweater dresses appear alone or teamed with blazers and cardigans.

Wrap dresses are back, as are prim little schoolgirl styles. The beloved "little black dress" reappears for every occasion, at every length.

Lengths? Everything from short-short to knee-length to mid-calf to ankle to full-length.

Fabrics are foils for the feminine styles. Included are knits, jerseys, wools, polyesters, corduroy, chiffon, satin-back crepes and velvets in endless array.

Tweeds, plaids, herringbones, jacquards and argyles are in quick-step with ribby things and solid tones.

Colors run the gamut from earth tones to vivid reds and yellows. Black, navy and white are seen often.

In suits, it's something for everyone. Short cropped jackets, blazers, cardigans and a revival of the seven-eighths length appear.

The tailored suit or the softer costume are both found in wools and flannels, tweeds and knits, velvet and satin. Colors range from black to brilliant.

Leather and suede suits and coats achieve a new importance this season.

The coat story features the return of the wrap coat. Untrimmed or heaped with lush furs, it shows up everywhere. Mid-calf is one very popular length. The shortcoat tops pants and skirts with aplomb. The seven-eighths length is sportive. The "chubby" is back, too.

Fake furs and fun furs and real furs add excitement to fall fashions. Luxury or little-priced, they will be accents to every wardrobe.

Fabrics can be wool meltons, suedes, alpacas, knits, tapestries or mohair.

Colors are clear with wine shades appearing along with green, brown and, of course, black.

Capes appear often in every fabric and color.

Accessories also reflect the new independence.

Jewelry can be small and equisite, or huge and sculptured. Gloves can be wrist-length or to-the-elbow. Shoes run the gamut from open strappy styles to laced-up gladiator sandals. Boots, with every heel height, are worn everywhere.

Millinery can be the close little cloche, a beret, a wide sideswept brim, or a flirtatious bit of veiling.

The Tank Top Out Of Swimming Pool

In the midst of torrid summer days, fashion leaders in Paris were wearing cotton knit sleeveless tank tops over crisp blouses that billowed away from their arms. With the tops they wore everything from hot pants to maxi skirts.

Now the tank top has leaped out of the swimming pool and into the fashion picture in a look you'll be seeing everywhere this fall and winter, on the campus, in offices and at home.

There's a fall feeling in a costume that combines a dark tank top worn over a dark sheer blouse. It's an easy-care fashion when the blouse is made of a synthetic fabric and goes into the washing machine, then into the dryer and out, ready to wear with simple touch-up ironing.

Sizing, a modern ironing aid, makes the touch-up ironing almost as easy as the laundering. A special lubricant in sizing makes the iron glide over fabrics to speed up the ironing. Sizing is right for a sheer, dark blouse because it adds a finish that is as crisp as starch. And, because sizing does not flake or scorch, you can use it on dark fabrics to put back the "like new" body and finish that wearing and laundering remove even from the manmade fabrics.

These new fashion tops have an advantage the swimming pool tank tops never had. Their modern blend of cotton and man-made fibers have a talent for holding their shape through laundering. You simply wash and dry as directed. Then, for a "like new" finish, spray with sizing and press. Regular Magic sizing is ideal for these cotton knits because it adds body without stiffness and thus helps retain the important clinging qualities of the knit.

If you enjoy putting together your own costumes, you'll like the tank top. It can give you the look of a doublet-clad Elizabethan page, the nostalgic look of a 40s siren, or today's layered look.

FINISH LINE SPRINT

A contestant in the Corte Madera Center's Bike to School Races held last month sprints toward the finish line, well ahead of the rest of the field. More than 100 young racers competed in the contest, which also included bike safety clinics, demonstrations of the latest cycling equipment and accessories and a race by experienced bicycle competitors. The event was officiated by members of the Marin Cyclists. Winners of Bike to School Races in past years have gone on to become prominent in cycle racing through the U.S.

Michigan Reports Increase In Crime

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)— More than 336,000 major crimes were reported in Michigan in 1970, an increase of 26 per cent over 1969, says the State police annual crime report.

Of the 336,326 major crimes, including homicide, rape, assault and burglary, 73.1 per cent were committed by persons under 22 years old. Over a five-year period, major crimes in Michigan have increased 99.6 per cent from the 1966 level.

'Look Of Gentlemen' Returning

The man who is tired of gimmicky clothes and far-out fashions is coming into his own this season.

The "look of the gentleman" and a feeling of quiet elegance prevails, according to the Men's Fashion Association.

Although the fashion pendulum seems to be swinging back, with emphasis on nostalgia, there are still plenty of fresh ideas and plenty of fashion excitement.

THE MOST popular suit style appears to be a shaped two-button, single-breasted model. The jacket is longer, frequently with a deep-center vent. Lapels are wide, and pocket flaps are also wide — creating a nice balance.

The big excitement in suits and sports coats is generated by knits. Knits in tailored clothing offer new comfort and wrinkle-resistant qualities to today's male.

Found in plaids and patterns as well as solids, knits feature the same fashion details — such as fancy backs and pocket treatments — found in standard clothing.

Knit sportshirts are featuring skinny ribs this year. Fitting close to the body, they feature oversized collars and often, chest flap pockets.

PATTERNED, geometric or flocked knit shirts appear in a myriad of color combinations.

The newest sweaters for fall sport Art Deco and argyle diamond patterns that could have been copied from a 1930's canvas.

These patterns can be found in sleeveless sweaters that feature either a U- or V-neck. When worn over a lightweight sweater, or with a shirt and bow tie, the look is complete.

In tune with the nostalgia sweaters, Oxford bags — high-waisted pants cut very full from top to bottom — return to the sportswear scene. In the same mood there are also pleated trousers with high waistbands.

Corduroy and leather appear on the fashion scene in a wealth of colors and styles.

Tweeds appear to be making a strong comeback, and they come in many tweedy color combinations including handsome donegals.

THE TWEED knicker suit is one of the newest returns to the past, featuring patch pockets and belted backs. A really complete classical look includes a matching cap and tweed patterned knee-length hose.

Other patterns seem on the fall scene include stripes, checks and plaids. All of them are subdued: stripes are chalk, checks are mini and plaids are subtle.

Colors, like patterns, are toned down, but several light years away from somber black and navy. Dark reds, maroons and wine shades seem to take preference.

In addition, light browns and tans add softness to a man's fashion plumage this season.

Montgomery Ward Has 99th Birthday

From a modest beginning in a tiny room, Montgomery Ward has grown steadily and dramatically since it was founded in 1872. The company was begun by A. Montgomery Ward in a 12-by-14-foot room from which the first printed circular was sent out.

Today there are some 462 retail stores, 660 catalog stores and 961 catalog sales agencies. Last year alone more than $73 million was spent in new stores and this year's budget calls for an expenditure in the neighborhood of $93 million for expansion of present stores, capital improvement and the building of 24 new stores.

In keeping with Ward's policy, the Corte Madera store carries a multitude of stock — everything, in fact, needed for the home, garden and auto, as well as the latest, most up-to-day and stylish fashions for every member of the family.

Don Carey is advertising manager of the Corte Madera store and Don Gillis, the manager, also serves on the board of directors of the Marin Chapter of the United Bay Area Crusade, and served as its president in 1970.

Adjacent to the store is the Wards automotive center, where values abound in needs for bicycles and auto accessories. The staffs of both the auto center and the main store are courteous and eager to help their customers find the merchandise they need at a reasonable price.

The Feminine Dress Is Staging Fashion Comeback

The lovely, feminine dress is staging a great big fashion revival this fall.

As women clamor for pretty dresses again — and some of them have not had a dress in their wardrobes for over a year — civilized and classic looks reappear.

The line-up of styles is seemingly endless.

The classics include shirtdresses and sweater dresses, dresses with blazers and long cardigans.

They are found in plaids, menswear patterns, flannels, velvets, herringbones, tweeds and argyles.

The body dress moves fluidly with gores, bias cuts, pleats and lots of flare.

The schoolgirl looks appear with prim white collars and cuffs.

The divided skirt is very much in evidence, and dresses over shortpants and warmpants are seen often.

The one-piece dress frequently looks like a two-piecer — and in reverse — the two-piecer often comes up looking like one.

The wrap dress echoes the wrap coat revival.

New shoulder treatments for dresses include the cap sleeve, the capelet and padded shoulders. Puffed sleeves and full romantic sleeves are seen again and again.

Knits and jerseys, in wool or polyesters, are perfect foils for the soft feeling. Crepe de chines and satin back crepes lead elegant lives.

Still Together After 37 Years

Thirty-seven years ago, two 12-year-old North Beach boys with fine musical talent and a flair for business decided to seek their fortunes together.

And today — after working in top dance bands, in war surplus stores and eventually in a men's apparel store in the Corte Madera Center — the two are still at it.

They are Louis N. Malvino and George P. Campanelli, owner of Louis George, Fine Men's Apparel, 30 Corte Madera Center.

Showing a talent for working together in music and in business, rare among partners, Louis and George — in their early 40's — are celebrating their 25th anniversary in fine men's wear and laying plans for future expansion.

The two met while playing school dance bands together.

Campanelli was attending Galileo High School and Malvino was attending Sacred Heart — both in San Francisco.

Campanelli went to San Francisco State College and Malvino to University of San Francisco, graduating in business administration.

During the war, Campanelli wrote musical scores while a member of the Army Air Force Band; and Malvino played with the Army band.

But at the war's end, they went into business for good.

New Sandwich Shop Is Opened

The International Sandwich Shoppe has come to the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Operating the shop is John Schultheis III. He is offering gourmet delicatessen-type sandwiches — and domestic beers as well as soups, salads and other hot and cold beverages.

Schultheis is also offering a catering service for weddings, banquets, luncheons and parties.

The shop, at 66 Corte Madera Shopping Center, is open seven days a week from 8 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., weekdays, and 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Saturdays and Sundays.

Prior to opening the CMC store, Shultheis worked for his brother-in-law, Mike Burgess, at the later's International Gourmet Sandwich Shoppe in Terra Linda.

Similar shops are planned by the pair in other Marin locations in the near future.

'No-Tricks' In Suits This Season

"America is in a 'no-tricks' but fine tailoring mood," the National Board of Coat and Suit Industry remarks. It's an "over the wider shoulder" glance at the 40s with bias-cut skirts. A nostalgic look at the 30s with chubby jacket effects. Classics with zippy themes and hot pants suspense.

If you don't wear those you-know-what pants — even with blazer and skirt, there are other goodies. Coats with big-wheel collars, lapels and hide-the-code patch pockets. Honest hoods. Funnel collars if you're high on individuality.

Fox trims in shades of yesterday. Raccoon. Monkey — black or dyed — has leading-lady appeal.

Fake furs softer, more natural. From seal to mink doubles. Or villainous-looking wildcat, wolf.

Suits give important performances. Mobile skirts, hacking jackets. Tap-dancer blazers. Dinner suits. Jacket or skirt length not the story, only the P.S. Just below knee or downward. Upward, if you've got the gams or the lack of years.

Costumes — no cliches. Mixed patterns strike the "not too matched" note. Tailored dresses with the right jacket, coats, capes. Each piece a star. Not an understudy.

If you pant for pants, there are ensembles. With great-coats, capes, three-quarter coats that top everything. Or go midway with warmpants or culotte costumes.
